Giant Plane Crashes, 129 Aboard Killed

Plummets Into Farm Near Tokyo, Bursts Aflame, None Saved

TOKYO, Friday, June 19 (AP)—The world's worst air disaster killed every one of 129 U. S. servicemen aboard a giant Globemaster in a fiery crash near Tokyo yesterday.

The great, two-decked C124, its engines failing after a take-off for Korea, was trying desperately to get back to Tachikawa airbase, 25 miles west of Tokyo.

The Globemaster went into a flat spin, staggered, and plummeted nose down into a muddy farm.

Terrific Roar Heard

Japanese farmers said there was a terrific flash and a roar as the 3,000 gallons of gasoline aboard burst into flame. Then the dead and dying were incinerated in a towering funeral pyre.

"The smell of burned oil and human flesh was terrible," AP Correspondent Stan Carter reported from the scene. "The bodies were terribly burned and mangled.

"The fire was so hot it ignited magnesium metal in the plane's framework and part of it burned like a thermite bomb.

"The salvage crews were working in leg-deep mud. It was like something from the Korean battlefield—medics carrying the bodies away in litters and the ambulances filing slowly down the road."

Hours later, by searchlight, Air Force crews worked to recover the charred bodies. One victim was found still clasping a rosary. Apparently he had been praying when his fate overtook him.

The Air Force said it would hold an immediate investigation to try to discover the cause of the crash.

Of the total aboard, seven were crew members and the rest were airmen and Army Engineers attached to airbases in Korea. The men were returning from rest leave in Japan.

Farmer Is Burned

All Far East C124 four-engined giants, capable of carrying 222 passengers, had just gone back into service after being grounded over the week end with generator trouble. In recent days, flights had been cancelled several times because of mechanical trouble.

The Air Force said, however, there was nothing to indicate coming trouble on the fatal flight. The weather, while rainy and murky, was well within safe flying limits.

"I heard a tremendous sound of engines," said 35-year-old farmer Hiroji Kato, who was burned by hot metal thrown from the wreck.

"I looked up. The huge plane was falling on me. I almost fainted. Then it crashed and exploded."

Soviets Using Terror To Stem Berlin Riots

Cities Under Siege, Man Executed

BERLIN, June 18 (AP)—The Soviet Army executed a Berlin worker today and resorted to military terror to beat down an anti-Communist revolt in East Germany.

Nine cities from the Oder to the Elbe River were put under a state of siege. Russian armored forces took over their control.

A general protest strike still gripped East Berlin. It was a ghost town ringed by 200 Soviet tanks. Ten thousand Russian soldiers sealed it off from West Berlin.

Somewhere behind red-flagged Brandenburg Gate, on the border between East and West Berlin, a firing squad riddled the first German condemned to death by a Soviet drumhead court for the workers' uprising against Red government.

Announces Execution

Maj. Gen. P. T. Dibrova, ruling a million East Berliners by martial law, announced the execution with propaganda fanfare.

He charged that the victim, Willi Goettling, was a resident of West Berlin who had "worked on order of a foreign intelligence service" and "participated in the violent banditry yesterday against the organs of power" in the Russian sector. He left open the question of whether more executions would follow.

More than 100 East Berliners, accused by Communist informers of joining the demonstrations, were jailed.

But hundreds of thousands apparently stayed home today despite orders by the East German government to return to work immediately.

Official Communist proclamations admitted that only a fraction of the city's Eastern industries—gripped yesterday by a general strike that mushroomed through the rank and file of Red-run unions—resumed any activity today. Sabotage was hinted at several plants. Factory chimneys visible from the Western sectors were bare of civilians. But Soviet tanks and armored cars moved about.

Germans Are Aroused

Goettling's execution horrified Germans already aroused by the death of at least 16 persons in East Berlin's street fighting and unconfirmed reports that from seven to 22 persons had been killed in similar rioting at Magdeburg.

West Berlin's lord mayor, Ernest Reuter, told newsmen: "The Allies cannot accept this in silence. They must intervene at once with Soviet authorities to stop further executions. Reuter had just flown home from Vienna, where he attended an international conference of mayors.

A West German government spokesman in Bonn denounced the execution as "further shedding of innocent blood . . . to pay for the mistakes of an unjust regime." Flags in Bonn were half-staffed in mourning for the dead and wounded.

West German political leaders counseled East Berliners to save their lives by "respecting the governing power of the Soviets, with all its consequences."

Across the tank-guarded sector border, Communist organizations announced a series of public meetings to "proclaim our loyalty to the government of the German democratic republic." The first meeting was held in the Comic Opera Theater.

The Russians acted to black out East Berlin from Western eyes. They cut telephone communication between their zone and the Bonn Republic to stop news leaks on widespread unrest.

Potsdam, headquarters of the 300,000-man Soviet army stationed in East Germany, was among the Eastern cities thrown under martial law. From Magdeburg, on the Elbe, to Cottbus, near the Polish frontier, heavily-armed Russian forces supplanted local Communist authorities.

UN Forces Hurl Back 4,000 Reds

SEOUL, Friday, June 19 (AP)—More than 4,000 Chinese Communists launched new pre-armistice attacks yesterday on key hills in Central and East Korea and were hurled back with heavy losses.

While reports flew that details had been agreed on for an armistice, and Communist front line loudspeakers boomed that "The War is over," the Chinese struck hill positions held by South Koreans and Greeks.

The Reds ran into a storm of U. S. tank and artillery fire at Outpost Harry on the Central Front, where they sent 3,000 troops down the valleys and up the hill held by the Greeks.

Chopped up, they fell back with 120 dead and 480 wounded, the Eighth Army reported.

Farther east, at the western end of a front where they had hammered out two-mile gains in an offensive early this week, 500 or more Communists knocked South Koreans from a hill southeast of Finger Ridge.

About 25 miles to the east, a Red force of similar size drove South Koreans from M-1 Ridge southwest of Christmas Hill.

The South Koreans counterattacked at both Finger Ridge and Christmas Hill and recaptured both positions.

Admits Mistake In Henie Case

BALTIMORE, June 18 (AP)—Judge John T. Tucker admitted today he had made a mistake and that the Sonja Henie Ice Revue, Inc., should be liable for any damages in the collapse of a grandstand.

The judge upset part of a jury verdict which had held that neither Miss Henie personally nor her corporation is liable. Judge Tucker said in his reversal that the corporation question should not have been submitted to the jury.

He didn't interfere with the juror's decision that Miss Henie herself is not personally subject to suit. The jury had put all liability on Edwin P. Cornati, a contractor who erected the bleachers.

About 350 suits seeking five million dollars are pending as result of the bleacher collapse at the Fifth Regiment Armory March 6, 1952.

Judge Tucker had reviewed the jury decision at the request of lawyers for those seeking damages. In holding the ice revue corporation equally responsible with the bleacher contractor, he said the duty of providing a safe place for spectators could not be delegated.

Killed On Range

FORT DIX, N. J., June 18 (INS)—Pvt. Frank X. Zirnheld, 20, of Buffalo, N. Y., was killed and 16 other recruits were injured today when a shell exploded prematurely during a mortar demonstration on the Fort Dix firing range.

More Anti-Red POW's Bolt

UN Command Reports 905 Make Escape

Bloody Fights Break Out, Many Are Killed

SEOUL, Friday, June 19 (AP)—More than 900 anti-Communist Korean prisoners of war bolted to freedom last night in a fresh gesture of defiance of the U. N. Command less than 12 hours after some 25,000 POWs were released on orders of South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

The U. N. Prisoner of War Command said the new mass break came at Yongchon, some 70 miles northwest of Pusan. The command said 905 prisoners crashed through nine-foot wire fences but that about 235 POWs remained in camp.

South Korean security guards used tear gas and fired some shots in an effort to stop the break. The command said one prisoner was wounded.

Touches Off Fighting

The South Korean government's unauthorized release of 25,000 anti-Red prisoners in the predawn hours Thursday touched off bloody fighting during the day between POWs and U. S. Marines.

The battle-tested Marines killed up to 33 prisoners and wounded scores more at a stockade near Inchon, Seoul's port city. Four hundred prisoners escaped through eight-foot-high barbed wire fences but up to 100 were recaptured.

Two Marines were wounded seriously. The camp's commander said carbine fire was poured on the Marines from a nearby rice field. He did not elaborate. Apparently it came from Korean sympathizers.

The escaping prisoners scattered among a populace urged by President Syngman Rhee to give them hiding along with the 25,000 others who easily fled four stockades in South Korea yesterday while South Korean guards turned their backs.

Outnumbered U. S. guards killed nine escaping prisoners and wounded 16 yesterday. Battalions of Marines and soldiers were rushed in and took over guard duty, replacing the Rhee - controlled South Koreans.

Rhee took full responsibility for his order which struck at the heart of an impending armistice agreement. He said he did it without consulting with U. N. officials and one of his spokesmen boasted, "We pulled the rug out from under them."

Rush In Reinforcements

Rushing in reinforcements after military leaves were cancelled, U. S. troops quickly rounded up nearly 1,000 of the freed prisoners.

A courier hurried to Panmunjom with a letter from the senior U. N. truce delegate assuring the Reds "every effort is being made to recover the prisoners."

It was considered a well-nigh impossible task. Discarding prisoner garb for civilian clothes, the thousands could hide away indefinitely in remote homes among the hills. Some of those recaptured today near Inchon wore civilian clothing.

Many were reported planning to join the South Korean Army but high military sources cast doubt on this.

What effect the defiant action might have on the nearly-accomplished armistice agreement was not yet clear, but there was some optimism that it would have no immediate effect.

Bramblett Pleads Innocent To Charge

3WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Rep. Ernest K. Bramblett (R - Calif) pleaded innocent today in U. S. District Court to 18 charges of payroll padding and receiving kickbacks from his office employes.

Chief Judge Bolitha J. Laws set trial for Oct. 19. The date is subject to motions for postponement.

The 52-year-old fourth-term congressman appeared for his arraignment accompanied by his attorney, Edward Bennett Williams. His only words were "Not guilty" when asked how he wished to plead.

Dedicate Signs

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Maryland Civil Defense authorities said the first of a series of civil defense highway signs will be dedicated tomorrow.

Gov. McKeldin is to be the speaker at dedication ceremonies for a sign at the Old Severn River Bridge which designates a section of the highway as a possible defense route in case of an attack.

Mother Of Three Commits Suicide

FREDERICK, June 18 (AP) — A 34-year-old mother of three children was found shot to death at her farm home near Keymar today and authorities said she killed herself.

Deputies from the sheriff's office said the body of Mrs. Madeline Doris Blessing, wife of Frank Blessing, a farmer, was found in the home.

The deputies and Dr. Charles H. Conley, acting county medical examiner, attributed her death to a self-inflicted shot in the head with a .22 caliber target pistol. No motive was immediately determined.

Tass Blames Clique

LONDON, June 19 (Friday) (INS) — The Soviet News Agency TASS said early today that the release of anti-communist North Korean war prisoners was "a provocative action of the Syngman Rhee clique."

Korea Envoy Departs

South Korean Premier Too Chin Paik (left) suddenly cuts short his visit in the United States and here shakes hands with South Korean Ambassador You Chan Yank at National Airport in Washington where Paik started to his homeland by air. Paik said he "must go" and that was all. His departure followed an accusation by the United States that South Korean President Syngman Rhee violated "the authority of the United Nations" in releasing anti-communist prisoners of war.

Ike Censures Rhee's Move Freeing POWs

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—The United States accused South Korean President Syngman Rhee today of violating "the authority of the United Nations Command" by releasing thousands of prisoners of war just as U. N. truce with the Reds appeared about ready for signing.

Secretary of State Dulles announced that President Eisenhower was communicating the American attitude to Rhee along with the declaration that the United States has conducted armistice negotiations in good faith and is continuing to act in good faith.

The grave uncertainty over the truce outlook resulting from Rhee's stunning action last night led to a series of top-level conferences here during the day.

Administration leaders were reported doing everything possible to bring the situation under control and minimize the dangers that the truce would be wrecked. Obviously one key to the future was whether the Reds wanted to seize upon this incident either to stall or block an armistice or press the U. N. for new concessions.

The prisoners whom Rhee released are part of a total of almost 50,000 who have declared they would resist repatriation to their Red homelands in North Korea and China. For more than a year, the question of what to do with them tied up truce negotiations.

Eisenhower conferred first today with members of Congress even as news reports raised the total of POWs released to 25,000 and made clear the magnitude of the conflict between the United Nations and South Korean plans. There was speculation that Rhee's aim was to disrupt the truce and achieve Korean unification through continuation of the war.

Later in the morning the President met with Dulles and other top advisors on the National Security Council. It was after this meeting that the first official administration reaction came out. Dulles told newsmen he had been conferring with the President on Rhee's action in releasing the POWs "prematurely," and added: "This action was in violation of the authority of the United Nations Command to which the Republic of Korea had agreed."

219 State Traffic Deaths Are Recorded

BALTIMORE (AP)—State Police report 219 persons died in Maryland Traffic accidents the first five months of this year, an increase of 18 per cent over the same period last year.

The Statistics Division said last month, with 34 highway deaths, was the heaviest month so far this year. Eight of the deaths were in Baltimore. Prince Georges had six to lead the counties.

Egypt Is Proclaimed Republic By Naguib

CAIRO, June 18 (INS)—Egypt, ancient land of the Pharaohs, was proclaimed a republic tonight and Gen. Mohammed Naguib—the man who forced King Farouk off the throne—became its first president and prime minister.

The abolition of the monarchy ended all royal titles.

Naguib simultaneously reshuffled the cabinet to include three members of his revolutionary council, which came to power after exiled King Farouk's abdication last summer in a sweeping reform movement against corruption.

Lt. Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, vice president of the revolutionary council, was named vice-premier and minister of the interior.

Maj. Salah Salem, the new minister of national guidance, said there would be no change in Egypt's foreign policy as a result of the switch to a republican form of government. He said:

"We are now in a better position to handle our foreign policy."

Abdel Hakim Amer, Naguib's aide-de-camp, was named commander of the armed forces.

A special constitutional committee last May 5 unanimously voted to replace the 5,000-year-old monarchy with a republic. The committee was given the job of drafting a new constitution.

Formal proclamation of the republic came as the nation girded for its struggle to win back from Britain control of the strategic Suez Canal zone. Naguib has declared without such control, Egypt would not be "independent."

The abolition of the monarchy slams the door on Farouk's hopes of placing his 17-month-old son, Ahmed Fuad II, on the throne.

After Farouk took his son into exile in Italy last July, the infant was proclaimed king of Egypt and the Sudan, and provision was made for a regency council to rule until Fuad became of age.

Tito Allows Red Boats To Move

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, June 18 (AP)—Yugoslavia granted permission today for the movement down the Danube River of 26 Soviet armed vessels bottled up in Vienna since this country broke with the Kremlin five years ago.

The Belgrade radio announced President Tito's independent Communist government approved a Soviet request, made Monday, to move the ships through the 300-mile Yugoslav section of the Danube to the Black Sea in five groups between June 22 and July 13.

The announcement did not disclose the types of vessels involved, but called them warships. Any ship capable of navigating the tricky old river presumably would be no larger than a gunboat. They must traverse the locks of the rock-bound Iron Gates, which lie between Yugoslavia and Romania.

It was the second Soviet request the Yugoslavs have granted in less than a week. Last Monday, Belgrade agreed to resume the exchange of ambassadors with Moscow and approved the Russian appointee, Vassily Valkov.

McCarthy Disagrees

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) differed with the Eisenhower administration today on President Syngman Rhee's release of thousands of prisoners in South Korea.

McCarthy told reporters "freedom-loving people throughout the world should applaud the action of Syngman Rhee." He said Rhee's decision must have been based on the question: "Why should anti-Communists be kept by us in prison stockades?"

Soviet Wives Given Visas

MOSCOW, June 18 (AP)—Soviet exit visas are to be granted four more Russian wives of Americans living in Moscow, U. S. ambassador Charles E. Bohlen said today. He got the word from Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Molotov told Bohlen that the permits to leave the Soviet Union will be issued to the wives of Thomas P. Whitney, a correspondent for The Associated Press; Henry Shapiro, United Press correspondent-Andrew Steiger of the British news agency Reuters; and George Atkins, engineer and buildings manager of the U. S. Embassy. Though he works for a British agency, Steiger is a native of Pittsburgh, Pa.

These and other cases were taken up by the ambassador in a 20-minute conference with Molotov May 12. It was announced last week that Russia had agreed to issue exit visas for the Russian wives of two Americans and the two children of an American woman who had divorced her Russian husband. Mrs. Eddy Gilmore, wife of the AP's chief of bureau in Moscow, was in this group.

For several years, Russia refused to allow the Russian mates of foreigners to leave the country. The Kremlin's spring peace offensive offered a chance to break the ice.

Blind Father Named

NEW YORK, June 18 (INS) — Anthony Sciolo, 51-year-old father of two Korea veterans and a teacher at the New York Association for the Blind, was selected tonight as the 1953 "Blind Father Of The Year" by the National Father's Day committee.

No Decision Given On Stay For A-Spies

Supreme Court To Recess Until Noon; Execution Delayed

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg won at least 24 more hours of life as the Supreme Court recessed tonight until 11 a.m., EST, tomorrow without a decision on their fate.

The high court announced its decision to postpone action on a stay of execution for the condemned couple at 5:29 p.m., EST,—only 4½ hours before the Rosenbergs would have paid the supreme penalty had a ruling been made against them.

Thus the hotly controversial stay granted yesterday by Justice William O. Douglas, and weighed at length by the full court in extraordinary session today, remained in force for the time being.

Debate Four Hours

The nine justices debated four hours in secrecy before postponing overnight their decision on a Justice Department motion to throw out the Douglas order and thus let the electrocutions take place at Sing Sing Prison.

Associate Justice Harold Burton mounted the bench alone to announce the postponement in these words:

"The court will stand in recess until tomorrow at 12 noon (11 a.m., EST.)"

If the court overrides Douglas tomorrow, the Rosenbergs can be executed tomorrow night or Saturday night.

Should the court go along with Douglas, the executions will be postponed while federal courts in New York decide whether the death sentence was properly imposed following the conviction of the New York couple on charges of wartime passing of U. S. atomic secrets to the Russians.

Tonight's court decision, adding fresh suspense to the spy drama that has stirred world opinion, came as demonstrators for the Rosenbergs massed in the streets of the capital—thousands strong.

Carrying signs that demanded clemency, they started a march on the White House minutes before Burton announced the postponement.

Refuses To Interfere

President Eisenhower already has refused to interfere with the Rosenberg's death sentence. It was his attorney general, Herbert Brownell Jr., who yesterday filed the motion to overrule Douglas' stay of execution, thus bringing the high court judges back from their summer recess.

All day—ironically, it was the Rosenbergs' 14th wedding anniversary—suspense had mounted as the hours which could have been the couple's last hours ticked away.

The almost unprecedented summer session of the court, the demonstrations at the White House and the Capitol, the rumbling echoes of controversy in other quarters here and abroad had made the Rosenbergs storm centers of a far-flung controversy.

The black-robed justices left their high bench at 2:32 p.m., EST, after hearing three hours of argument—some of it hot-tempered—for and against reversing Douglas' action.

The government got its chance

Woman Charged In Man's Death

ELKTON, Md., June 18 (AP) — State's Attorney J. Albert Roney Jr. today charged a 21-year-old woman with shooting to death her husband and said the motive was "jealousy over another woman."

The murder charge was filed against Mrs. Ella Elizabeth Gray. Her 25-year-old husband, Philip, was shot fatally early Wednesday morning.

Roney decided to file the charge after investigating Mrs. Gray's story that she shot her husband accidentally.

She said she received an anonymous telephone call that her husband was "in trouble" in Elkton. She said she took a .38 caliber pistol and started walking to town from the hunting lodge of which her husband had been caretaker.

On the way, she said, she met her husband and three other men in a car. The men got out and while they were talking with her the gun went off accidentally, she said.

Gray died of a bullet wound in the throat.

Mrs. Gray is the mother of a six-year-old girl. The child was asleep at home at the time of her father's death.

UN Forces Hurl Back 4,000 Reds

SEOUL, Friday, June 19 (AP)—More than 4,000 Chinese Communists launched new pre-armistice attacks yesterday on key hills in Central and East Korea and were hurled back with heavy losses.

While reports flew that details had been agreed on for an armistice, and Communist front line loudspeakers boomed that "The War is over," the Chinese struck hill positions held by South Koreans and Greeks.

The Reds ran into a storm of U. S. tank and artillery fire at Outpost Harry on the Central Front, where they sent 3,000 troops down the valleys and up the hill held by the Greeks.

Chopped up, they fell back with 120 dead and 480 wounded, the Eighth Army reported.

Farther east, at the western end of a front where they had hammered out two-mile gains in an offensive early this week, 500 or more Communists knocked South Koreans from a hill southeast of Finger Ridge.

About 25 miles to the east, a Red force of similar size drove South Koreans from M-1 Ridge southwest of Christmas Hill.

The South Koreans counterattacked at both Finger Ridge and Christmas Hill and recaptured both positions.

Admits Mistake In Henie Case

BALTIMORE, June 18 (AP)—Judge John T. Tucker admitted today he had made a mistake and that the Sonja Henie Ice Revue, Inc., should be liable for any damages in the collapse of a grandstand.

The judge upset part of a jury verdict which had held that neither Miss Henie personally nor her corporation is liable. Judge Tucker said in his reversal that the corporation question should not have been submitted to the jury.

He didn't interfere with the juror's decision that Miss Henie herself is not personally subject to suit. The jury had put all liability on Edwin P. Cornati, a contractor who erected the bleachers.

About 350 suits seeking five million dollars are pending as result of the bleacher collapse at the Fifth Regiment Armory March 6, 1952.

Judge Tucker had reviewed the jury decision at the request of lawyers for those seeking damages. In holding the ice revue corporation equally responsible with the bleacher contractor, he said the duty of providing a safe place for spectators could not be delegated.

Killed On Range

FORT DIX, N. J., June 18 (INS)—Pvt. Frank X. Zirnheld, 20, of Buffalo, N. Y., was killed and 16 other recruits were injured today when a shell exploded prematurely during a mortar demonstration on the Fort Dix firing range.

More Anti-Red POW's Bolt

Bloody Fights Break Out, Many Are Killed

SEOUL, Friday, June 19 (AP)—More than 900 anti-Communist Korean prisoners of war bolted to freedom last night in a fresh gesture of defiance of the U. N. Command less than 12 hours after some 25,000 POWs were released on orders of South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

The U. N. Prisoner of War Command said the new mass break came at Yongchon, some 70 miles northwest of Pusan. The command said 905 prisoners crashed through nine-foot wire fences but that about 235 POWs remained in camp.

South Korean security guards used tear gas and fired some shots in an effort to stop the break. The command said one prisoner was wounded.

Touches Off Fighting

The South Korean government's unauthorized release of 25,000 anti-Red prisoners in the predawn hours Thursday touched off bloody fighting during the day between POWs and U. S. Marines.

The battle-tested Marines killed up to 33 prisoners and wounded scores more at a stockade near Inchon, Seoul's port city. Four hundred prisoners escaped through eight-foot-high barbed wire fences but up to 100 were recaptured.

Two Marines were wounded seriously. The camp's commander said carbine fire was poured on the Marines from a nearby rice field. He did not elaborate. Apparently it came from Korean sympathizers.

The escaping prisoners scattered among a populace urged by President Syngman Rhee to give them hiding along with the 25,000 others who easily fled four stockades in South Korea yesterday while South Korean guards turned their backs.

Outnumbered U. S. guards killed nine escaping prisoners and wounded 16 yesterday. Battalions of Marines and soldiers were rushed in and took over guard duty, replacing the Rhee - controlled South Koreans.

Rhee took full responsibility for his order which struck at the heart of an impending armistice agreement. He said he did it without consulting with U. N. officials and one of his spokesmen boasted, "We pulled the rug out from under them."

Rush In Reinforcements

Rushing in reinforcements after military leaves were cancelled, U. S. troops quickly rounded up nearly 1,000 of the freed prisoners.

A courier hurried to Panmunjom with a letter from the senior U. N. truce delegate assuring the Reds "every effort is being made to recover the prisoners."

It was considered a well-nigh impossible task. Discarding prisoner garb for civilian clothes, the thousands could hide away indefinitely in remote homes among the hills. Some of those recaptured today near Inchon wore civilian clothing.

Many were reported planning to join the South Korean Army but high military sources cast doubt on this.

What effect the defiant action might have on the nearly-accomplished armistice agreement was not yet clear, but there was some optimism that it would have no immediate effect.

Korea Envoy Departs

South Korean Premier Too Chin Paik (left) suddenly cuts short his visit in the United States and here shakes hands with South Korean Ambassador You Chan Yank at National Airport in Washington where Paik started to his homeland by air. Paik said he "must go" and that was all. His departure followed an accusation by the United States that South Korean President Syngman Rhee violated "the authority of the United Nations" in releasing anti-communist prisoners of war.

Ike Censures Rhee's Move Freeing POWs

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—The United States accused South Korean President Syngman Rhee today of violating "the authority of the United Nations Command" by releasing thousands of prisoners of war just as U. N. truce with the Reds appeared about ready for signing.

Secretary of State Dulles announced that President Eisenhower was communicating the American attitude to Rhee along with the declaration that the United States has conducted armistice negotiations in good faith and is continuing to act in good faith.

The grave uncertainty over the truce outlook resulting from Rhee's stunning action last night led to a series of top-level conferences here during the day.

Administration leaders were reported doing everything possible to bring the situation under control and minimize the dangers that the truce would be wrecked. Obviously one key to the future was whether the Reds wanted to seize upon this incident either to stall or block an armistice or press the U. N. for new concessions.

The prisoners whom Rhee released are part of a total of almost 50,000 who have declared they would resist repatriation to their Red homelands in North Korea and China. For more than a year, the question of what to do with them tied up truce negotiations.

Eisenhower conferred first today with members of Congress even as news reports raised the total of POWs released to 25,000 and made clear the magnitude of the conflict between the United Nations and South Korean plans. There was speculation that Rhee's aim was to disrupt the truce and achieve Korean unification through continuation of the war.

Later in the morning the President met with Dulles and other top advisors on the National Security Council. It was after this meeting that the first official administration reaction came out. Dulles told newsmen he had been conferring with the President on Rhee's action in releasing the POWs "prematurely," and added: "This action was in violation of the authority of the United Nations Command to which the Republic of Korea had agreed."

Bramblett Pleads Innocent To Charge

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Rep. Ernest K. Bramblett (R - Calif) pleaded innocent today in U. S. District Court to 18 charges of payroll padding and receiving kickbacks from his office employes.

Chief Judge Bolitha J. Laws set trial for Oct. 19. The date is subject to motions for postponement.

The 52-year-old fourth-term congressman appeared for his arraignment accompanied by his attorney, Edward Bennett Williams. His only words were "Not guilty" when asked how he wished to plead.

Dedicate Signs

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Maryland Civil Defense authorities said the first of a series of civil defense highway signs will be dedicated tomorrow.

Gov. McKeldin is to be the speaker at dedication ceremonies for a sign at the Old Severn River Bridge which designates a section of the highway as a possible defense route in case of an attack.

Egypt Is Proclaimed Republic By Naguib

CAIRO, June 18 (INS)—Egypt, ancient land of the Pharaohs, was proclaimed a republic tonight and Gen. Mohammed Naguib—the man who forced King Farouk off the throne—became its first president and prime minister.

The abolition of the monarchy ended all royal titles.

Naguib simultaneously reshuffled the cabinet to include three members of his revolutionary council, which came to power after exiled King Farouk's abdication last summer in a sweeping reform movement against corruption.

Lt. Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, vice president of the revolutionary council, was named vice-premier and minister of the interior.

Maj. Salah Salem, the new minister of national guidance, said there would be no change in Egypt's foreign policy as a result of the switch to a republican form of government. He said:

"We are now in a better position to handle our foreign policy."

Abdel Hakim Amer, Naguib's aide-de-camp, was named commander of the armed forces.

A special constitutional committee last May 5 unanimously voted to replace the 5,000-year-old monarchy with a republic. The committee was given the job of drafting a new constitution.

Formal proclamation of the republic came as the nation girded for its struggle to win back from Britain control of the strategic Suez Canal zone. Naguib has declared without such control, Egypt would not be "independent."

The abolition of the monarchy slams the door on Farouk's hopes of placing his 17-month-old son, Ahmed Fuad II, on the throne.

After Farouk took his son into exile in Italy last July, the infant was proclaimed king of Egypt and the Sudan, and provision was made for a regency council to rule until Fuad became of age.

Tito Allows Red Boats To Move

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, June 18 (AP)—Yugoslavia granted permission today for the movement down the Danube River of 26 Soviet armed vessels bottled up in Vienna since this country broke with the Kremlin five years ago.

The Belgrade radio announced President Tito's independent Communist government approved a Soviet request, made Monday, to move the ships through the 300-mile Yugoslav section of the Danube to the Black Sea in five groups between June 22 and July 13.

The announcement did not disclose the types of vessels involved, but called them warships. Any ship capable of navigating the tricky old river presumably would be no larger than a gunboat. They must traverse the locks of the rock-bound Iron Gates, which lie between Yugoslavia and Romania.

It was the second Soviet request the Yugoslavs have granted in less than a week. Last Monday, Belgrade agreed to resume the exchange of ambassadors with Moscow and approved the Russian appointee, Vassily Valkov.

McCarthy Disagrees

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) differed with the Eisenhower administration today on President Syngman Rhee's release of thousands of prisoners in South Korea.

McCarthy told reporters "freedom-loving people throughout the world should applaud the action of Syngman Rhee." He said Rhee's decision must have been based on the question: "Why should anti-Communists be kept by us in prison stockades?"

219 State Traffic Deaths Are Recorded

BALTIMORE (AP)—State Police report 219 persons died in Maryland Traffic accidents the first five months of this year, an increase of 18 per cent over the same period last year.

The Statistics Division said last month, with 34 highway deaths, was the heaviest month so far this year. Eight of the deaths were in Baltimore. Prince Georges had six to lead the counties.

Soviet Wives Given Visas

MOSCOW, June 18 (AP)—Soviet exit visas are to be granted four more Russian wives of Americans living in Moscow, U. S. ambassador Charles E. Bohlen said today. He got the word from Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Molotov told Bohlen that the permits to leave the Soviet Union will be issued to the wives of Thomas P. Whitney, a correspondent for The Associated Press; Henry Shapiro, United Press correspondent-Andrew Steiger of the British news agency Reuters; and George Atkins, engineer and buildings manager of the U. S. Embassy. Though he works for a British agency, Steiger is a native of Pittsburgh, Pa.

These and other cases were taken up by the ambassador in a 20-minute conference with Molotov May 12. It was announced last week that Russia had agreed to issue exit visas for the Russian wives of two Americans and the two children of an American woman who had divorced her Russian husband. Mrs. Eddy Gilmore, wife of the AP's chief of bureau in Moscow, was in this group.

For several years, Russia refused to allow the Russian mates of foreigners to leave the country. The Kremlin's spring peace offensive offered a chance to break the ice.

NEW YORK, June 18 (INS) — Anthony Sciolo, 51-year-old father of two Korea veterans and a teacher at the New York Association for the Blind, was selected tonight as the 1953 "Blind Father Of The Year" by the National Father's Day committee.

No Decision Given On Stay For A-Spies

Supreme Court To Recess Until Noon; Execution Delayed

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg won at least 24 more hours of life as the Supreme Court recessed tonight until 11 a.m., EST, tomorrow without a decision on their fate.

The high court announced its decision to postpone action on a stay of execution for the condemned couple at 5:29 p.m., EST,—only 4½ hours before the Rosenbergs would have paid the supreme penalty had a ruling been made against them.

Thus the hotly controversial stay granted yesterday by Justice William O. Douglas, and weighed at length by the full court in extraordinary session today, remained in force for the time being.

Debate Four Hours

The nine justices debated four hours in secrecy before postponing overnight their decision on a Justice Department motion to throw out the Douglas order and thus let the electrocutions take place at Sing Sing Prison.

Associate Justice Harold Burton mounted the bench alone to announce the postponement in these words:

"The court will stand in recess until tomorrow at 12 noon (11 a.m., EST.)"

If the court overrides Douglas tomorrow, the Rosenbergs can be executed tomorrow night or Saturday night.

Should the court go along with Douglas, the executions will be postponed while federal courts in New York decide whether the death sentence was properly imposed following the conviction of the New York couple on charges of wartime passing of U. S. atomic secrets to the Russians.

Tonight's court decision, adding fresh suspense to the spy drama that has stirred world opinion, came as demonstrators for the Rosenbergs massed in the streets of the capital—thousands strong.

Carrying signs that demanded clemency, they started a march on the White House minutes before Burton announced the postponement.

Refuses To Interfere

President Eisenhower already has refused to interfere with the Rosenberg's death sentence. It was his attorney general, Herbert Brownell Jr., who yesterday filed the motion to overrule Douglas' stay of execution, thus bringing the high court judges back from their summer recess.

All day—ironically, it was the Rosenbergs' 14th wedding anniversary—suspense had mounted as the hours which could have been the couple's last hours ticked away.

The almost unprecedented summer session of the court, the demonstrations at the White House and the Capitol, the rumbling echoes of controversy in other quarters here and abroad had made the Rosenbergs storm centers of a far-flung controversy.

The black-robed justices left their high bench at 2:32 p.m., EST, after hearing three hours of argument—some of it hot-tempered—for and against reversing Douglas' action.

Woman Charged In Man's Death

ELKTON, Md., June 18 (AP) — State's Attorney J. Albert Roney Jr. today charged a 21-year-old woman with shooting to death her husband and said the motive was "jealousy over another woman."

The murder charge was filed against Mrs. Ella Elizabeth Gray. Her 25-year-old husband, Philip, was shot fatally early Wednesday morning.

Roney decided to file the charge after investigating Mrs. Gray's story that she shot her husband accidentally.

She said she received an anonymous telephone call that her husband was "in trouble" in Elkton. She said she took a .38 caliber pistol and started walking to town from the hunting lodge of which her husband had been caretaker.

On the way, she said, she met her husband and three other men in a car. The men got out and while they were talking with her the gun went off accidentally, she said.

Gray died of a bullet wound in the throat.

Mrs. Gray is the mother of a six-year-old girl. The child was asleep at home at the time of her father's death.

Truce Camp Tense Over POW Breaks

Reds Claim U. S. Put To "Acid Test" To Prove Sincerity

MUNSAN, Friday, June 19 (AP)—The Communists today delayed a meeting of interpreters working on the Korean armistice draft as tension mounted over South Korea's defiant release of more than 26,000 anti-Communist prisoners of war.

South Korea's precipitate action threatened the truce.

Rush Assurance

The U. N. Command rushed assurance last night to the Reds at Panmunjom that it was pressing for a roundup of the prisoners.

Optimism persisted here that an armistice would be signed shortly but trouble might break out later over the prisoner incident.

"Every effort is being made to recover the prisoners," read a letter from Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, senior U. N. truce delegate, to North Korean Gen. Nam Il, the top Red negotiator.

The letter was dispatched by courier while U. S. troops pushed the almost hopeless task of finding prisoners released on orders of South Korea's President Syngman Rhee.

The regular armistice teams were in recess and only interpreters were at work at Panmunjom on the final draft of the document when the explosive situation developed.

Rhee's order, violating the key point agreed to after more than a year of wrangling, was issued at the very time when there was every expectance that the cease-fire truce would be signed within a week, probably June 25.

The two sides on June 9 had announced agreement that captured Reds refusing to go home would be turned over to a five-nation neutral commission for 90 days while Red "explanation" teams tried to persuade them to go home. If this failed, then a post-armistice conference would have a go at it for 120 days after which any Reds still refusing repatriation would be freed.

The Reds had been adamant on the point that there be no difference between the handling of anti-Red North Koreans and anti-Red Chinese.

Move Up To UN

India, one member of the five-nation repatriation commission, put Rhee's move squarely up to the U. N. A Foreign Office spokesman in New Delhi said India considers that South Korea, as an ally of the United Nations, "must be handled by the United Nations."

Switzerland, another member of the commission, warned that Rhee's action may lead her to reconsider her decision to serve on the body.

There was no immediate comment from Sweden and Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia, the other members of the commission.

In its first recognition of South Korea's prisoner release, Peiping radio said:

"The whole world is now turning to the U. S. government to see how it will deal with this outrage. The sincerity of the American government for an armistice is indeed put to an acid test."

PICKETS AWAIT NEWS—Under the shade of trees on Washington's Mall, pickets demonstrate for the convicted atom spies, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, resting in every position possible while awaiting a decision of the Supreme Court which met yesterday in an extraordinary session to determine the fate of the two, facing death in the electric chair. The High Tribunal delayed a decision until noon today.

Woman's Body Identified As Missing Plane Occupant

ST. MICHAELS, Md., June 18 (AP)—The body of a young woman found in the Choptank River was identified by one relative today as that of 23-year-old Sara Mitchell, passenger aboard a plane missing since last Friday, but another relative questioned the identity.

Identification was made by Gabriel N. Maupin of Standardsville, Va., step-father of the girl through strips of clothing, labels and physical features. The body was borught to St. Michaels after it was discovered by a fisherman near Cook's Point, about 10 miles west of Cambridge, Md.

Its identity was questioned by Patricia Mitchell, the girl's sister, in Salisbury, Md.

Three other persons were aboard the plane when it disappeared last week on a flight from Washington to Salisbury.

Patricia Mitchell called the identification of the body "a false alarm," but refused to elaborate. The body was recovered by the crew of a boat ferrying oyster shells to Dorchester County from Tilghman Island. They were identified as Capt. Hedge Fairbank, Bud Meadows and Hodson James, Avalon, Md., watermen.

Leon Ackerman, Washington real estate man, has offered a reward of $2,500 to the person finding the plane which was piloted by his 23-year-old son, George.

Passengers beside Miss Mitchell who was young Ackerman's fiancee, included Miss Romaine Sanders, 19, and George Yost, a salesman employed by the elder Ackerman. All four lived in the Washington area.

The body was taken by the watermen to the Tilghman Packing Co. pier where it was met by state police who then removed the remains to a funeral home here.

Dr. Louis Welty, Talbot County medical examiner, said there was no water in her lungs and that she died from the impact of a crash.

Today was the sixth day of the search for the Navion private plane which young Ackerman was piloting from Washington to Salisbury.

'Dime Store' Ring Is Worth $5,000, Finder Discovers

BALTIMORE, June 18 (AP)—A "dime store diamond" ring she found was worth more than $5,000 to Mrs. Marie Mason.

Mrs. Mason found the ring on Pulaski highway in August of 1950. She thought it was glass and let her grandchildren play with it as a toy for more than a year.

A nephew of the 54-year-old Negro woman took it to a pawn shop for collateral on a $10 loan. It was realized then that it was a valuable diamond.

Police took the ring into custody to await appearance of the loser. Nobody showed up and after a year Mrs. Mason went to court to get it back.

The ring, a 9.30 carat, was put up for auction this week. It brought $7,800. After expenses, including a lawyer's fee, Mrs. Mason netted $5,250.

Musial Says He's Worried About Slump

Stan Is 100 Points Under Lifetime Mark

ST. LOUIS, June 18 (AP)—A worried Stan Musial, predicting he will climb above the .300 mark before the season ends, said today he has no private problems to blame for the worst batting slump of his illustrious career.

The $80,000-a-year star of the St. Louis Cardinals, dark-circled eyes betraying his concern, admitted he doesn't know the answer to his prolonged slump. He's hitting only .250 for the first third of the season, nearly 100 points under his lifetime average.

Has Musial lost his reflexes, a sign that the end is near in baseball? He doesn't think so, and neither do his manager, teammates and other baseball people questioned here.

"Sure, I'm worried," the 32-year-old outfielder said. "I'm worried because I'm not helping the ball club, but—and print this, please—I have no financial worries, no outside problems.

"My business investments, the restaurant on Chippewa and the Garavelli property in the west end, are successful. Take my word for it, I could sell both at a profit."

Manager Eddie Stanky of the Cardinals was interested in Musial's belief he will regain his batting form and maybe even win a seventh National League batting championship.

"I'm glad to hear that," Stanky said, "because I know Stan's confidence, like any other player's, has been shaken by his slump which is all this is."

The manager said he has never considered benching Musial and considers him valuable because of his base-running speed and fielding ability as well as his batting. "He won two games for us on the last trip by his running alone," Stanky said.

Musial disclosed fans are writing him with a wide variety of suggestions for ending the slump. He isn't wiggling his seat as he did of old. He's taking his eyes off the ball. One suggested a two-week diet of fresh carrots, sun-ripened tomatoes and citrus fruits to improve his vision.

Here's something cool, refreshing and just plain enjoyable. Reconstitute 1 can frozen orange juice and freeze to a mush. Remove from freezer, beat well and return to freezer. Before long, it's a refreshing ice to serve with cookies at midday or as an appetizer before meals. Or, you might like to freeze the orange juice in cubes, put a small stick in each cube and have a popsicle for the kiddies. Anyway you serve it, it's stimulating refreshment.

Testimony Opens Murder Hearing

TOWSON, Md., June 18 (AP)—John Metzger, 23-year-old Baltimore veteran, was murdered because he refused to drive two companions on an out-of-town trip, it was testified in a magistrate's court here today.

The testimony was given by State Police Sgt. Wilton R. May at a preliminary hearing for Eric Preston Randall, 25, of Baltimore, one of two charged with the murder of Metzger.

Randall entered a plea of innocent to the first degree murder charge.

May told Magistrate John J. Caslin that the story of Metzger's slaying was related to him in Danville, Va., by Randall after he was arrested there along with Sgt. Richard Elkins, Tuckerman, Ark., soldier stationed at Ft. Holabird, Baltimore.

May said Randall told him that the fatal shot was fired by Elkins as the three were sitting in Metzger's car along the Baltimore-Washington Expressway.

A special session of the Baltimore County Grand Jury will consider the case tomorrow.

A plea for bail on behalf of Randall was denied, and he was returned to jail.

Elkins is under observation at Spring Grove mental hospital.

His condition was reported somewhat improved today. He has refused to speak since a suicide attempt in his Danville jail cell several days ago and has been fed intravenously.

France Refuses Premiership To Socialist Marie

PARIS, June 19 (Friday)—(INS)—The French National Assembly early today refused to give the premiership to radical socialist (moderate) Andre Marie.

As a result the nation went into its fifth week of political crisis without a government, and still was unable to say who will go to the West's Big Three meeting in Bermuda to tackle East-West problems.

The vote was 272 for Marie, the fourth political leader to try for a government since the fall of Rene Mayer's regime, and 209 against. He needed 314 votes for confirmation.

The Christian (MRP) Party tipped the scale against Marie when it decided late yesterday to abstain from voting.

Balloting was held during the early morning hours following hours of debate.

The rejection boosted sentiment for quick new general elections which would shake up the stringent party lines in the national assembly and improve chances for stabler government.

Marie, like his predecessors, campaigned on a general program aimed at satisfying Freich demands for a solution of the Indo-Chinese war, improved finances and agreement with Germany over the disputed SAAR territory.

Marie also declared his support for the six-nation European defense army but hedged it with conditions.

One of the more serious results of Marie's defeat, in Western eyes, is that it may delay the holding of the Bermuda conference at which the U. S., Britain and France are to discuss the cold war with Russia.

No Decision

Quietly, often in a smilingly conversational fashion, Acting Solicitor General Robert L. Stern asked the court to overrule what his chief, Atty. Gen. Brownell, had referred to as Douglas' "unprecedented" action.

Stern held that the Rosenbergs were being tried fairly under the 1917 Espionage Act and were rightly convicted of passing atomic secrets to the Russians during World War II.

He said the government is convinced they could not have been tried properly under the Atomic Energy Act of 1946. Had the government proceeded against them under that act, he said, it would have been laughed out of court.

That was the crux of the whole argument.

The defense has raised the eleventh hour question whether the later act shouldn't have determined the penalty for the Rosenbergs.

And this act would not allow a death sentence unless the trial jury recommended one. In the New York trial of the Rosenbergs there was no such recommendation.

They argued Douglas was right when he ordered the Rosenbergs' execution postponed until the federal courts in New York decide whether the death sentences were valid.

Alleged Plot To Kill McCarthy Uncovered

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—A former FBI counterspy dramatically named a man beside him at a Senate hearing today as a Communist "goon" who boasted he had orders to assassinate Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Joseph D. Mazzei, for some two years an FBI undercover operator in the Communist party, testified under oath that Lou Bortz proudly announced at a secret Communist meeting in Pittsburgh last Dec. 4 he had been assigned to liquidate the senator. Bortz quickly refused on grounds of possibie self incrimination to say whether Mazzei's story was true.

Accuser and accused appeared before the Senate investigations subcommittee of which McCarthy is chairman.

Since he was a central figure in the testimony, McCarthy handed his gavel to Sen. Mundt (R-SD) and sat back as a highly interested but largely silent participant in the inquiry.

Some senators present were curious as to why anybody would get up at a meeting and announce he had been assigned to assassinate a senator. Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) wondered out loud about it.

Mazzei remarked that Bortz was chairman of the meeting. McClellan said that didn't clear up the question of the announcement.

"Senator," Mazzei replied, "I would have to say I don't know why he made it."

He added that he could only say Bortz seemed "tickled to death" with the assignment and was proud of it.

Mazzei said he now owns and runs a theater at Millvale, Pa. But from 1951 until last March 26, he said, he posed as a Red while reporting secretly to the FBI on Communist activity in Pittsburgh.

Mazzei described Bortz as a leader of Red "goon squads" who once staged a head-cracking riot at a Pittsburgh swimming pool. He said Bortz was part of "the elite" Red underground and instructed fellow Reds on bomb making and in use of weapons at a target range in the basement of a Pittsburgh house.

Mazzei quoted Bortz as saying "I'll kill that son of a bitch." Mazzei said he reported the threat to the FBI the next day.

Bortz later testified his present address is Butler, Pa., that he is unemployed now but has worked at various times in a laundry, shoe factory and at filling stations.

Colombia President Okayed By Assembly

BOGOTA, Colombia, June 18 (AP)—The National Constituent Assembly today recognized Lt. Gen. Gustavo Rojas Pinilla as the legitimate President of Colombia.

Rojas seized power in a bloodless military coup last Saturday. He deposed President Laureano Gomez. The Assembly authorized Rojas to occupy the presidency until Aug. 7, 1954, when Gomez' term would have expired.

The Assembly voted also a 60-day recess during which a special committee will draft a new constitution. The allegedly Fascist tinge of the constitution proposed by Gomez was listed as one of the reasons for the coup against him.

Truce Camp Tense Over POW Breaks

Reds Claim U. S. Put To "Acid Test" To Prove Sincerity

MUNSAN, Friday, June 19 (AP)—The Communists today delayed a meeting of interpreters working on the Korean armistice draft as tension mounted over South Korea's defiant release of more than 26,000 anti-Communist prisoners of war.

South Korea's precipitate action threatened the truce.

Rush Assurance

The U. N. Command rushed assurance last night to the Reds at Panmunjom that it was pressing for a roundup of the prisoners.

Optimism persisted here that an armistice would be signed shortly but trouble might break out later over the prisoner incident.

"Every effort is being made to recover the prisoners," read a letter from Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, senior U. N. truce delegate, to North Korean Gen. Nam Il, the top Red negotiator.

The letter was dispatched by courier while U. S. troops pushed the almost hopeless task of finding prisoners released on orders of South Korea's President Syngman Rhee.

The regular armistice teams were in recess and only interpreters were at work at Panmunjom on the final draft of the document when the explosive situation developed.

Rhee's order, violating the key point agreed to after more than a year of wrangling, was issued at the very time when there was every expectance that the cease-fire truce would be signed within a week, probably June 25.

The two sides on June 9 had announced agreement that captured Reds refusing to go home would be turned over to a five-nation neutral commission for 90 days while Red "explanation" teams tried to persuade them to go home. If this failed, then a post-armistice conference would have a go at it for 120 days after which any Reds still refusing repatriation would be freed.

The Reds had been adamant on the point that there be no difference between the handling of anti-Red North Koreans and anti-Red Chinese.

Move Up To UN

India, one member of the five-nation repatriation commission, put Rhee's move squarely up to the U. N. A Foreign Office spokesman in New Delhi said India considers that South Korea, as an ally of the United Nations, "must be handled by the United Nations."

Switzerland, another member of the commission, warned that Rhee's action may lead her to reconsider her decision to serve on the body.

There was no immediate comment from Sweden and Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia, the other members of the commission.

In its first recognition of South Korea's prisoner release, Peiping radio said:

"The whole world is now turning to the U. S. government to see how it will deal with this outrage. The sincerity of the American government for an armistice is indeed put to an acid test."

PICKETS AWAIT NEWS—Under the shade of trees on Washington's Mall, pickets demonstrate for the convicted atom spies, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, resting in every position possible while awaiting a decision of the Supreme Court which met yesterday in an extraordinary session to determine the fate of the two, facing death in the electric chair. The High Tribunal delayed a decision until noon today.

Woman's Body Identified As Missing Plane Occupant

ST. MICHAELS, Md., June 18 (AP)—The body of a young woman found in the Choptank River was identified by one relative today as that of 23-year-old Sara Mitchell, passenger aboard a plane missing since last Friday, but another relative questioned the identity.

Identification was made by Gabriel N. Maupin of Standardsville, Va., step-father of the girl through strips of clothing, labels and physical features. The body was borught to St. Michaels after it was discovered by a fisherman near Cook's Point, about 10 miles west of Cambridge, Md.

Its identity was questioned by Patricia Mitchell, the girl's sister, in Salisbury, Md.

Three other persons were aboard the plane when it disappeared last week on a flight from Washington to Salisbury.

Patricia Mitchell called the identification of the body "a false alarm," but refused to elaborate. The body was recovered by the crew of a boat ferrying oyster shells to Dorchester County from Tilghman Island. They were identified as Capt. Hedge Fairbank, Bud Meadows and Hodson James, Avalon, Md., watermen.

Leon Ackerman, Washington real estate man, has offered a reward of $2,500 to the person finding the plane which was piloted by his 23-year-old son, George.

Passengers beside Miss Mitchell who was young Ackerman's fiancee, included Miss Romaine Sanders, 19, and George Yost, a salesman employed by the elder Ackerman. All four lived in the Washington area.

The body was taken by the watermen to the Tilghman Packing Co. pier where it was met by state police who then removed the remains to a funeral home here.

Dr. Louis Welty, Talbot County medical examiner, said there was no water in her lungs and that she died from the impact of a crash.

Today was the sixth day of the search for the Navion private plane which young Ackerman was piloting from Washington to Salisbury.

'Dime Store' Ring Is Worth $5,000, Finder Discovers

BALTIMORE, June 18 (AP)—A "dime store diamond" ring she found was worth more than $5,000 to Mrs. Marie Mason.

Mrs. Mason found the ring on Pulaski highway in August of 1950. She thought it was glass and let her grandchildren play with it as a toy for more than a year.

A nephew of the 54-year-old Negro woman took it to a pawn shop for collateral on a $10 loan. It was realized then that it was a valuable diamond.

Police took the ring into custody to await appearance of the loser. Nobody showed up and after a year Mrs. Mason went to court to get it back.

The ring, a 9.30 carat, was put up for auction this week. It brought $7,800. After expenses, including a lawyer's fee, Mrs. Mason netted $5,250.

Musial Says He's Worried About Slump

Stan Is 100 Points Under Lifetime Mark

ST. LOUIS, June 18 (AP)—A worried Stan Musial, predicting he will climb above the .300 mark before the season ends, said today he has no private problems to blame for the worst batting slump of his illustrious career.

The $80,000-a-year star of the St. Louis Cardinals, dark-circled eyes betraying his concern, admitted he doesn't know the answer to his prolonged slump. He's hitting only .250 for the first third of the season, nearly 100 points under his lifetime average.

Has Musial lost his reflexes, a sign that the end is near in baseball? He doesn't think so, and neither do his manager, teammates and other baseball people questioned here.

"Sure, I'm worried," the 32-year-old outfielder said. "I'm worried because I'm not helping the ball club, but—and print this, please—I have no financial worries, no outside problems.

"My business investments, the restaurant on Chippewa and the Garavelli property in the west end, are successful. Take my word for it. I could sell both at a profit."

Manager Eddie Stanky of the Cardinals was interested in Musial's belief he will regain his batting form and maybe even win a seventh National League batting championship.

"I'm glad to hear that," Stanky said, "because I know Stan's confidence, like any other player's, has been shaken by his slump which is all this is."

The manager said he has never considered benching Musial and considers him valuable because of his base-running speed and fielding ability as well as his batting. "He won two games for us on the last trip by his running alone," Stanky said.

Musial disclosed fans are writing him with a wide variety of suggestions for ending the slump. He isn't wiggling his seat as he did of old. He's taking his eyes off the ball. One suggested a two-week diet of fresh carrots, sun-ripened tomatoes and citrus fruits to improve his vision.

Here's something cool, refreshing and just plain enjoyable. Reconstitute 1 can frozen orange juice and freeze to a mush. Remove from freezer, beat well and return to freezer. Before long, it's a refreshing ice to serve with cookies at midday or as an appetizer before meals. Or, you might like to freeze the orange juice in cubes, put a small stick in each cube and have a popsicle for the kiddies. Anyway you serve it, it's stimulating refreshment.

Testimony Opens Murder Hearing

TOWSON, Md., June 18 (AP)—John Metzger, 23-year-old Baltimore veteran, was murdered because he refused to drive two companions on an out-of-town trip, it was testified in a magistrate's court here today.

The testimony was given by State Police Sgt. Wilton R. May at a preliminary hearing for Eric Preston Randall, 25, of Baltimore, one of two charged with the murder of Metzger.

Randall entered a plea of innocent to the first degree murder charge.

May told Magistrate John J. Caslin that the story of Metzger's slaying was related to him in Danville, Va., by Randall after he was arrested there along with Sgt. Richard Elkins, Tuckerman, Ark., soldier stationed at Ft. Holabird, Baltimore.

May said Randall told him that the fatal shot was fired by Elkins as the three were sitting in Metzger's car along the Baltimore-Washington Expressway.

A special session of the Baltimore County Grand Jury will consider the case tomorrow.

A plea for bail on behalf of Randall was denied, and he was returned to jail.

Elkins is under observation at Spring Grove mental hospital.

His condition was reported somewhat improved today. He has refused to speak since a suicide attempt in his Danville jail cell several days ago and has been fed intravenously.

France Refuses Premiership To Socialist Marie

PARIS, June 19 (Friday)—(INS)—The French National Assembly early today refused to give the premiership to radical socialist (moderate) Andre Marie.

As a result the nation went into its fifth week of political crisis without a government, and still was unable to say who will go to the West's Big Three meeting in Bermuda to tackle East-West problems.

The vote was 272 for Marie, the fourth political leader to try for a government since the fall of Rene Mayer's regime, and 209 against. He needed 314 votes for confirmation.

The Christian (MRP) Party tipped the scale against Marie when it decided late yesterday to abstain from voting.

Balloting was held during the early morning hours following hours of debate.

The rejection boosted sentiment for quick new general elections which would shake up the stringent party lines in the national assembly and improve chances for stabler government.

Marie, like his predecessors, campaigned on a general program aimed at satisfying Freich demands for a solution of the Indo-Chinese war, improved finances and agreement with Germany over the disputed SAAR territory.

Marie also declared his support for the six-nation European defense army but hedged it with conditions.

One of the more serious results of Marie's defeat, in Western eyes, is that it may delay the holding of the Bermuda conference at which the U. S., Britain and France are to discuss the cold war with Russia.

No Decision

to argue before the court first.

Quietly, often in a smilingly conversational fashion, Acting Solicitor General Robert L. Stern asked the court to overrule what his chief, Atty. Gen. Brownell, had referred to as Douglas' "unprecedented" action.

Stern held that the Rosenbergs were being tried fairly under the 1917 Espionage Act and were rightly convicted of passing atomic secrets to the Russians during World War II.

He said the government is convinced they could not have been tried properly under the Atomic Energy Act of 1946. Had the government proceeded against them under that act, he said, it would have been laughed out of court.

That was the crux of the whole argument.

The defense has raised the eleventh hour question whether the later act shouldn't have determined the penalty for the Rosenbergs.

And this act would not allow a death sentence unless the trial jury recommended one. In the New York trial of the Rosenbergs there was no such recommendation.

They argued Douglas was right when he ordered the Rosenbergs' execution postponed until the federal courts in New York decide whether the death sentences were valid.

Alleged Plot To Kill McCarthy Uncovered

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—A former FBI counterspy dramatically named a man beside him at a Senate hearing today as a Communist "goon" who boasted he had orders to assassinate Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Joseph D. Mazzei, for some two years an FBI undercover operator in the Communist party, testified under oath that Lou Bortz proudly announced at a secret Communist meeting in Pittsburgh last Dec. 4 he had been assigned to liquidate the senator. Bortz quickly refused on grounds of possible self incrimination to say whether Mazzei's story was true.

Accuser and accused appeared before the Senate investigations subcommittee of which McCarthy is chairman.

Since he was a central figure in the testimony, McCarthy handed his gavel to Sen. Mundt (R-SD) and sat back as a highly interested but largely silent participant in the inquiry.

Some senators present were curious as to why anybody would get up at a meeting and announce he had been assigned to assassinate a senator. Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) wondered out loud about it.

Mazzei remarked that Bortz was chairman of the meeting. McClellan said that didn't clear up the question of the announcement.

"Senator," Mazzei replied, "I would have to say I don't know why he made it."

He added that he could only say Bortz seemed "tickled to death" with the assignment and was proud of it.

Mazzei said he now owns and runs a theater at Millvale, Pa. But from 1951 until last March 26, he said, he posed as a Red while reporting secretly to the FBI on Communist activity in Pittsburgh.

Mazzei described Bortz as a leader of Red "goon squads" who once staged a head-cracking riot at a Pittsburgh swimming pool. He said Bortz was part of "the elite" Red underground and instructed fellow Reds on bomb making and in use of weapons at a target range in the basement of a Pittsburgh house.

Mazzei quoted Bortz as saying "I'll kill that son of a bitch." Mazzei said he reported the threat to the FBI the next day.

Bortz later testified his present address is Butler, Pa., that he is unemployed now but has worked at various times in a laundry, shoe factory and at filling stations.

STAG LINES for men

by Bert Bacharach

June Cottons

Mesh pair—new and classic

FASHION: Summer sports call for a shirt that's cool, elastic and well fitted. More and more men are turning to short-sleeve cotton-mesh shirts to fill the bill. Two models that are being seen a lot on golf courses this June are the "Lacoste" and the classic polo shirt. Note the neat round collar on the "Lacoste" worn by Phillips Turnbull (at right), head of Rogers Peet. George F. Baker jr., with him, wears a navy blue polo.

Handy Hints: Do not throw your old socks away, even if they're full of holes. When cut lengthwise, they make excellent cleaning and polishing cloths. . . . You can use regular fabric dye to stain unpainted furniture. It's inexpensive and you get a wider range of colors. . . . Soap is still scarce in Europe. If you do not want to bother packing a wet cake every time you move, use a tube of shaving soap instead. It will get you just as clean—and it's a lot less trouble.

Amateur Chef: If your outdoor cooking chores include peeling or cutting onions, rub your hands with salt to eliminate odor. . . . Nice summer drink can be made by mixing milk, instead of water, with frozen orange juice. Shake well. . . . Use no seasoning whatever when barbecuing a steak. Experts say it seasons itself better than you can.

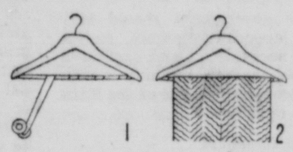
Summer Tips: Any constriction of the body creates discomfort in hot weather. Put away your snug shoes and tight shirt collars until next winter. . . . Do not let hazy early-summer sunlight fool you. It can give you a harmful burn. . . . Changing shoes frequently—every day if possible—is extra important in the summer. . . . Use soap and water occasionally on the leather straps of watch bands, to keep them from soiling your white shirt cuffs.

Credit Dept.: Designers of women's apparel are famous, but few people know the names of those who do a comparable job in men's wear. So this column will introduce a few of them. First—the designer for Hart Schaffner & Marx, responsible for many of the major men's wear changes of the last decade—Bob Stanton (see photo).

Factuals: James Madison, at five feet four, was our shortest President. Lincoln, six feet four, was the tallest. . . . In Continental days U. S. Congressmen got six dollars a day—but only when they worked! . . . Pure gold is 24 carat; 22-carat gold is 22 parts gold and two parts alloy—and so on down the line. . . . There are more than 250 million people on the face of the earth who wear no clothes to speak of.

Reminder: Just in case the occasion has slipped your mind—next Sunday, June 21, is Father's Day.

Skid Stopper: When you have trouble with slippery summer slacks sliding off equally slippery coat-hanger crossbars, you can remedy the matter with little trouble. Just wind a spiral of adhesive tape around the crossbar (see drawing, 1) and pants will stay on without skidding (2).



Pass the Cigars: This week to—Air Force Lieutenant General Glenn O. Barcus, who has led his jet flights in person over Korea's "MiG Alley" time after time. By precept and example, he has been an air commander in the highest tradition.

STAG LINES for men

June Cottons

Mesh pair—new and classic

FASHION: Summer sports call for a shirt that's cool, elastic and well fitted. More and more men are turning to short-sleeve cotton-mesh shirts to fill the bill. Two models that are being seen a lot on golf courses this June are the "Lacoste" and the classic polo shirt. Note the neat round collar on the "Lacoste" worn by Phillips Turnbull (at right), head of Rogers Peet. George F. Baker jr., with him, wears a navy blue polo.

Handy Hints: Do not throw your old socks away, even if they're full of holes. When cut lengthwise, they make excellent cleaning and polishing cloths. . . . You can use regular fabric dye to stain unpainted furniture. It's inexpensive and you get a wider range of colors. . . . Soap is still scarce in Europe. If you do not want to bother packing a wet cake every time you move, use a tube of shaving soap instead. It will get you just as clean—and it's a lot less trouble.

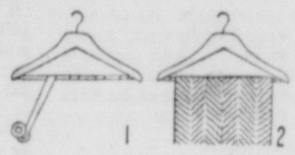
Amateur Chef: If your outdoor cooking chores include peeling or cutting onions, rub your hands with salt to eliminate odor. . . . Nice summer drink can be made by mixing milk, instead of water, with frozen orange juice. Shake well. . . . Use no seasoning whatever when barbecuing a steak. Experts say it seasons itself better than you can.

Summer Tips: Any constriction of the body creates discomfort in hot weather. Put away your snug shoes and tight shirt collars until next winter. . . . Do not let hazy early-summer sunlight fool you. It can give you a harmful burn. . . . Changing shoes frequently—every day if possible—is extra important in the summer. . . . Use soap and water occasionally on the leather straps of watch bands, to keep them from soiling your white shirt cuffs.

Credit Dept.: Designers of women's apparel are famous, but few people know the names of those who do a comparable job in men's wear. So this column will introduce a few of them. First—the designer for Hart Schaffner & Marx, responsible for many of the major men's wear changes of the last decade—Bob Stanton (see photo).

Factuals: James Madison, at five feet four, was our shortest President. Lincoln, six feet four, was the tallest. . . . In Continental days U. S. Congressmen got six dollars a day—but only when they worked! . . . Pure gold is 24 carat; 22-carat gold is 22 parts gold and two parts alloy—and so on down the line. . . . There are more than 250 million people on the face of the earth who wear no clothes to speak of.

Reminder: Just in case the occasion has slipped your mind—next Sunday, June 21, is Father's Day.



Skid Stopper: When you have trouble with slippery summer slacks sliding off equally slippery coat-hanger crossbars, you can remedy the matter with little trouble. Just wind a spiral of adhesive tape around the crossbar (see drawing, 1) and pants will stay on without skidding (2).

Pass the Cigars: This week to—Air Force Lieutenant General Glenn O. Barcus, who has led his jet flights in person over Korea's "MiG Alley" time after time. By precept and example, he has been an air commander in the highest tradition.

Aid To Merchant Shipping

A Senate Commerce subcommittee headed by Senator Potter (R., Mich.) is looking into all aspects of American merchant shipping. The aim of the committee is to prepare maritime subsidy bills for the next session of Congress. But before the committee gets down to specific proposals, Potter wants first to "make some tangible assessment of the merchant marine needed in the national interest."

Since before the Civil War the federal government has promoted the development of the merchant marine. With American participation in World War I in the offing, federal aid was stepped up in 1916. Until 1928, aid took the form, primarily, of low interest construction loans and sale of government ships below cost. Then an operating subsidy in the form of mail payments was instituted.

President Roosevelt in 1935 asked that the shipping subsidies be brought out into the open. The following year Congress adopted the Merchant Marine Act, which provided construction-differential and operating-differential subsidies. The stated purpose of the act was to foster the development and encourage the maintenance of an adequate and well-balanced American-merchant fleet. The subsidies were calculated to allow American lines to compete with lower-cost foreign merchant ships.

Under present legislation, 50 per cent of all goods purchased with Mutual Security program funds must be carried in American bottoms. And the Export-Import Bank requires shipments under its credits to move in United States ships unless the U. S. Maritime Administration recommends waivers permitting participation of foreign-flag vessels.

Congress in 1952 authorized subsidies for the merchant marine estimated at $75 million for the fiscal year 1953, not counting indirect aid in the form of special tax concessions. The subsidy provisions of the Merchant Marine Act of 1936 were revised to give construction-differential allowances to all U. S. vessels operating in foreign trade.

However, Congress failed to appropriate funds for construction differentials. Thus the Maritime Administration is in the position of having permission to award construction subsidies but no money for them. On June 11 the American Hawaiian Steamship Company announced that it had awarded a $4.8 million conversion job to Japanese yards because construction subsidies were not available.

As of May 22—National Maritime Day—the United States had 1,492 merchant vessels in active service, 1,256 of them privately owned and 236 government-owned. In the reserve fleet are 1,853 additional vessels.

The United States leads the world in merchant tonnage, with 27,245,000 tons. Great Britain is next with 18,624,000 tons. But in shipbuilding, according to the Shipbuilders Council of America, the United States was only fifth among nations in number of ships under construction in 1952, fourth in gross tonnage. Shipping is off, too, reflecting a reduction in government-aid cargoes. American-flag ships carried only 25.8 per cent of the nation's foreign trade in January 1953, as against 43.6 per cent in January 1952.

Improving On Nature

If what is at present merely a little group of serious thinkers has its way, and it looks very much as if it might, then whoever succeeds Secretary of Agriculture Benson will in time find his job abolished except as he may want to assist people in growing roses and maintaining a good lawn.

Even so, this successor of Benson's is likely to give what may be called nothing but "chemistic" counsel rather than botanical data. That is, if the world develops along the lines laid down in a startling and confident little volume that Max Eastman has helped Jacob Rosin to write, "The Road to Abundance."

What Rosin and his collaborator are particularly interested in is slaying a bogey that has justifiably terrified mankind in all its ages—the fear of famine.

It is definitely asserted by them that "chemistry has demonstrated time and again that it can increase the food supply faster than population can grow." But the idea is not merely to improve agricultural methods and decrease agricultural hazards, great as the gain can be by doing this. It is rather to get rid of plants entirely as a source of food and supply; they are scorned for their "slow and inefficient mode of production." Agriculture itself is here described as "an industrial monstrosity."

The figures are dazzling. If you depend on chemistry, you use less floor space, employ fewer workers, increase certainty. The productivity of a chemistry worker is equal to that of 5.5 agricultural workers. You don't depend on the weather, for which the farmer is always scanning the sky or awaiting reports. Our dependence for food "upon the dilatory and inefficient plant is a cruel bondage."

Synthesis is the answer in man's battle to do better than nature, and the history of the discovery of the possibilities of this chemical procedure is interestingly outlined in these pages.

The discussion of how we can obtain "freedom from the mine" brings out some figures on the near exhaustion of many important minerals during World War II and some strongly reassuring statements on how mankind can obtain practically inexhaustible resources by tapping the "dilute abundance" of the ocean, in which there is now more gold than in all the gold mines of the earth, and in making use of solar energy, of that extraordinary metal called titanium (the fourth most abundant metal) and of other important materials not yet in common use.

Do all this, say these writers, and "we will have more raw materials at our disposal than we can consume, and they will be inexhaustible. Their basic cost will be comparable to the present cost of the most important of all 'raw materials' — the oxygen we breathe. That is, it will be just about zero." They hold out a further hope:

"The chemistic society will be based on the struggle of man against nature, with specialists in this field—the scientists—as leaders. Want, fear and greed now rule the world and threaten the destruction of our civilization. Chemistry, with the help of physics, they say, can save it by creating a new world of abundance.

How To Keep Well

Good Shoes Protect The Feet

A physician friend of mine had excellent feet until, as an intern in a hospital, he bought for 98 cents a pair of canvas shoes to wear in the operating room. On many occasions he had no opportunity to remove them after leaving surgery because of an emergency elsewhere in the building. Several times he wore them for 16 to 18 hours before changing. The hospital floors were concrete and, as might be expected, his arches gave way. Today he is still paying the price in misery for his foolishness.

A good pair of shoes does more for the feet than protect them against stones, tacks, and pieces of glass. They keep the parts warm and help to support the arches against the hard surfaces of sidewalks, streets, and floors. But to do the job right, the shoes must be pliable and not interfere with foot action. They also should fit to be comfortable. And let us not forget that good posture and proper walking distribute the weight of the body on the parts of the feet that nature intended. When such factors are taken into consideration, foot trouble is kept to a minimum.

Somewhere along the line most of us fail. The physician mentioned previously waited until his internship to make his mistake; others with flat feet, corns, bunions, and calluses recall other incidents equally foolish which produced the defects now noted. But all too often the damage is done in childhood, generally because of neglect on the part of the parents to detect early weaknesses. Children are not born with strong arches; they develop thru incessant activity but unless the foot is protected the strain may be too great to allow normal development. Shoes are of no concern during infancy but they are imperative as soon as the tike leaves the crib or play pen. The first indication of weakness is noticed when the child continues to stand with the toes pointing out at more than a 45 degree angle.

Children's shoes are so well standardized there is no need to be concerned about the shape and brand name, provided they fit. The better types come in a wider selection as to length and width. High shoes usually are preferred for the small fry because oxfords are easily removed and mother may spend much time putting them back on. After the age of 2 there is no preference except that foot defects are easier to detect when oxfords are worn.

The next hazard to proper foot development and growth occurs when the child insists on wearing sneakers for purposes other than athletics; they are flexible and ideal for gym and tennis court but are not meant to replace leather soles. There are exceptions; some sneakers offer protection but many are not thick enough to act as shock absorbers against hard pavements and wooden floors. These shoes also must be porous enough to allow for evaporation of perspiration. Women's feet take a beating when style supersedes comfort. It is well to remember that after illness the arches are likely to be weak and should not be subjected to strain until strength has been regained.

TOMORROW: Muscular pain as an emotional reaction.

BLOOD BLISTERS

S. T. writes: I have several tiny spots that look like blood blisters on various parts of my body. They do not itch or bother me but I was wondering what they could be.

REPLY

If these lesions come and go they probably are hemorrhages. Moles are a likely possibility if they are permanent.

PAIN

V. B. writes: Is neuralgia of the right temple curable? I've been suffering for three years.

REPLY

Yes; when simpler remedies fail, operation on the trigeminal nerve is required. This procedure has the disadvantage of numbing the skin of the forehead on the involved side but this sensation is preferred by many to pain.

COLD "CATCHER"

T. G. writes: What is lacking in a person who catches cold all the time?

REPLY

We call it resistance, but beyond this we do not know why some are more susceptible to colds than others. It is well to remember that there are many varieties of colds, and in some instances allergy rather than infection is the culprit.

MYOPIC YOUNGSTER

Mrs. M. writes: Can I do anything to prevent the vision of my 12-year-old child from getting worse? He is nearsighted.

REPLY

You can't, but nature will. Nearsightedness becomes stabilized in adolescence, as a rule.

ARCHES

L. W. writes: Where are the longitudinal arches?

REPLY

At the bottom of the feet, extending from the base of the toes to the heels.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Taft Suffers From Anemia And Bad Hip Joint; CIO Gets Along With Republicans; White House Failed To Consult Dan Reed On Taxes

WASHINGTON—The unfortunate fact about Senator Taft's health is that he has been suffering from both anemia and deterioration in the thigh-bone and hip-bone joints.

The anemia came first. Following this he wrenched his tendons and muscles around the hip joint. Because of the anemia the blood supply wasn't sufficient to heal the damage and bone deterioration began to set in.

The senator is now getting frequent blood transfusions and is taking liver extract to overcome the anemia, together with cortisone to repair the damage to the bone. As the anemia is overcome, a better supply of blood should flow to the hip area and help the bone condition.

It's extremely painful and the senator is understandably irritable at times. While at Walter Reed Hospital he had the doctors in a dither. Having been an energetic man all his life, he is also impatient. Doctors say that what he needs more than anything else is plenty of rest.

This writer would like to suggest therefore that whether we agree with Senator Taft or not, now might be a good time to write him a little encouragement and especially urge him to take it easy. Among those who are writing him, incidentally, are every lodge of the Sons of Italy, an organization frequently disagreeing with Taft.

Sweetness And Light

Senators of all political complexions met around the dinner table with CIO chief Walter Reuther last week for an evening of such sweetness and light that Indiana's roly-poly Sen. Homer Capehart complained: "There's not enough fight."

"I want to see Reuther in his fighting clothes," the Hoosier Republican half-joked, half-grumbled. "Even the Democrats aren't fighting any more. And when the Democrats don't fight, we Republicans can't fight back."

Present at the meeting were not merely liberal Democratic senators friendly to the CIO, but such conservatives as Richard Russell of Georgia, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, plus Vice President Nixon and various Republicans.

Jim Carey, CIO secretary-treasurer, joked a bit regarding the CIO's former closeness to the White House (CIO headquarters could look out on the Truman family's washing when they lived in Blair House), and indicated that the CIO expected to be close to the White House again. Guests couldn't tell from Carey's remarks whether he was indirectly complaining at the AFL's present inner track as a result of Martin Durkin's appointment to the Eisenhower cabinet.

Introducing CIO Chief Reuther, Carey said: "A lot of people think he has horns, but those who know him know he is thinking about the welfare of the country."

Reuther made an eloquent, though middle-of-the-road speech, then invited questions. When Senate Labor Chairman Alex Smith of New Jersey clashed with him on the Taft-Hartley Law, Reuther argued that the law did not place equal responsibility on management, pleaded that the government should not interfere with collective bargaining. Smith agreed that the government should stay out of labor negotiations, except "where necessary," and expressed the hope that "something worthwhile" would come out of the Taft-Hartley devisions.

Changed Capehart

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas asked Reuther about reciprocal trade. The CIO boss replied that it might hurt some industries but that the overall effect was good.

Most significant speech was made by Capehart of Indiana, who has always worn the reactionary label but who talked almost like a New Dealer. He urged that a standby public-works program should be kept on the legislative ice in case the cutback on arms caused unemployment.

This brought a word of appreciation from Reuther who praised the Indiana senator for his "change of heart."

"If I have had a change of heart, it is because we are now of the majority party," replied Capehart, then added with a twinkle. "If I have had a change of heart, I hope the CIO will have a change of heart the next time I come up for re-election."

Vice President Nixon, in turn, paid tribute to Reuther for his leadership in the fight against Communism both at home and abroad. Nixon told how Reuther's union had poured thousands of dollars into the battle to keep Communists out of the free trade movement, and praised Reuther's brother, Victor, for his leadership in building free trade unions in Europe.

It was on this note that the dinner broke up, with CIO leaders and right-wing Republicans going out together arm-in-arm.

Tax Fumble

Top Republican congressmen say privately that most of President Eisenhower's trouble with Dan Reed, chairman of the powerful, tax-writing Ways and Means Committee can be traced directly to faulty White House staff work.

In fact, one top Republican contends that Ike's request for a six-month extension of the excess-profits tax may be turned down by Chairman Reed because of a foul-up innocently committed by a White House secretary.

Here's the way the Republican leader tells it.

"Dan Reed is a proud man. He's got more continuous federal service than any other Republican in Washington. He was elected to Congress in 1918 and he's been there ever since.

"Reed," relates his fellow Republican, "knows his power and he likes to have it recognized. But Ike's team made the grave error of laying out most of their plans—including their tax plans—during the weeks before the inauguration without even asking Dan Reed for his advice. Reed is 'Mr. Taxes' in this Congress. Despite this he wasn't even consulted. He began to get sore at the White House team right then and there.

"That was poor politics," continues Reed's colleague. "But what happened next was one of those incredible mistakes that sometimes shape history. The President called a special meeting of his congressional leaders to discuss taxes and to urge a six-month extension of the excess-profits tax. Ike wanted Dan Reed to be present. But somebody at the White House made a mistake. Instead of inviting Reed to the session, the invitation went out to John Taber, chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

"It was just a mistake. But Dan Reed heard about the meeting and he's been boiling mad ever since. If Ike's advisers had buttered up Reed a little they'd probably have no trouble getting the excess-profits tax extended. As it is now, Reed won't even let that excess-profits bill come up for a vote in his committee."

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — Three of the four newly-appointed joint chiefs of staff left Washington immediately after Senate committee hearings on their nominations to keep appointments around the globe. Their scattering emphasized the world-wide nature of American interests.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, incoming Army chief of staff, remarked casually during the Senate hearings that he had a "date in Europe" the next day. The committee excused him shortly after noon so he could be on time for the appointment, connected with his present assignment as chief of Atlantic Pact forces.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, the newly appointed chairman of the Joint Chiefs, took off pronto for Formosa. He said he had some "cats and dogs to tie up"—his picturesque way of saying he had some odds and ends of business to wind up as retiring commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet.

Adm. Robert B. Carney departed for a final tour of his NATO command post in Southern Europe before coming home to take over as chief of naval operations. Carney, incidentally, took time out to attend the coronation of Britain's Queen Elizabeth II.

Red Recognition

There is a large body of opinion in Washington that the Korean truce will be followed in due course by admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

This sentiment prevails despite President Eisenhower's assurance that the U. S. will continue active opposition to seating the Red regime.

However, factors favoring such a step will be (1) Korean peace; (2) prior recognition of the Communist government by other UN powers, including Great Britain; (3) strong sentiment among some UN members for such a course, and (4) that the Communists are in firm control of the China mainland with little likelihood that the Nationalist government on Formost can displace them at any time in the near future.

The one big question is whether the United States can veto Red China's admission, of which there is considerable doubt. It is pointed out that the Chinese nation itself, not Chiank Kai-shek's Nationalist regime as such, is a charter member of UN. Nothing in the charter says the Chinese government cannot be Communist.

Price of Victory

President Eisenhower appears to have won a victory in Congress on his request for a one-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Act. However, in so doing he may have abandoned none-political control of the Federal Tariff Commission.

For years, under the Democrats, the tariff body operated on a strictly non-partisan basis by virtue of its membership being made up of an equal number of Republicans and Democrats—three each.

Now, Mr. Eisenhower—in what seems to be an effort to bolster support in Congress for the trade law extension — has made what were considered distinct concessions.

One of these provides for a seventh member of the tariff group, as requested by Rep. Richard Simpson (R) Pennsylvania, author of the trade agreemcnts extension bill.

The new appointee undoubtedly will be a Republican, thus swinging the balance in favor of GOP control of this important agency.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The most important news in the world today is not the Rosenberg case or the "book burning" controversy or even the Red offensive in Korea. It is the fact that Germans inside Soviet jurisdiction have demonstrated so vigorously that the Communists had to turn machine guns and tanks against them.

For this may be the beginning of the much-discussed "liberation" movement through which alone there can be an overthrow of totalitarianism and the attainment of a peace without tension.

The riots that have been reported, not only from East Germany's zone under Soviet rule but from Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia and other points behind the iron curtain, are significant of a deep unrest which at any moment can become the revolution that must take place in Soviet Russia itself before there can be safety for the democracies of the world.

The latest disturbances may be quelled by force, but they will have left their imprint. The fact that thousands have stood up to the machine guns is indicative of the mood of defiance of millions of others. It will be said that the Soviet armies can always put down such rebellious movements. But it may be asked what happens when the troops in the Soviet army begin to be rebellious themselves—when they refuse to fire on innocent persons who are striking against a government that takes away their farms and their food and reduces their ncomes?

Has Happened Before

The mutiny at Kiel in 1918 was a small affair in itself, but it touched off the revolution that caused the Kaiser to flee from Germany to Holland. The little revolution in 1917 which had overthrown the Russian Czar could not have become nation-wide so quickly without the support of the rank and file of the Russian army itself.

For several years now in America there has been a steady emphasis on the idea of supporting a liberation movement in Europe so as to attract the peoples of Soviet Russia and her satellites. This writer has repeatedly referred in these dispatches to that movement as a constructive program for America to aid. When last summer, during the Presidential campaign, General Eisenhower proclaimed his interest in "liberation" of oppressed peoples, he was promptly assailed by large sections of the British and European press and by political opponents at home, including Secretary Acheson, as favoring American intervention by force of arms behind the iron curtain.

John Foster Dulles, who was looked upon at the time as likely to be secretary of State, clarified the point in a speech by insisting that the United States was not seeking to start any wars but merely was eager to lend moral support to any liberation movements that might be begun. Nevertheless in European circles, particularly Britain, it became fashionable to pooh-pooh the whole liberation idea as impractical and unwise. It was argued that such outbreaks as might be encouraged would result in a needless loss of life and premature uprisings.

But the critics failed to exercise their imaginations—they could see only intervention by force of arms. They did not perceive that popular sentiment, once aroused, can spread in such proportions that the police come over to the side of the rebelling people. It is the idea of keeping alive the spirit of liberation, and keeping up hopes and informing oppressed peoples that on this side of the iron curtain are friends ready to help them at the opportune moment which is basic in the whole "liberation" concept.

Opposed To Rulers

The point of view was quickly grasped by President Wilson in 1917 when he told the world that America was not making war on the German people but on their autocratic government. The German people ultimately revolted. Today it needs to be said that the American government and its Allies are not building armament to use against the peoples of Soviet Russia and of the satellite states but against the imperialism of a small group of evil men who rule from Moscow.

The riots and uprisings confirm the fact that a liberty-loving people will not indefinitely tolerate despotism, and it may well be proved by subsequent developments that, when 200,000,000 people in Soviet Russia want to get rid of a tyrannical government, they can do so without an extensive civil war and by virtually a bloodless revolution.

Tyranny begets enemies, active and passive, and the more innocent persons are shot down by machine guns, the more the seeds of a greater revolt are sown. Big developments seem to be on the horizon in Europe—and the peace that the world yearns for may not be as far away as it has seemed. The Soviet rulers have been bluffing the U. N. in the Far East and in Europe. Maybe the Allies will see the true Soviet weakness now.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Popularity And Purpose

Dwight D. Eisenhower, by any poll of popularity, holds and even betters the good-will of the American people of all sections. He matches, if he does not exceed, the acceptance which marked Franklin D. Roosevelt's first term.

It is because of this that his advisers risk, at this time, unpopular measures, such as the avoidance of tax reduction, the settlement of the Korean War by appeasement, the continued employment of Acheson men in the State Department, etc. The theory is that more things are possible when Eisenhower is at the peak of popularity than might be possible later when the fortunes of politics may make for greater difficulties. This concept, from the standpoint of practical politics, is correct only if Eisenhower is guaranteed a majority in Congress whether the Republicans or Democrats prevail.

It may be recalled that at one time General Eisenhower believed that he could be nominated by both parties. Actually, he was elected by both parties. Calculations of the congressional vote show that Eisenhower and the Republican candidates for Congress ran about equal in the normally Republican Northen states, but Eisenhower ran far ahead of his party by getting so large a popular vote in the Solid South, which is normally Democaatic. In a word, Eisenhower owes as much to Texas as to New York.

Thus far, whatever support he has had in Congress has come from a Republican-Democratic coalition which provides him with the votes which the Republicans alone are unable to gather. The success of this coalition has been the achievement of Senator Robert A. Taft. Should Senator Taft's current enforced inactivity eliminate him from active management of the affairs of his party, Eisenhower may find himself in difficulties.

Senator William Knowland is an able, forceful man of outstanding integrity. Senator Taft chose Knowland to act for him because he can trust him to avoid such subservience to the White House as other Republican members would resent. Senator Knowland has an opportunity for brilliant leadership.

The Republicans have a majority of one in the Senate. Should one senator retire or die, the control of the Senate might be in doubt. Should the vote on organization be tied, Vice President Nixon would cast the binding vote. However, the situation could be complicated by the independence of Wayne Morse. He is now enither a Republican nor a Democrat. His current political affiliation seems to be the socialistically inclined Americans for Democratic Action.

Morse has been deprived of his committee memberships and therefore of seniority. He fought for his committee memberships on the floor of the Senate and was defeated by a combined Republican-Democratic vote. Morse is regarded by his colleagues as a nuisance, which, undoubtedly, he means to be.

The significance of Morse is that he has placed himself in the position to bargain the control of the Senate should the Republicans lose two votes by death or retirement. He could then negotiate for his vote. Should he vote Republican, he and Nixon could continue the present organization of the Senate; should he throw his vote to the Democrats, the Senate would be without a majority and in a state of such confusion as to make the conduct of business almost impossible. Morse could, in such circumstance, break down the Eisenhower administration. He could create a situation more closely resembling France than the United States.

Ours is a resilient people who find expediencies to handle men like Morse. The Democrats would, beyond doubt, come to the rescue. Such Democratic senators as Byrd or Russell would never accept power by nuisance value. They would surely vote to continue the present organization of the Senate until the people have made their choice in an election. Both parties dislike mugwumps.

One other factor appears in this complication: Styles Bridges, president pro tem of the Senate, a respected Republican, runs for re-election in 1954. His victory would be assured in ordinary circumstances. Unfortunately it is becoming obvious that President Eisenhower's chief of staff, Sherman Adams, with White House prestige, is going to run in the New Hampshire Republican primaries. That campaign is on now. Powerful Republican senators are supporting Bridges. They will do everything possible henceforth to embarrass Adams, which means that Eisenhower will suffer the bother of an intra-party quarrel.

Aid To Merchant Shipping

A Senate Commerce subcommittee headed by Senator Potter (R., Mich.) is looking into all aspects of American merchant shipping. The aim of the committee is to prepare maritime subsidy bills for the next session of Congress. But before the committee gets down to specific proposals, Potter wants first to "make some tangible assessment of the merchant marine needed in the national interest."

Since before the Civil War the federal government has promoted the development of the merchant marine. With American participation in World War I in the offing, federal aid was stepped up in 1916. Until 1928, aid took the form, primarily, of low interest construction loans and sale of government ships below cost. Then an operating subsidy in the form of mail payments was instituted.

President Roosevelt in 1935 asked that the shipping subsidies be brought out into the open. The following year Congress adopted the Merchant Marine Act, which provided construction-differential and operating-differential subsidies. The stated purpose of the act was to foster the development and encourage the maintenance of an adequate and well-balanced American-merchant fleet. The subsidies were calculated to allow American lines to compete with lower-cost foreign merchant ships.

Under present legislation, 50 per cent of all goods purchased with Mutual Security program funds must be carried in American bottoms. And the Export-Import Bank requires shipments under its credits to move in United States ships unless the U. S. Maritime Administration recommends waivers permitting participation of foreign-flag vessels.

Congress in 1952 authorized subsidies for the merchant marine estimated at $75 million for the fiscal year 1953, not counting indirect aid in the form of special tax concessions. The subsidy provisions of the Merchant Marine Act of 1936 were revised to give construction-differential allowances to all U. S. vessels operating in foreign trade.

However, Congress failed to appropriate funds for construction differentials. Thus the Maritime Administration is in the position of having permission to award construction subsidies but no money for them. On June 11 the American Hawaiian Steamship Company announced that it had awarded a $4.8 million conversion job to Japanese yards because construction subsidies were not available.

As of May 22—National Maritime Day—the United States had 1,492 merchant vessels in active service, 1,256 of them privately owned and 236 government-owned. In the reserve fleet are 1,853 additional vessels.

The United States leads the world in merchant tonnage, with 27,245,000 tons. Great Britain is next with 18,624,000 tons. But in shipbuilding, according to the Shipbuilders Council of America, the United States was only fifth among nations in number of ships under construction in 1952, fourth in gross tonnage. Shipping is off, too, reflecting a reduction in government-aid cargoes. American-flag ships carried only 25.8 per cent of the nation's foreign trade in January 1953, as against 43.6 per cent in January 1952.

Improving On Nature

If what is at present merely a little group of serious thinkers has its way, and it looks very much as if it might, then whoever succeeds Secretary of Agriculture Benson will in time find his job abolished except as he may want to assist people in growing roses and maintaining a good lawn.

Even so, this successor of Benson's is likely to give what may be called nothing but "chemistic" counsel rather than botanical data. That is, if the world develops along the lines laid down in a startling and confident little volume that Max Eastman has helped Jacob Rosin to write, "The Road to Abundance."

What Rosin and his collaborator are particularly interested in is slaying a bogey that has justifiably terrified mankind in all its ages—the fear of famine.

It is definitely asserted by them that "chemistry has demonstrated time and again that it can increase the food supply faster than population can grow." But the idea is not merely to improve agricultural methods and decrease agricultural hazards, great as the gain can be by doing this. It is rather to get rid of plants entirely as a source of food and supply; they are scorned for their "slow and inefficient mode of production." Agriculture itself is here described as "an industrial monstrosity."

The figures are dazzling. If you depend on chemistry, you use less floor space, employ fewer workers, increase certainty. The productivity of a chemistry worker is equal to that of 5.5 agricultural workers. You don't depend on the weather, for which the farmer is always scanning the sky or awaiting reports. Our dependence for food "upon the dilatory and inefficient plant is a cruel bondage."

Synthesis is the answer in man's battle to do better than nature, and the history of the discovery of the possibilities of this chemical procedure is interestingly outlined in these pages.

The discussion of how we can obtain "freedom from the mine" brings out some figures on the near exhaustion of many important minerals during World War II and some strongly reassuring statements on how mankind can obtain practically inexhaustible resources by tapping the "dilute abundance" of the ocean, in which there is now more gold than in all the gold mines of the earth, and in making use of solar energy, of that extraordinary metal called titanium (the fourth most abundant metal) and of other important materials not yet in common use.

Do all this, say these writers, and "we will have more raw materials at our disposal than we can consume, and they will be inexhaustible. Their basic cost will be comparable to the present cost of the most important of all 'raw materials' — the oxygen we breathe. That is, it will be just about zero." They hold out a further hope:

"The chemistic society will be based on the struggle of man against nature, with specialists in this field—the scientists—as leaders. Want, fear and greed now rule the world and threaten the destruction of our civilization. Chemistry, with the help of physics, they say, can save it by creating a new world of abundance.

How To Keep Well

Good Shoes Protect The Feet

A physician friend of mine had excellent feet until, as an intern in a hospital, he bought for 98 cents a pair of canvas shoes to wear in the operating room. On many occasions he had no opportunity to remove them after leaving surgery because of an emergency elsewhere in the building. Several times he wore them for 16 to 18 hours before changing. The hospital floors were concrete and, as might be expected, his arches gave way. Today he is still paying the price in misery for his foolishness.

A good pair of shoes does more for the feet than protect them against stones, tacks, and pieces of glass. They keep the parts warm and help to support the arches against the hard surfaces of sidewalks, streets, and floors. But to do the job right, the shoes must be pliable and not interfere with foot action. They also should fit to be comfortable. And let us not forget that good posture and proper walking distribute the weight of the body on the parts of the feet that nature intended. When such factors are taken into consideration, foot trouble is kept to a minimum.

Somewhere along the line most of us fail. The physician mentioned previously waited until his internship to make his mistake; others with flat feet, corns, bunions, and calluses recall other incidents equally foolish which produced the defects now noted. But all too often the damage is done in childhood, generally because of neglect on the part of the parents to detect early weaknesses. Children are not born with strong arches; they develop thru incessant activity but unless the foot is protected the strain may be too great to allow normal development. Shoes are of no concern during infancy but they are imperative as soon as the tike leaves the crib or play pen. The first indication of weakness is noticed when the child continues to stand with the toes pointing out at more than a 45 degree angle.

Children's shoes are so well standardized there is no need to be concerned about the shape and brand name, provided they fit. The better types come in a wider selection as to length and width. High shoes usually are preferred for the small fry because oxfords are easily removed and mother may spend much time putting them back on. After the age of 2 there is no preference except that foot defects are easier to detect when oxfords are worn.

The next hazard to proper foot development and growth occurs when the child insists on wearing sneakers for purposes other than athletics; they are flexible and ideal for gym and tennis court but are not meant to replace leather soles. There are exceptions; some sneakers offer protection but many are not thick enough to act as shock absorbers against hard pavements and wooden floors. These shoes also must be porous enough to allow for evaporation of perspiration. Women's feet take a beating when style supersedes comfort. It is well to remember that—after illness the arches are likely to be weak and should not be subjected to strain until strength has been regained.

BLOOD BLISTERS

S. T. writes: I have several tiny spots that look like blood blisters on various parts of my body. They do not itch or bother me but I was wondering what they could be.

REPLY

If these lesions come and go they probably are hemorrhages. Moles are a likely possibility if they are permanent.

PAIN

V. B. writes: Is neuralgia of the right temple curable? I've been suffering for three years.

REPLY

Yes; when simpler remedies fail, operation on the trigeminal nerve is required. This procedure has the disadvantage of numbing the skin of the forehead on the involved side but this sensation is preferred by many to pain.

COLD "CATCHER"

T. G. writes: What is lacking in a person who catches cold all the time?

REPLY

We call it resistance, but beyond this we do not know why some are more susceptible to colds than others. It is well to remember that there are many varieties of colds, and in some instances allergy rather than infection is the culprit.

MYOPIC YOUNGSTER

Mrs. M. writes: Can I do anything to prevent the vision of my 12-year-old child from getting worse? He is nearsighted.

REPLY

You can't, but nature will. Nearsightedness becomes stabilized in adolescence, as a rule.

ARCHES

L. W. writes: Where are the longitudinal arches?

REPLY

At the bottom of the feet, extending from the base of the toes to the heels.

Taft Suffers From Anemia And Bad Hip Joint; CIO Gets Along With Republicans; White House Failed To Consult Dan Reed On Taxes

WASHINGTON—The unfortunate fact about Senator Taft's health is that he has been suffering from both anemia and deterioration in the thigh-bone and hip-bone joints.

The anemia came first. Following this he wrenched his tendons and muscles around the hip joint. Because of the anemia the blood supply wasn't sufficient to heal the damage and bone deterioration began to set in.

The senator is now getting frequent blood transfusions and is taking liver extract to overcome the anemia, together with cortisone to repair the damage to the bone. As the anemia is overcome, a better supply of blood should flow to the hip area and help the bone condition.

It's extremely painful and the senator is understandably irritable at times. While at Walter Reed Hospital he had the doctors in a dither. Having been an energetic man all his life, he is also impatient. Doctors say that what he needs more than anything else is plenty of rest.

This writer would like to suggest therefore that whether we agree with Senator Taft or not, now might be a good time to write him a little encouragement and especially urge him to take it easy. Among those who are writing him, incidentally, are every lodge of the Sons of Italy, an organization frequently disagreeing with Taft.

Sweetness And Light

Senators of all political complexions met around the dinner table with CIO chief Walter Reuther last week for an evening of such sweetness and light that Indiana's roly-poly Sen. Homer Capehart complained: "There's not enough fight."

"I want to see Reuther in his fighting clothes," the Hoosier Republican half-joked, half-grumbled. "Even the Democrats aren't fighting any more. And when the Democrats don't fight, we Republicans can't fight back."

Present at the meeting were not merely liberal Democratic senators friendly to the CIO, but such conservatives as Richard Russell of Georgia, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, plus Vice President Nixon and various Republicans.

Jim Carey, CIO secretary-treasurer, joked a bit regarding the CIO's former closeness to the White House (CIO headquarters could look out on the Truman family's washing when they lived in Blair House), and indicated that the CIO expected to be close to the White House again. Guests couldn't tell from Carey's remarks whether he was indirectly complaining at the AFL's present inner track as a result of Martin Durkin's appointment to the Eisenhower cabinet.

Introducing CIO Chief Reuther, Carey said: "A lot of people think he has horns, but those who know him know he is thinking about the welfare of the country."

Reuther made an eloquent, though middle-of-the-road speech, then invited questions. When Senate Labor Chairman Alex Smith of New Jersey clashed with him on the Taft-Hartley Law, Reuther argued that the law did not place equal responsibility on management, pleaded that the government should not interfere with collective bargaining. Smith agreed that the government should stay out of labor negotiations, except "where necessary," and expressed the hope that "something worthwhile" would come out of the Taft-Hartley devisions.

Changed Capehart

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas asked Reuther about reciprocal trade. The CIO boss replied that it might hurt some industries but that the overall effect was good.

Most significant speech was made by Capehart of Indiana, who has always worn the reactionary label but who talked almost like a New Dealer. He urged that a standby public-works program should be kept on the legislative ice in case the cutback on arms caused unemployment.

This brought a word of appreciation from Reuther who praised the Indiana senator for his "change of heart."

"If I have had a change of heart, it is because we are now of the majority party," replied Capehart, then added with a twinkle. "If I have had a change of heart, I hope the CIO will have a change of heart the next time I come up for re-election."

Vice President Nixon, in turn, paid tribute to Reuther for his leadership in the fight against Communism both at home and abroad. Nixon told how Reuther's union had poured thousands of dollars into the battle to keep Communists out of the free trade movement, and praised Reuther's brother, Victor, for his leadership in building free trade unions in Europe.

It was on this note that the dinner broke up, with CIO leaders and right-wing Republicans going out together arm-in-arm.

Tax Fumble

Top Republican congressmen say privately that most of President Eisenhower's trouble with Dan Reed, chairman of the powerful, tax-writing Ways and Means Committee can be traced directly to faulty White House staff work.

In fact, one top Republican contends that Ike's request for a six-month extension of the excess-profits tax may be turned down by Chairman Reed because of a foul-up innocently committed by a White House secretary.

Here's the way the Republican leader tells it.

"Dan Reed is a proud man. He's got more continuous federal service than any other Republican in Washington. He was elected to Congress in 1918 and he's been there ever since.

"Reed," relates his fellow Republican, "knows his power and he likes to have it recognized. But Ike's team made the grave error of laying out most of their plans—including their tax plans—during the weeks before the inauguration without even asking Dan Reed for his advice. Reed is 'Mr. Taxes' in this Congress. Despite this he wasn't even consulted. He began to get sore at the White House team right then and there.

"That was poor politics," continues Reed's colleague. "But what happened next was one of those incredible mistakes that sometimes shape history. The President called a special meeting of his congressional leaders to discuss taxes and to urge a six-month extension of the excess-profits tax. Ike wanted Dan Reed to be present. But somebody at the White House made a mistake. Instead of inviting Reed to the session, the invitation went out to John Taber, chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

"It was just a mistake. But Dan Reed heard about the meeting and he's been boiling mad ever since. If Ike's advisers had buttered up Reed a little they'd probably have no trouble getting the excess-profits tax extended. As it is now, Reed won't even let that excess-profits bill come up for a vote in his committee."

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — Three of the four newly-appointed joint chiefs of staff left Washington immediately after Senate committee hearings on their nominations to keep appointments around the globe. Their scattering emphasized the world-wide nature of American interests.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, incoming Army chief of staff, remarked casually during the Senate hearings that he had a "date in Europe" the next day. The committee excused him shortly after noon so he could be on time for the appointment, connected with his present assignment as chief of Atlantic Pact forces.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, the newly appointed chairman of the Joint Chiefs, took off pronto for Formosa. He said he had some "cats and dogs to tie up"—his picturesque way of saying he had some odds and ends of business to wind up as retiring commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet.

Adm. Robert B. Carney departed for a final tour of his NATO command post in Southern Europe before coming home to take over as chief of naval operations. Carney, incidentally, took time out to attend the coronation of Britain's Queen Elizabeth II.

Red Recognition

There is a large body of opinion in Washington that the Korean truce will be followed in due course by admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

This sentiment prevails despite President Eisenhower's assurance that the U. S. will continue active opposition to seating the Red regime.

However, factors favoring such a step will be (1) Korean peace; (2) prior recognition of the Communist government by other UN powers, including Great Britain; (3) strong sentiment among some UN members for such a course, and (4) that the Communists are in firm control of the China mainland with little likelihood that the Nationalist government on Formost can displace them at any time in the near future.

The one big question is whether the United States can veto Red China's admission, of which there is considerable doubt. It is pointed out that the Chinese nation itself, not Chiank Kai-shek's Nationalist regime as such, is a charter member of UN. Nothing in the charter says the Chinese government cannot be Communist.

Price of Victory

President Eisenhower appears to have won a victory in Congress on his request for a one-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Act. However, in so doing he may have abandoned none-political control of the Federal Tariff Commission.

For years, under the Democrats, the tariff body operated on a strictly non-partisan basis by virtue of its membership being made up of an equal number of Republicans and Democrats—three each.

Now, Mr. Eisenhower—in what seems to be an effort to bolster support in Congress for the trade law extension — has made what were considered distinct concessions.

One of these provides for a seventh member of the tariff group, as requested by Rep. Richard Simpson (R) Pennsylvania, author of the trade agreements extension bill.

The new appointee undoubtedly will be a Republican, thus swinging the balance in favor of GOP control of this important agency.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The most important news in the world today is not the Rosenberg case or the "book burning" controversy or even the Red offensive in Korea. It is the fact that Germans inside Soviet jurisdiction have demonstrated so vigorously that the Communists had to turn machine guns and tanks against them.

For this may be the beginning of the much-discussed "liberation" movement through which alone there can be an overthrow of totalitarianism and the attainment of a peace without tension.

The riots that have been reported, not only from East Germany's zone under Soviet rule but from Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia and other points behind the iron curtain, are significant of a deep unrest which at any moment can become the revolution that must take place in Soviet Russia itself before there can be safety for the democracies of the world.

The latest disturbances may be quelled by force, but they will have left their imprint. The fact that thousands have stood up to the machine guns is indicative of the mood of defiance of millions of others. It will be said that the Soviet armies can always put down such rebellious movements. But it may be asked what happens when the troops in the Soviet army begin to be rebellious themselves—when they refuse to fire on innocent persons who are striking against a government that takes away their farms and their food and reduces their ncomes?

Has Happened Before

The mutiny at Kiel in 1918 was a small affair in itself, but it touched off the revolution that caused the Kaiser to flee from Germany to Holland. The little revolution in 1917 which had overthrown the Russian Czar could not have become nation-wide so quickly without the support of the rank and file of the Russian army itself.

For several years now in America there has been a steady emphasis on the idea of supporting a liberation movement in Europe so as to attract the peoples of Soviet Russia and her satellites. This writer has repeatedly referred in these dispatches to that movement as a constructive program for America to aid. When last summer, during the Presidential campaign, General Eisenhower proclaimed his interest in "liberation" of oppressed peoples, he was promptly assailed by large sections of the British and European press and by political opponents at home, including Secretary Acheson, as favoring American intervention by force of arms behind the iron curtain.

John Foster Dulles, who was looked upon at the time as likely to be secretary of State, clarified the point in a speech by insisting that the United States was not seeking to start any wars but merely was eager to lend moral support to any liberation movements that might be begun. Nevertheless in European circles, particularly Britain, it became fashionable to pooh-pooh the whole liberation idea as impractical and unwise. It was argued that such outbreaks as might be encouraged would result in a needless loss of life and premature uprisings.

But the critics failed to exercise their imaginations—they could see only intervention by force of arms. They did not perceive that popular sentiment, once aroused, can spread in such proportions that the police come over to the side of the rebelling people. It is the idea of keeping alive the spirit of liberation, and keeping up hopes and informing oppressed peoples that on this side of the iron curtain are friends ready to help them at the opportune moment which is basic in the whole "liberation" concept.

Opposed To Rulers

The point of view was quickly grasped by President Wilson in 1917 when he told the world that America was not making war on the German people but on their autocratic government. The German people ultimately revolted. Today it needs to be said that the American government and its Allies are not building armament to use against the peoples of Soviet Russia and of the satellite states but against the imperialism of a small group of evil men who rule from Moscow.

The riots and uprisings confirm the fact that a liberty-loving people will not indefinitely tolerate despotism, and it may well be proved by subsequent developments that, when 200,000,000 people in Soviet Russia want to get rid of a tyrannical government, they can do so without an extensive civil war and by virtually a bloodless revolution.

Tyranny begets enemies, active and passive, and the more innocent persons are shot down by machine guns, the more the seeds of a greater revolt are sown. Big developments seem to be on the horizon in Europe—and the peace that the world yearns for may not be as far away as it has seemed. The Soviet rulers have been bluffing the U. N. in the Far East and in Europe. Maybe the Allies will see the true Soviet weakness now.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Popularity And Purpose

Dwight D. Eisenhower, by any poll of popularity, holds and even betters the good-will of the American people of all sections. He matches, if he does not exceed, the acceptance which marked Franklin D. Roosevelt's first term.

It is because of this that his advisers risk, at this time, unpopular measures, such as the avoidance of tax reduction, the settlement of the Korean War by appeasement, the continued employment of Acheson men in the State Department, etc. The theory is that more things are possible when Eisenhower is at the peak of popularity than might be possible later when the fortunes of politics may make for greater difficulties. This concept, from the standpoint of practical politics, is correct only if Eisenhower is guaranteed a majority in Congress whether the Republicans or Democrats prevail.

It may be recalled that at one time General Eisenhower believed that he could be nominated by both parties. Actually, he was elected by both parties. Calculations of the congressional vote show that Eisenhower and the Republican candidates for Congress ran about equal in the normally Republican Northen states, but Eisenhower ran far ahead of his party by getting so large a popular vote in the Solid South, which is normally Democaatic. In a word, Eisenhower owes as much to Texas as to New York.

Thus far, whatever support he has had in Congress has come from a Republican-Democratic coalition which provides him with the votes which the Republicans alone are unable to gather. The success of this coalition has been the achievement of Senator Robert A. Taft. Should Senator Taft's current enforced inactivity eliminate him from active management of the affairs of his party, Eisenhower may find himself in difficulties.

Senator William Knowland is an able, forceful man of outstanding integrity. Senator Taft chose Knowland to act for him because he can trust him to avoid such subservience to the White House as other Republican members would resent. Senator Knowland has an opportunity for brilliant leadership.

The Republicans have a majority of one in the Senate. Should one senator retire or die, the control of the Senate might be in doubt. Should the vote on organization be tied, Vice President Nixon would cast the binding vote. However, the situation could be complicated by the independence of Wayne Morse. He is now neither a Republican nor a Democrat. His current political affiliation seems to be the socialistically inclined Americans for Democratic Action.

Morse has been deprived of his committee memberships and therefore of seniority. He fought for his committee memberships on the floor of the Senate and was defeated by a combined Republican-Democratic vote. Morse is regarded by his colleagues as a nuisance, which, undoubtedly, he means to be.

The significance of Morse is that he has placed himself in the position to bargain the control of the Senate should the Republicans lose two votes by death or retirement. He could then negotiate for his vote. Should he vote Republican, he and Nixon could continue the present organization of the Senate; should he throw his vote to the Democrats, the Senate would be without a majority and in a state of such confusion as to make the conduct of business almost impossible. Morse could, in such circumstance, break down the Eisenhower administration. He could create a situation more closely resembling France than the United States.

Ours is a resilient people who find expediencies to handle men like Morse. The Democrats would, beyond doubt, come to the rescue. Such Democratic senators as Byrd or Russell would never accept power by nuisance value. They would surely vote to continue the present organization of the Senate until the people have made their choice in an election. Both parties dislike mugwumps.

One other factor appears in this complication: Styles Bridges, president pro tem of the Senate, a respected Republican, runs for re-election in 1954. The Old Second Guesser

by John Wheeler

How To Play Golf

Tommy Armour has just written a book on golf, and Simon and Schuster, the publishers, are plugging it hard. As I recall the offer made in one ad, you can get your cash payment back if you don't take something like 10 strokes off your score after reading it. I digested the text, studied the diagrams, and went out to play the next day. I think I could have honestly demanded my money back, except I got the book free. I won a dollar from Bruce Barton, though.

John Wheeler

Once, years ago, when I suggested to Christy Mathewson he start a correspondence school to teach the fine points of pitching, he shook his head.

"No," he answered, "I don't think it would be any good. One spring I coached the Harvard pitchers, and I couldn't accomplish much standing right there and showing them."

Probably lessons do help, although I have seen a fellow spend two hours and 20 bucks in the morning studying under a pro and then go out in the afternoon and be worse than ever. He was trying to remember too many things. Alex Morrison, who built up quite a reputation as a golf professor, would ask you more questions than a psychiatrist. He might start by inquiring which side of the bed you got out of that morning.

One of the most entertaining bits of instruction I was ever fortunate enough to witness occurred at the residence of Westbrook Pegler in Pound Ridge. We had been participating in a friendly softball game, and returned to the Pegler mansion for refreshments and supper. Among those present was Anita Colby, the beautiful model, sometimes known as "The Face." Others were Gene Sarazen, Grantland Rice, and yours truly. After a couple of shots of Peg's jump steady, Mr. Rice made a sporting proposition.

"Gene," he said, "you take Anita as a partner and Jack and I will pitch to that green against you for a dollar a shot."

The match was made. On this particular afternoon Miss Colby, as I recall, was dressed in flame-colored slacks, a fancy blouse and very thick-soled open-toed shoes which I believe are called wedgies. The costum was extremely becoming. However, it soon became apparent she had not devoted much time to golf. Sarazen teed her ball up and handed her the proper tool. She took a swipe at it and swung over by about six inches, missing the target entirely. Two more tries brought the same results or lack of them. Gene studied his partner thoughtfully for a minute, and then said:

"I think you might do better if you took off your shoes because you would be closer to the ground."

She did as instructed and, standing in her pretty bare feet, swung again. Once more she fanned the air by the same margin. Mr. Pegler, always a close observer, stepped up with a suggestion.

"Why don't you try taking your pants off?" he asked.

Miss Colby retired blushing, and the match was broken up.

There used to be a pro down at East Hampton who is now dead. He was only a fair golfer, but liked to play with "pigeons" for good bets. In the mornings, he would book up a lot of pupils, mostly women on week days. When a lady would walk out to the tee with her sacks of clubs, he would say:

"Sit down there and watch me. Try to do what I do."

He would spend about half an hour hitting balls and getting in a lot of practice for himself while he was paid. Then being tired, he would sit down and discuss the right form. Finally, he would add as a sort of postscript:

"Now you hit a few." She would and the lesson was finished. He was looking for a new job the next summer.

Lowell Pratt publishes several golf books. I ran into him the other day.

"We are bringing out a new one by Sam Snead soon," he told me.

"Do you know how you can save a lot of money?" I hinted.

"How?" he inquired, pricking up his ears.

"Just take the Ben Hogan book, erase his name, and substitute 'By Sam Snead.' "

Of all the experts, in my opinion, Bobby Jones did the best job. He wrote all his own stuff in long hand.

A 20-year-old boy has had no more peace than yeast in a brewery.

He has been toothed on the rumors and the alarums of war. When he graduates they give him a square hat with af lat top. If it fits his head he's a gone pidge.

They give him a certificate in Latin that can be cashed only a drugstore.

They dress him in a long black gown. If he tries to wear it into a life-boat he is a coward.

These younkers had no more to do with world conditions than you have with the migration of lemmings.

Us old birds have fouled it up like a wolfe's den.

But the kids are going to bail us out of trouble. And out of hock.

All we ever did for posterity was the booby-trap the calendar. And leave lem dates to make important.

So once again we apologize to the graduates of 1953. They have to carve their way in the world.

And the knives are getting bigger.

Before there were clocks in England, the king's cock crower solemnly crowed the hours around the king's palace.

In the past 50 years, receding glaciers have given British Columbia a deep-water, ice-free harbor at Tarr inlet on the northern coast.

The Old Second Guesser

How To Play Golf

Tommy Armour has just written a book on golf, and Simon and Schuster, the publishers, are plugging it hard. As I recall the offer made in one ad, you can get your cash payment back if you don't take something like 10 strokes off your score after reading it. I digested the text, studied the diagrams, and went out to play the next day. I think I could have honestly demanded my money back, except I got the book free. I won a dollar from Bruce Barton, though.

John Wheeler

Once, years ago, when I suggested to Christy Mathewson he start a correspondence school to teach the fine points of pitching, he shook his head.

"No," he answered, "I don't think it would be any good. One spring I coached the Harvard pitchers, and I couldn't accomplish much standing right there and showing them."

Probably lessons do help, although I have seen a fellow spend two hours and 20 bucks in the morning studying under a pro and then go out in the afternoon and be worse than ever. He was trying to remember too many things. Alex Morrison, who built up quite a reputation as a golf professor, would ask you more questions than a psychiatrist. He might start by inquiring which side of the bed you got out of that morning.

One of the most entertaining bits of instruction I was ever fortunate enough to witness occurred at the residence of Westbrook Pegler in Pound Ridge. We had been participating in a friendly softball game, and returned to the Pegler mansion for refreshments and supper. Among those present was Anita Colby, the beautiful model, sometimes known as "The Face." Others were Gene Sarazen, Grantland Rice, and yours truly. After a couple of shots of Peg's jump steady, Mr. Rice made a sporting proposition.

"Gene," he said, "you take Anita as a partner and Jack and I will pitch to that green against you for a dollar a shot."

The match was made. On this particular afternoon Miss Colby, as I recall, was dressed in flame-colored slacks, a fancy blouse and very thick-soled open-toed shoes which I believe are called wedgies. The costume was extremely becoming. However, it soon became apparent she had not devoted much time to golf. Sarazen teed her ball up and handed her the proper tool. She took a swipe at it and swung over by about six inches, missing the target entirely. Two more tries brought the same results or lack of them. Gene studied his partner thoughtfully for a minute, and then said:

"I think you might do better if you took off your shoes because you would be closer to the ground."

She did as instructed and, standing in her pretty bare feet, swung again. Once more she fanned the air by the same margin. Mr. Pegler, always a close observer, stepped up with a suggestion.

"Why don't you try taking your pants off?" he asked.

Miss Colby retired blushing, and the match was broken up.

There used to be a pro down at East Hampton who is now dead. He was only a fair golfer, but liked to play with "pigeons" for good bets. In the mornings, he would book up a lot of pupils, mostly women on week days. When a lady would walk out to the tee with her sacks of clubs, he would say:

"Sit down there and watch me. Try to do what I do."

He would spend about half an hour hitting balls and getting in a lot of practice for himself while he was paid. Then being tired, he would sit down and discuss the right form. Finally, he would add as a sort of postscript:

"Now you hit a few." She would and the lesson was finished. He was looking for a new job the next summer.

Lowell Pratt publishes several golf books. I ran into him the other day.

"We are bringing out a new one by Sam Snead soon," he told me.

"Do you know how you can save a lot of money?" I hinted.

"How?" he inquired, pricking up his ears.

"Just take the Ben Hogan book, erase his name, and substitute 'By Sam Snead.' "

Of all the experts, in my opinion, Bobby Jones did the best job. He wrote all his own stuff in long hand.

HE'S IN THE ARMY NOW

IT'S A SAD FAREWELL for any family when some member leaves for military service. The family of Boris, 2-year-old German shepherd, is no exception. Boris, owned by Stanley Pryputniewicz of Clinton R.D. 3 in central New York state, was accepted for sentry duty with the Army at Alexandria, Va. In the first photo he says goodby to his sister Candy. Next he bids goodby to another sister, Cindy. Then comes the final handshake with his owner, and into the shipping box goes Boris. (International)

Kathleen Dougherty Is Honor Guest At Pre-Nuptial Party

Is Fiancee Of A. J. Houck, Jr.

Miss Dougherty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett A. Dougherty, 1211 Bedford Street, is to become the bride of Anthony J. Houck, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Houck, 210 South Lee Street, tomorrow. The wedding ceremony is being solemnized at a nuptial mass at 10 a. m., in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, with Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny officiating.

The hostess used a pink and white color scheme in her decorations. A miniature bride doll with her two attendants in pink and blue, were on the mantel with a shower of white ribbons as a background. Original rhymes, attached to the ends of the shower of ribbons, gave the clues to the bride where to find each gift.

A miniature bride and bridegroom topped the white cake, and an arrangement of pink and white carnations with pink candles on either side, centered the refreshment table.

The evening was spent informally with guests playing appropriate games.

Invited guests were Mrs. Dougherty, Mrs. Houck, Mrs. Wallace Harper, Mrs. Frank McCagh, Mrs. John Clancey, Miss Katherine Kirk, Miss Deloris Martin, Mrs. G. C. Blake, Mrs. Robert Neely, Mrs. Paul Horn, Mrs. Virgil Green, Mrs. John Beegle, Miss Margaret Miller, Mrs. John Kelly and Mrs. Robert Dougherty.

Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty are entertaining with a rehearsal party at their home tonight. Assorted summer flowers are being used in the decorations. They will be hosts for a wedding breakfast and a reception honoring their daughter and her bridal party following the ceremony tomorrow. Both are being held at Minke's Cottage Inn.

Alumni To Hold Dance Tonight

St. Mary's Alumni Association will hold a spring dance tonight at Minke's Cottage Inn.

Formal dress is optional and music will be by Jimmy Andrews and his orchestra.

Officers of the association are Miss Shirley Greene, president; Miss Betty Stegmaier, vice president; Mrs. Jean Rice, secretary-treasurer. The retiring officers are Mrs. Ronald Lohr, president; Mrs. Fred Squires, Jr., vice president; and Mrs. Margaret Cunningham, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. T. M. Andrews

Is Writing Epic Poem On Cumberland

A native of Chapel Hill, N. C., Mrs. T. M. Andrews, who has resided in Cumberland since 1942, is writing an epic poem on Cumberland.

Keenly interested in the historical significance of Cumberland, Mrs. Andrews has done a lot of research on the subject. Part of her writing was done while at Columbia University, the past four summers, where she was working on her Master's degree in English, which she received earlier this month.

Mrs. Andrews has been a teacher of English at Allegany High School from 1947 until her recent resignation.

A charter member of the American Association of University Women, she has been chairman of the Social Studies group in the Cumberland Branch of AAUW and state division, and active in promoting on each level a program of state-wide recreation as a means of reducing delinquency. She explained last evening that at the same time she is trying to "set-up a state wide, cooperative industry based upon a recreational loop that would include the C and O Canal and tie-in from the mountain tops to the sea, Maryland's vast variety of recreational resources."

While here Mrs. Andrews also has been a member of the Cumberland Girl Scout Council, a charter member of the Allegany County Bird Club and affiliated with the Maryland Ornithological Society; a director of the Junior High Bird Club and field trips; promotor for the National Audubon Screen Tours; and councilor at the Pleasant Valley Nature Camp.

Dr. and Mrs. Andrews are the parents of one daughter, Miss Jean Chandler Andrews, a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1948, who now has a government position in Washington. The family moved here in 1942 from Weeks Island, La., when Dr. Andrews accepted a position as a chemist at the Celanese Corporation of America.

Mrs. Andrews is moving to Charlottesville, Va., tomorrow to join her husband, who is affiliated with the Institute of Textile Technology there.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuschel are the parents of two children, Carl John Reuschel, Wilmington, Del., and Miss Barbara Joan Reuschel, at home. They have one grandchild.

The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized at 7:30 o'clock in First Baptist Church with Rev. O. Afton Linger officiating.

Decorations for the auxiliary's pre-nuptial program and party were in keeping with the auxiliary's colors of green and white.

The hymns, "O Zion Haste," and "The Christian Home," were sung at the opening of the program and were followed by a solo of "Always," sung by Paul Keifer and prayer by Mrs. William Sheally, president of the WMS.

Girls taking part in the candle ceremony were Jacqueline Day, Virginia Mongold, Nancy Long, Eileen Billings, Ann Wilson, Mary Kolb and Eleanor Campbell.

The hostess used yellow and green decorations. She had the shower gifts arranged beneath a shower of yellow and green streamers, and the same colors in the table settings. Yellow daisies centered the table and were used throughout the house.

The taking of colored pictures featured the informal entertainment during the evening.

Is Fiancee Of A. J. Houck, Jr.

The hostess used a pink and white color scheme in her decorations. A miniature bride doll with her two attendants in pink and blue, were on the mantel with a shower of white ribbons as a background. Original rhymes, attached to the ends of the shower of ribbons, gave the clues to the bride where to find each gift.

Mrs. T. M. Andrews

Is Writing Epic Poem On Cumberland

A native of Chapel Hill, N. C., Mrs. T. M. Andrews, who has resided in Cumberland since 1942, is writing an epic poem on Cumberland.

Keenly interested in the historical significance of Cumberland, Mrs. Andrews has done a lot of research on the subject. Part of her writing was done while at Columbia University, the past four summers, where she was working on her Master's degree in English, which she received earlier this month.

Mrs. Andrews has been a teacher of English at Allegany High School from 1947 until her recent resignation.

A charter member of the American Association of University Women, she has been chairman of the Social Studies group in the Cumberland Branch of AAUW and state division, and active in promoting on each level a program of state-wide recreation as a means of reducing delinquency. She explained last evening that at the same time she is trying to "set-up a state wide, cooperative industry based upon a recreational loop that would include the C and O Canal and tie-in from the mountain tops to the sea. Maryland's vast variety of recreational resources."

While here Mrs. Andrews also has been a member of the Cumberland Girl Scout Council, a charter member of the Allegany County Bird Club and affiliated with the Maryland Ornithological Society; a director of the Junior High Bird Club and field trips; promotor for the National Audubon Screen Tours; and councilor at the Pleasant Valley Nature Camp.

Dr. and Mrs. Andrews are the parents of one daughter, Miss Jean Chandler Andrews, a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1948, who now has a government position in Washington. The family moved here in 1942 from Weeks Island, La., when Dr. Andrews accepted a position as a chemist at the Celanese Corporation of America.

Local Man's Name Mentioned In Toll Bridge Ad Dispute

The name of a Cumberland native cropped up during discussion of charges that handbills distributed by state employes at Maryland's Potomac River Bridge in Anne Arundel County advertised a restaurant in which the comissioner of motor vehicles has an interest.

Delegate Richard E. Lankford (D-Anne Arundel) leveled the charge in a letter to Governor McKeldin. He said Blue Star Development Company, Ltd., owned land on which a Howard Johnson restaurant has been built on U. S. 301. The handbills were distributed at toll booths "around meal times", Lankford said. He said the commissioner, Thomas B. R. Mudd, has a part interest in the development company.

The name of the former Cumberland resident and Allegany High School graduate, Elwood Shaffer, came in when Mudd answered the charge.

Mudd said if handbills were handed out "it was just something to help the tourists. I'm sure that if Elwood Shaffer, bridge superintendent, did hand out the bills, he handed out advertisements from other restaurants as well, and did it only to let strangers know what fine restaurants we have around here.

Louis J. O'Donnell, general manager of Maryland's three toll bridges, said he guessed "sometimes our employes" passed out advertising material left at the bridge by restaurant and hotel owners.

"I have formally instructed that no advertising matter be handed out or placed in the booths from now on," O'Donnell said.

Former Residents Form Loan Company

Two former local residents are incorporators of a new small-loan agency in Morgantown.

President is William S. Leyhe; vice president, Mrs. Leyhe, and secretary-treasurer, Forrest O. Kendall.

Leyhe came to Cumberland in the late 1930's as a teacher. He has been in Morgantown for nearly ten years, serving most of that time as manager of the Personal Finance Company branch there.

His wife is the former Miss Georgianna Krauss, who was secretary at Allegany High School before her marriage.

The new company was capitalized at a half-million dollars.

Fifteen others from Cumberland boards will accompany the draftees for pre-induction physical examinations. Scheduled to make the trip are one registrant for re-examination and a conscientious objector.

Fahey said a list of the inductees will be released later. Names of registrants going for physicals are not revealed.

In accordance with a directive from Selective Service headquarters in Baltimore, the contingent will leave the Union Street County Building at 7 a. m. via Blue Ridge bus which will stop in Frostburg at 7:30 to pick up men at the Gunter Hotel.

The Army will draft 23,000 men during July and the same number will go in August. The number is less than half the monthly average that prevailed in late 1952 and the first part of this year.

Local B&O Watchman Found Dead On Job At RR Crossing

A 54-year-old B&O crossing watchman, George Ellsworth Lease of 635 Columbia Avenue, was found dead at work early yesterday.

Police indicated he died of natural causes, but the body was taken to Memorial Hospital for an autopsy by Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner.

Officer Charles E. Cubbage, who investigated, said there was no evidence of foul play or marks on the body. Lease was discovered about 6:15 a. m. lying on his back, some 20 feet west of the Franklin Street watchbox and 25 feet from the railroad tracks.

Calvin McCreary, 415 Furnace Street, watchman at the Pear Street crossing a block away, told authorities he last saw Lease alive at 4:30 a. m.

Police said Alvin Paul, 231 Henderson Avenue, and Frank Semivario, 215 Knox Street, cement finishers on the flood control project in the Narrows, found the body.

Sometime ago Lease suffered a hip injury in a fall.

Born in Rawlings, he was a son of Mrs. Margaret (Huff) Lease, at home, and the late Jacob P. Lease. He held membership in Cumberland Aerie 245, FQ Eagles.

Surviving, besides his mother, are three brothers, Elmer T. and W. Branson Lease, city, and Thomas W. Lease, Keyser, and a sister, Miss Lavina Lease, Triple Lakes.

Local Man's Name Mentioned In Toll Bridge Ad Dispute

The name of a Cumberland native cropped up during discussion of charges that handbills distributed by state employes at Maryland's Potomac River Bridge in Anne Arundel County advertised a restaurant in which the comissioner of motor vehicles has an interest.

Delegate Richard E. Lankford (D-Anne Arundel) leveled the charge in a letter to Governor McKeldin. He said Blue Star Development Company, Ltd., owned land on which a Howard Johnson restaurant has been built on U. S. 301. The handbills were distributed at toll booths "around meal times", Lankford said. He said the commissioner, Thomas B. R. Mudd, has a part interest in the development company.

The name of the former Cumberland resident and Allegany High School graduate, Elwood Shaffer, came in when Mudd answered the charge.

Mudd said if handbills were handed out "it was just something to help the tourists. I'm sure that if Elwood Shaffer, bridge superintendent, did hand out the bills, he handed out advertisements from other restaurants as well, and did it only to let strangers know what fine restaurants we have around here.

Louis J. O'Donnell, general manager of Maryland's three toll bridges, said he guessed "sometimes our employes" passed out advertising material left at the bridge by restaurant and hotel owners.

"I have formally instructed that no advertising matter be handed out or placed in the booths from now on," O'Donnell said.

Former Residents Form Loan Company

Two former local residents are incorporators of a new small-loan agency in Morgantown.

President is William S. Leyhe; vice president, Mrs. Leyhe, and secretary-treasurer, Forrest O. Kendall.

Leyhe came to Cumberland in the late 1930's as a teacher. He has been in Morgantown for nearly ten years, serving most of that time as manager of the Personal Finance Company branch there.

His wife is the former Miss Georgianna Krauss, who was secretary at Allegany High School before her marriage.

16 Draftees Leave July 6

Sixteen registrants of local and Frostburg draft boards will report July 6 in Fairmont, W. Va., for induction into the armed forces.

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator here, said induction orders call for five men from Board 27, two in Board 28 and one in Board 29. Frostburg Board 30 will send eight.

Fifteen others from Cumberland boards will accompany the draftees for pre-induction physical examinations. Scheduled to make the trip are one registrant for re-examination and a conscientious objector.

Fahey said a list of the inductees will be released later. Names of registrants going for physicals are not revealed.

In accordance with a directive from Selective Service headquarters in Baltimore, the contingent will leave the Union Street County Building at 7 a. m. via Blue Ridge bus which will stop in Frostburg at 7:30 to pick up men at the Gunter Hotel.

The Army will draft 23,000 men during July and the same number will go in August. The number is less than half the monthly average that prevailed in late 1952 and the first part of this year.

Local B&O Watchman Found Dead On Job At RR Crossing

A 54-year-old B&O crossing watchman, George Ellsworth Lease of 635 Columbia Avenue, was found dead at work early yesterday.

Police indicated he died of natural causes, but the body was taken to Memorial Hospital for an autopsy by Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner.

Officer Charles E. Cubbage, who investigated, said there was no evidence of foul play or marks on the body. Lease was discovered about 6:15 a. m. lying on his back, some 20 feet west of the Franklin Street watchbox and 25 feet from the railroad tracks.

Calvin McCreary, 415 Furnace Street, watchman at the Pear Street crossing a block away, told authorities he last saw Lease alive at 4:30 a. m.

Police said Alvin Paul, 231 Henderson Avenue, and Frank Semivario, 215 Knox Street, cement finishers on the flood control project in the Narrows, found the body.

Sometime ago Lease suffered a hip injury in a fall.

Born in Rawlings, he was a son of Mrs. Margaret (Huff) Lease, at home, and the late Jacob P. Lease. He held membership in Cumberland Aerie 245, FQ Eagles.

Surviving, besides his mother, are three brothers, Elmer T. and W. Branson Lease, city, and Thomas W. Lease, Keyser, and a sister, Miss Lavina Lease, Triple Lakes.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home where services will be conducted tomorrow at 11 a. m. by Rev. Howard M. Amoss, pastor of Centre Street Methodist Church. Interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

SAMUELS BURIAL

The body of Mrs. Doris Samuels, 23, wife of Leroy Samuels, who died Wednesday at her home, 118 South Lee Street, was sent yesterday to the Horton Funeral Home, 1324 U Street, N. W., Washington, where services will be conducted.

BONNIE L. HARTMAN

KEYSER—Bonnie Leona Hartman, 11-year-old granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stevens, Star Route 1, died Wednesday in Potomac Valley Hospital where she was admitted Wednesday afternoon after being taken suddenly ill.

Born in Falls Church, Va., she was a daughter of Lawrence F. Hartman, The Plains, Va., and the late Bernice Jane (Stevens) Hartman.

Surviving, besides Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, with whom she had resided since infancy, is the paternal grandmother, Mrs. Mary Riggleman, Moorefield.

Services will be conducted tomorrow at 11 a. m. at the Duling Church, near New Creek. Rev. H. E. Suite, pastor, will officiate and interment will be in the Duling Cemetery.

Valparaiso, in Chile, means "vale of paradise."

The present day custom of a bridegroom's carrying his bride over the threshold dates back to ancient times when a man often captured his bride by force.

The word "thug" comes from a band of professional murderers who terrorized India until 1840, when they were stamped out by the British.

The bigger cars are able to attain 150 miles per hour or more on straight stretches, while the smallest, and slowest, can hit 85 miles per hour. With cars capable of these speeds, excitement and thrills are certain.

The program as outlined will start at 10:30 a. m. and continue through the afternoon. Provisions will be made for refreshment stands, crowd control, parking and traffic control, in order to make this sports car event a success for all concerned. In this field, Cumberland will score another first, since it will be the first time such a race will be staged in Maryland.

An added feature in the show will be a display and perhaps a race or handicap event in which only antique cars will participate. Entered in this class there will be a number of excellent specimens owned by local antique car enthusiasts.

The July 19 event is expected to bring to Cumberland thousands of visitors and a hundred or more contestants. In a recent race meet held at McDill Air Force base, there was an attendance of 100,000 people.

The Cumberland Lions Club is staging this show for the benefit of the Sight Conservation program in Allegany County and it is hoped it will become a permanent part of the Lion's efforts to aid the sight handicapped children in the county. If this is possible, the races will join the annual Horse Show and Christmas Tree Sale as a means of raising funds for local, handicapped children.

On the Lions Committee are Edgar D. Vandegrift, Al Windish, Louis G. Ort, Thomas H. Blash and C. William Carscaden. Dr. Benjamin Skitarelic, a member of the Sports Car Club, is assisting.

WASHINGTON — One of the big events overshadowing everything else in Washington this week is the Korean truce. A great many critics of the administration are accusing it of surrendering and selling out the South Koreans. Let us take a good look at the picture before we make such accusations.

We entered the war for the purpose of stopping Communist aggression. Can anyone say we didn't stop it? To that end the United Nations' efforts in Korea were a success. Unified Korea would, of course, be preferable, however, Korea was not unified when the war started. If you will think back, you will remember that at that time, we were seeking to unify Korea by political means. President Eisenhower is right in saying that we should now continue our efforts to bring about unification by political means.

The only alternative apparently is for an all-out war on the Asiatic mainland. Are the people of America willing to make this sacrifice in order to unify Korea?

The critics maintain this truce is the first military defeat the United States has suffered. This is false for several reasons: In the first place, remember our aim was to stop the aggression; this was done. In the second place, in spite of the facts that we have borne practically all of the cost and, except for South Korea, the lion's share of the casualties, it is still not our war but a war between the United Nations and the Communists. All through it we have been and are obliged to consult with the other members of the United Nations. We must continue to consult with them unless we withdraw. Do the American people want to do that?

It appears to me that President Eisenhower is doing a masterful job and it behooves us to remain calm, trust in God and keep our powder dry.

AROUND THE CAPITOL

The House Ways and Means Committee approved legislation extending the Reciprocal Trade Law for another year. The measure approved is substantially the same as requested by the President and includes establishment of a committee to study foreign economic policy.

During this past week I was given the opportunity to testify before the District Committee in behalf of my bill to modernize the charter of the Washington Gas Light Company and to testify before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee in behalf of my bill to establish the National Bureau of Standards as an independent agency.

My New York
by Mel Heimer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — In a way, this peculiar nouveau riche city, along the outskirts of which are buried leathery men who were just a trifle slow on the draw—what was it Dorothy Parker wrote about "I am young and lusty, among the roaring dead"?—reminds you of Sarasota, Fla., in the winter. Both are bases of operation for wandering and absorbing people. Sarasota has its circus souls and Las Vegas its gamblers. Both are offbeat, their lives jutting up and away from the humdrum, and both find haven in sunny camps far from the bank tellers and ribbon clerks.

Where—where on the face of the whole earth can you find gambling on such a staggering, flooding scale as here? Ours is a country where taking a chance on the clatter or the click of a roulette ball is a sneaky operation, customarily done behind locked doors presided over by broken-nosed, bulging-muscled gentlemen.

However, here in Vegas, you draw your blackjack cards before breakfast, you put your chips on rouge et noir right after lunch and life begins in earnest at the craps tables after dinner and lasts until the sun comes up. And always, over it all, are the endless slot-machines—the one-armed bandits peering at you in drugstores, groceries, saloons, hotel lobbies and filling stations.

The story is that behind all this sea of gambling there is a quiet little bay of small-city respectability, with life going on as tidily and lethargically as, say, in Teaneck, N. J., or Eastchester, N. Y. It could be—but there are few evidences of it.

The area is split into two sections, roughly—"the strip," a five-mile patch of U. S. Highway 91 along which are sprinkled seven lavish hotels, newest of them the four-million-dollar Sands, and "downtown," or the city proper. Over both sections the same obligation heard: the dull slam of slot-machine arms, with now and then a tinkle of nickles, quarters or silver dollars.

The lobbies of virtually all the hotels are crowded with gambling devices, and you must pick your way through them as you follow the bellhop from registration desk to elevator. There is no curfew on these devices. The inscrutable stickmen at the craps tables and the roulette croupiers are there when you leave at night and there again in the morning. They operate 24 hours.

The fancy swimming pools, the lush cafe shows, the bountiful and handsomely-cooked food—all these are trimmings. The wheels, the cards, the dice—these are the meat and bones.

The people who come to this place are motley and tough to pigeon-hole. Their names are Hank and Danny and Joe and Fred. They are big men, fat around the middle, looking a little strange in sports shirts and slacks. They sit around the pool for an hour or two, cigars in mouths, playing a little gin for a buck a point or reading the race results, and along the late afternoon they drift into the gambling areas and get down to business. The women with them are tall and blond and pale; they wear sun-glasses and wedgies and their faces are alabaster masks.

The final touch, the ironic overall to the picture, is the sight of the mountains, blue and hazy, in the not too-far-off distance. You take two steps off the "strip" and you are in the desert, and if you ride a horse a few miles you are at the foothills. In town and in the fancy hotels, men chase Lady Luck desperately and endlessly; in the mountains beyond, the winds whistle lonesomely and the sun beats down and a sidewinder lies coiled and motionless on a boulder. Man at his pursuits and nature at hers. Nature has a small, definite edge in stature.

However, humans cannot laugh at this citadel of gambling; the men who planted the seeds a dozen years ago were men who knew they were dealing in, not a luxury, but a necessity. Man must eat, he must sleep, he must love, and he must gamble. Food merchants, mattress-makers, love-magazine publishers—and gambling men— have made fortunes from catering to those instincts.

Before you brush it all off—sit down at a roulette wheel for half an hour. "This is for laughs," you might say . . . and when the first $5 stack is gone, you mutter, "You know, you might beat this game if you played the red every other time," and you buy another stack—and you are gone for good.

This posture check, if made daily, will add beauty to your carriage, walk and figure!

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Our "Question Box" is dedicated to helping you eradicate your beauty imperfections one by one. The answer to one of your problems may be among those given today.

Q. Though my hips are thin, my derriere juts out like a shelf. Can you explain this? A. Yes, easily—even without seeing you, I know you walk and stand incorrectly with pelvis tipped down. This always throws the hips outward. Your back will soon flatten if you practice the following daily to establish the habit of carrying your body properly: Stand with head, shoulders, hips and heels touching a wall. Keep your knees flexed. Try to press the curve of your back flat against the wall. As you do this, your pelvis automatically will tip upward into proper position. Hold this tilt for a count of ten, relax and repeat for five minutes. On the last try, walk away from the wall, maintaining the corrected stance as long as you can. Also, constantly remind yourself to keep the position. Soon it will be natural to you — and your trouble will be gone! Incidentally, used as a daily posture check, this little stunt will add beauty to anyone's carriage, walk and figure!

Smoothing Fuzzy Hair

Q. What can I do about thick hair that fuzzes when curled? A. Have your hair thinned and the ends tapered by the wet-razor method. Seek until you find the beauty salon that can do the job. How often the process needs repeating depends on how fast your hair grows.

Q. Is brown a good basic clothes color for a person with gray hair and brown eyes? A. It's a fine choice if your skin is dark but not the best for a fair complexion. Fair-skinned grays are better in black or medium and dark grays.

Quickie Answers

Quickie answers: 1. No, I do not advise two-inch platform soles to raise the height of a small woman as their effect on small feet is grotesque. 2. There is a new rinse for nylon slips that prevents clinging. 3. Yes, walking on tiptoe reduces the calf. But it should be done slowly.

And now a question for you: Why suffer a beauty ill unneccessarily? Send your problems to "Secrets of Charm." Questions of general interest are answered regularly in this column.

YOUR POSTURE

To achieve grace of the highest degree — to make yours the posture ideal — to improve stance, figure, health and the appearance of your clothes as well, read the informative, easy-to-follow booklet "YOUR POSTURE". A DELIGHTFUL MEAL PREPARED ALMOST INSTANTLY
ALTHOUGH YOU'VE BEEN TO THE "RACES"
ALL AFTERNOON!

SQUARE MEALS FOR SUMMER
by the Food Editors of Better Living
Big Salads, strong on meat

BOLOGNA AND POTATO SALAD

3 cups cooked cubed potatoes
¾ cup chopped celery
1 tsp. minced onion
½ cup sliced radishes
1 tsp. salt
¼ cup French dressing
3 hard cooked eggs, shelled
¾ cup chopped walnuts
1½ cups shredded cabbage
Mayonnaise
Escarole
16 slices Bologna

Combine potatoes, celery, onion, radishes, salt and French dressing in a bowl. Cut eggs in half. Remove whites, chop, add to salad. Put yolks aside to use later. Toss salad lightly. Chill 4 hours. Before serving, add nuts, cabbage and enough mayonnaise to moisten. Mix well.

Arrange salad on a platter this way. First cover platter with escarole. For each serving allow 2 slices of bologna; overlap these and lay in rows on platter. Spoon potato salad on half of bologna slices. Fold other half over. Next, force egg yolks through a sieve, sprinkling in strips over potato salad. Each section lifts out as a complete serving. Makes 8 servings.

For a family meal, wonderful for a crowd. With it serve hot cream of chicken soup, corn sticks, vegetable relishes. For dessert, fruit shortcake.

For other delightful salads shown, see the July issue of Better Living, on sale here.

Smoothing F[illegible]y Hair

Q. What can I do about thick hair that fuzzes when curled? A. Have your hair thinned and the ends tapered by the wet-razor method. Seek until you find the beauty salon that can do the job. How often the process needs repeating depends on how fast your hair grows.

Q. Is brown a good basic clothes color for a person with gray hair and brown eyes? A. It's a fine choice if your skin is dark but not the best for a fair complexion. Fair-skinned grays are better in black or medium and dark grays.

Quickie Answers

Quickie answers: 1. No, I do not advise two-inch platform soles to raise the height of a small woman as their effect on small feet is grotesque. 2. There is a new rinse for nylon slips that prevents clinging. 3. Yes, walking on tiptoe reduces the calf. But it should be done slowly.

Big Salads, strong on meat

BOLOGNA AND POTATO SALAD

3 cups cooked cubed potatoes
¾ cup chopped celery
1 tsp. minced onion
½ cup sliced radishes
1 tsp. salt
¼ cup French dressing
3 hard cooked eggs, shelled
¾ cup chopped walnuts
1½ cups shredded cabbage
Mayonnaise
Escarole
16 slices Bologna

Combine potatoes, celery, onion, radishes, salt and French dressing in a bowl. Cut eggs in half. Remove whites, chop, add to salad. Put yolks aside to use later. Toss salad lightly. Chill 4 hours. Before serving, add nuts, cabbage and enough mayonnaise to moisten. Mix well.

Arrange salad on a platter this way. First cover platter with escarole. For each serving allow 2 slices of bologna; overlap these and lay in rows on platter. Spoon potato salad on half of bologna slices. Fold other half over. Next, force egg yolks through a sieve, sprinkling in strips over potato salad. Each section lifts out as a complete serving. Makes 8 servings.

For a family meal, wonderful for a crowd. With it serve hot cream of chicken soup, corn sticks, vegetable relishes. For dessert, fruit shortcake.

Congress Urged To Make Inauguration Day Holiday

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP) — Congress yesterday took up a subject that can't help but have a wide appeal, the subject of another holiday.

A House Judiciary Committee heard an appeal for making every presidential inauguration day a no-work day.

It also heard requests for special days for teachers, grandmothers, the Constitution, the flag, Casimir Pulaski, prayer, children, interfaith, and Gettysburg Address, cancer education, the Louisiana Purchase, Haym Salomon, shut-ins, fathers, Abraham Lincoln and hill billy music.

In each case a congressman showed up to make a special plea. Samples:

Rep. Doyle (D-Calif), arguing for a resolution which would call for the President to name a commission to pick up a National Children's Day: "What becomes of the children of the nation, the nation becomes."

Rep. Davis (D-Ga), in asking for the second Sunday of October as National Grandmothers' Day, gave the subcommittee a statement in which he said: "Grandmothers throughout our great land have a preferred spot in the hearts of our national legislators, and in the hearts of all of us."

Three dates got the backing of Rep. Keating (R-NY): the fourth Sunday in September as Interfaith Day, Nov. 19 as Dedication Day on the anniversary of the Gettysburg Address, and Oct. 11 as Pulaski Day.

Of Brig. Gen. Pulaski, a Pole who served in the Revolutionary War, Keating said: "He gave his life while fighting for American independence."

Another Revolutionary hero, though not as well known, came in for special mention by Rep. Multer (D-NY).

Multer said that Haym Salomon, a Jewish merchant, twice got in such difficulties that the British arrested him. His second escape came in handy, because he had been sentenced to hang.

But his enthusiasm never faltered. Multer said he gave his entire fortune, $640,000, to aid the struggling American cause, and then used his credit to obtain additional funds.

Multer and Rep. Thomas B. Curtis (R-Mo) both plugged for making Jan. 20, 1947, and every four years thereafter, a legal holiday. That's when the president is inaugurated.

Rep. Winstead (D-Miss) wanted May 26 of each year set aside as National Hill Billy Music Day.

Winstead said he had introduced the bill by request, and, "Frankly, it seemed very silly to me." But he said it apparently doesn't seem silly to lots of people, and he's been besieged by people who would like to dignify the day by calling it Mountain Music Day or Folk Music Day.

Tawes Asks $43,000 To Aid Patrols For Rum Runners

BALTIMORE, June 18 (AP) — It's going to cost nearly $43,000 a year for a Maryland "border patrol" against rum runners.

Millard Tawes, state comptroller, handed the Board of Public Works has requested budget of $42,950 to set up an alcohol tax enforcement unit in his department.

The unit is required by law of the 1953 Legislature. The legislators fixed the maximum number of employes at seven. Tawes proposed total salaries of $28,900 and estimated expenses at $14,050.

The main idea behind the legislators' proposal was to catch evaders of the Maryland liquor tax. Most frequently mentioned were Marylanders who bought quantities in the District of Columbia where prices generally are lower.

The Maryland law limits an individual to bringing in one quart at a time and no more than two quarts a month.

However, Tawes envisions the enforcement unit's work as a wholesale crackdown on bootlegging with perhaps the gunfire of prohibition days.

"The suppression of the untaxpaid liquor traffic is an extremely dangerous and difficult undertaking," he stated. "To be effective, an investigator must frequently deal with hardened criminals on their own ground and be constantly prepared for an exchange of gunfire and physical combat."

For that reason, he outlined rigid qualifications for applicants.

They must have at least two years experience in the general law practice or comparable investigative work. They will have to pass a rigid physical examination and have no defects "which would interfere with their use of firearms or with their participation in raids, dangerous assignments or defensive tactics."

The age maximum will be 40 and they will be given a written and oral examination "to test observation, memory, arithmetical reasoning and ability to interpret statements."

Those who pass will be given training by the department and also go to the U. S. Treasury Enforcement Agents School in Washington for six weeks.

For the first year, the investigator will be on probation at $3,800 a year. If he sticks, he will be paid $4,200 the second year.

Tawes proposed five field investigators who could earn a maximum of $5,600 a year, a chief investigator with a potential top salary of $6,400 and an executive secretary with a minimum of $4,400 and maximum of $5,200.

Keyser Council Defers Action On $900 Fee

Obligation Incurred In Gas Rate Fight

KEYSER — Mayor Chester J. Compton told City Council that he met this week with the mayors of Elkins and Buckhannon in an effort to find ways of paying the expenses incurred in the West Virginia cities' partially successful fight to keep the State Public Service Commission from allowing the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company to raise its rates.

Several thousand dollars incurred for engineers and attorneys fees in the fight against the increased rates still has not been paid. Keyser's share has been set at about $900.

Compton said that a moral obligation exists for paying the amount because contributions from interested citizens were insufficient. The new rate was adjusted much lower than the company originally had asked.

Although he asked for council action on the matter, the matter was deferred because the item was not included in the city's budget. Mayor-elect John C. Freeland called it illegal for the present council to do anything that would bind succeeding councils.

Council members termed it unfortunate that Keyser citizens failed to raise more money for the fight against the higher rates. They also noted that council did not obligate itself in any way and no city money was used in carrying on the campaign. Elkins, Buckhannon and Keyser, as the largest cities in the affected area, are now faced with the responsibility of paying the costs.

Because Compton is leaving June 24 for a vacation trip to Canada, this week's session was the last council meeting he will attend. His term ends June 30.

Keyser Council Defers Action On $900 Fee

Obligation Incurred In Gas Rate Fight

KEYSER — Mayor Chester J. Compton told City Council that he met this week with the mayors of Elkins and Buckhannon in an effort to find ways of paying the expenses incurred in the West Virginia cities' partially successful fight to keep the State Public Service Commission from allowing the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company to raise its rates.

Several thousand dollars incurred for engineers and attorneys fees in the fight against the increased rates still has not been paid. Keyser's share has been set at about $900.

Compton said that a moral obligation exists for paying the amount because contributions from interested citizens were insufficient. The new rate was adjusted much lower than the company originally had asked.

Although he asked for council action on the matter, the matter was deferred because the item was not included in the city's budget. Mayor-elect John C. Freeland called it illegal for the present council to do anything that would bind succeeding councils.

Council members termed it unfortunate that Keyser citizens failed to raise more money for the fight against the higher rates. They also noted that council did not obligate itself in any way and no city money was used in carrying on the campaign. Elkins, Buckhannon and Keyser, as the largest cities in the affected area, are now faced with the responsibility of paying the costs.

Because Compton is leaving June 24 for a vacation trip to Canada, this week's session was the last council meeting he will attend. His term ends June 30.

FCC Engineer Checks Radio, TV Interference

Finds Bale Wire Across Power Line

WESTERNPORT — Engineers of the Federal Communications Commission believe they have determined the causes of interference with radio and television reception in the Tri-Towns area, according to a letter received by Mayor Okey E. Michael.

The letter from H. A. Cohen, engineer in charge for the FCC, was read at this week's council meeting and said in part that a large section of bale wire, suspended from a 2,300-volt power line of the Potomac Edison Company was the probable cause.

An investigation was made in the area on June 10 and 11 by an engineer of the FCC office after numerous complaints had been recefved .

The engineer discovered the bale wire and had it removed. It was apparently causing sufficient arcing to produce the interference to area reception, the engineer believes.

With the letter was information from the Commission showing the possible causes and how to deal with problems of interference.

FCC Engineer Checks Radio, TV Interference

Finds Bale Wire Across Power Line

WESTERNPORT — Engineers of the Federal Communications Commission believe they have determined the causes of interference with radio and television reception in the Tri-Towns area, according to a letter received by Mayor Okey E. Michael.

The letter from H. A. Cohen, engineer in charge for the FCC, was read at this week's council meeting and said in part that a large section of bale wire, suspended from a 2,300-volt power line of the Potomac Edison Company was the probable cause.

An investigation was made in the area on June 10 and 11 by an engineer of the FCC office after numerous complaints had been received.

The engineer discovered the bale wire and had it removed. It was apparently causing sufficient arcing to produce the interference to area reception, the engineer believes.

With the letter was information from the Commission showing the possible causes and how to deal with problems of interference.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, (INS) — Some random notes on a recent trip:

Saw a remarkable thing at the Hotel Excelsior in Rome while there—an Italian. There he stood, tall, dark, thin-waisted, and in profile. Right in the lobby.

A number of Americans who checked into that hotel shortly after V-E Day and haven't been out of the lounge bar since then stared incredulously and, as a man, rushed to their rooms for their cameras.

Alas, when we returned pell-mell down the marbled stairways, he was gone. Several insisted that he was only a mirage, induced by a shaft of rare sunlight that punctured what has been sunny Italy's rainiest spring in years. Others swore mightily that they had been present at a miracle, and were all for reporting it to the proper ecclesiastical authorities. I say he was a real flesh and blood Italian, preposterous as that may sound in the American colony in Rome, and I plan to turn a whole dossier on the matter over to the National Geagraphic.

That's how many Italians one sees around the Excelsior.

If you are in Rome, and wish to do as the Americans do, you go to the Excelsior and sooner or later, usually sooner, you'll have the impression that you have wandered into a templed version of Toots Shor's, 21, the Stork, El Morocco, the Pump Room, Beverly Hills Hotel, Chasen's or Romanoff's. For Americans, all roads lead to Rome. Once there, all roads apparently lead to the Excelsior.

Ambassador Luce can speak several languages, and, to boot, languages within languages. One day she invited us to luncheon at magnificent Villa Taverna, official residence of U. S. ambassadors. There were to be some pictures taken later in the superb and seemingly endless gardens, and there was some question as to where the cameras should be set up. The decision would be hers.

Mrs. Luce, who had been discussing earth-shaking events with the rest of the company, led me to an ancient window-door that opened into the gardens, and in much the same gentle voice as she had been using previously said — as any reporter would to another:

"Let's case the joint."

It's a little tough for American Lines to compete against nationalized foreign airlines engaged in the North-Atlantic run. For one thing each nation thus involved has no worry that another airline within that country is in there pitching for business, too. We, of this land of free enterprise, have TWA and Pan American battling vigorously for the North-Atlantic trade, nad between the two they're getting a real good hunk of it.

Though determined rivals, TWA and Pan Am know how to cooperate in a pinch. My wife and I had a dinner engagement in Paris at a certain hour, and tickets on a Rome-to-Paris TWA plane that would get us there in time. But the Plane had been delayed, romantically enough, in Bombay.

TWA searched about and found us seats on a Pan Am Stratocruiser, originating in Rome and headed for New York via Paris. Over Northern Italy one of our engines swallowed a valve. We came in on three easily enough. At Orly, Paris, the Pan Am passengers who were New York bound were put immediately on a TWA Constellation, an available spare whereas Pan Am had none at the moment, and whisked on to New York.

Problems To Delay Helicopter Service

BALTIMORE, June 18 (AP) — A city official said today a number of problems need to be worked out before the Air Force can start helicopter service between downtown Baltimore and the Pentagon in Washington.

Walter Perkins, chairman of the Baltimore Airport Board, said the Air Force's Air Research and Development Command headquarters here is anxious to start the shuttle service.

Perkins said many engineering and legal problems are yet to be worked out looking to designation of a helicopter site here. It is proposed to locate it near Gen. Sam Smith Park on Light Street.

Perkins said inauguration of the service must await completion of studies of the Light Street development area by the City Planning Commission.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, (INS) — Some random notes on a recent trip:

Saw a remarkable thing at the Hotel Excelsior in Rome while there—an Italian. There he stood, tall, dark, thin-waisted, and in profile. Right in the lobby.

A number of Americans who checked into that hotel shortly after V-E Day and haven't been out of the lounge bar since then stared incredulously and, as a man, rushed to their rooms for their cameras.

Alas, when we returned pell-mell down the marbled stairways, he was gone. Several insisted that he was only a mirage, induced by a shaft of rare sunlight that punctured what has been sunny Italy's rainiest spring in years. Others swore mightily that they had been present at a miracle, and were all for reporting it to the proper ecclesiastical authorities. I say he was a real flesh and blood Italian, preposterous as that may sound in the American colony in Rome, and I plan to turn a whole dossier on the matter over to the National Geagraphic.

That's how many Italians one sees around the Excelsior.

If you are in Rome, and wish to do as the Americans do, you go to the Excelsior and sooner or later, usually sooner, you'll have the impression that you have wandered into a templed version of Toots Shor's, 21, the Stork, El Morocco, the Pump Room, Beverly Hills Hotel, Chasen's or Romanoff's. For Americans, all roads lead to Rome. Once there, all roads apparently lead to the Excelsior.

Ambassador Luce can speak several languages, and, to boot, languages within languages. One day she invited us to luncheon at magnificent Villa Taverna, official residence of U. S. ambassadors. There were to be some pictures taken later in the superb and seemingly endless gardens, and there was some question as to where the cameras should be set up. The decision would be hers.

Mrs. Luce, who had been discussing earth-shaking events with the rest of the company, led me to an ancient window-door that opened into the gardens, and in much the same gentle voice as she had been using previously said — as any reporter would to another:

"Let's case the joint."

It's a little tough for American Lines to compete against nationalized foreign airlines engaged in the North-Atlantic run. For one thing each nation thus involved has no worry that another airline within that country is in there pitching for business, too. We, of this land of free enterprise, have TWA and Pan American battling vigorously for the North-Atlantic trade, nad between the two they're getting a real good hunk of it.

Father Favors Porterhouse

It's the best for Dad on his Day, June 21st. For dinner that could mean but one thing — a thick, juicy Porterhouse steak. It's broiled to a perfect "done," accomplished by placing the steak on the broiler rack 2 to 3 inches from the heat and closely following a time-table. Here the steak is served with French fried potato slices.

With plentiful supplies of beef selling at attractive prices it's easy to please dad on his day, June 21st. All you need do is bring on a big, thick broiled porterhouse and he's sure to be completely satisfied. To make him doubly pleased simply add the "trimmings" he likes so well with steak.

Those trimmings might be French fried potatoes, buttered asparagus or frenched green beans, a tossed salad with his favorite dressing, hot rolls or hard rolls, and pie a la mode or strawberry shortcake with whipped cream.

Points out the well-known meat expert Reba Staggs, in purchasing steak for broiling, have it cut at least 1 inch thick. This produces the finest results, and there's nothing so grand as a thick broiled steak.

Serve Immediately

And there's nothing so disappointing as a poorly broiled steak. See that it is golden brown on the outside, the inside rare or medium as he likes. Another point to remember — do serve the steak immediately. Have dinner ready, the family at the table and serve the steak directly from the broiler to the spot in front of dad for him to carve.

Broiling temperature is determined by the distance of the meat from the heat. For a 1-inch steak, place the meat on the broiler pan and adjust pan so that top of meat is 2 inches from the heat; a 2-inch steak, 3 inches from the heat.

Broil until the surface is well browned, then season with salt and pepper. Seasonings are added after the meat is broiled because salt tends to draw out the meat juices and retard browning. Turn the steak and finish cooking on the second side. Season, and the steak is ready to serve.

Use Dairy Foods — Nature's Goodness At Its Best

You probably have a number of favorite recipes that call for milk or cream or ice cream.

Not only do these dairy foods make for good eating, but they contribute to your family's health. For, they furnish abundant amounts of protein and calcium, nutrients essential in the diets of both children and adults. Dairy products provide these nutrients economically too. So, you get more nutrition for your money when you use dairy products.

During the summer, ice cream and sherbert are favorite dairy foods. You can keep your family well supplied with these wholesome desserts. Make ice cream and sherbert the easy way — with packaged freezing mix and sherbert mix. All flavored and sweetened, you simply add milk or cream and freeze. (See directions below.) Here, are exciting new quick ways to serve homemade frozen desserts at mealtime or refreshment snacktime.

HOMEMADE ICE CREAM

Combine 1 cup milk with 1 cup heavy cream. Whip in a deep bowl until light and fluffy — takes about 2 minutes. Add 1 package flavored freezing mix (vanillin, chocolate, strawberry or new black raspberry). Beat one more minute to dissolve. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until firm, but not too hard.

HOMEMADE SHERBERT

Add 1 package sherbert mix (lemon, orange, or raspberry) to 2 cups milk. Beat with rotary beater until dissolved — about 2 minutes. Pour mixture into refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment. When mixture is firmly frozen, remove from tray to bowl. Break up into small lumps with fork or potato masher. Beat with electric or hand beater until free from lumps but still a thick mush. Return to refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment until fairly firm. If frozen too hard, place in refrigerator just below freezing compartment to soften.

SUNSHINE SPECIAL — Roll scoops of homemade vanillin, strawberry or black raspberry ice cream in finely shredded coconut. Serve with scoops of sherbert. Fresh fruit sauce or marshmallow sauce transforms this into a luscious sundae.

SUNBURST SUNDAE — Put a peach half and pineapple tidbits in bottom of dessert dish. Top with a scoop of vanilla ice cream and garnish with apricot jam. (Sherbet can be used instead of ice cream.)

KIDDIE POPS — Mix flavored freezing mix or sherbert mix with 2 cups milk until dissolved. Pour into frozen sucker molds and freeze until firm.

SHERBERT COOLERS — Serve chilled fruit juice, fruit-ade or carbonated beverages with a scoop of your favorite flavor or sherbert. Garnish with mint leaves or fruit slices, if desired.

An easy summer salad with real satisfying flavor in this one made with frozen mixed vegetables. Just cook the vegetables according to the directions on the package, drain and cool. Thin mayonnaise with a little milk and add to it ¼ cup diced cucumber and 1 tablespoon minced onion. Combine with cooled vegetables and serve in lettuce cups. It's yummy!

Give Summer Bride Correct Meat Cookery Equipment

For the bride cooking may prove to be a new adventure. To ease this task it is important that she have the correct cooking utensils. With meat being the center of her meals, she is sure to thank you repeatedly if you gift her with the items needed to prepare meat properly.

In buying equipment remember that meat cookery is divided into two methods—the dry heat method for tender meat cuts, and the moist heat method for less-tender cuts. The dry heat method includes roasting, broiling and panboiling. The moist heat method includes braising and cooking in liquid.

To follow the correct method of roasting she merely needs an open roasting pan that has a rack to fit it. With these two pieces of equipment she can roast meat as recommended—fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan in a slow oven 300° F. for beef, veal, smoked pork and lamb; 350° F. for fresh pork.

Roast Meat Thermometer

Another item of great value in roasting is a roast meat thermometer. With this thermometer inserted into the largest meat muscle (but not in fat or on bone) she will know exactly when the meat is cooked to the degree of doneness her husband likes.

For the second dry heat method, broiling, she can depend upon her range for the needed equipment. However, for panbroiling thin steaks and chops she needs a heavy frying-pan. The meat is browned in its own or a small amount of added fat. It is turned frequently for even cooking with any excess fat poured off. The meat is never covered.

When cooking in moist heat as in preparing a Swiss or country-fried steak or a pot-roast, she can use her heavy frying-pan with a tight fitting cover or a Dutch oven. The meat is browned on both sides, then a small amount of liquid added, the meat covered and cooked slowly until tender. In preparing stews or large cuts such as corned beef completely covered with liquid, she needs a Dutch oven or other deep utensil that's fitted with a tight cover.

'Something Old, Something New'--And A Can Opener

Maryland canners are a June bride's best friend, thinks this pretty newlywed as she stands amidst a typical group of the 788 cans of food and non-food products which American Can Company estimates the average Maryland family uses a year. Free State housewives open six times as many cans as brides of 50 years ago, the can-making firm reports. As a result Maryland homemakers today have cut their time in the kitchen to about two hours daily, whereas Grandmother spent a major part of her married life there. Maryland canners also do their part in helping housewives prepare an almost endless variety of meals. The state's canners annually pack approximately 175 different kinds of food in about 290 styles.

Surprise The Family With Fruity, Nutty Banbury Turnovers

Even the best meal planners sometimes get into a bit of a rut—about dessert. If you've been concentrating on pies and cakes (which are deservedly popular, of course), branch out into new fields and make turnovers for a change. Here's a recipe for some particularly delicious ones — Banbury Turnovers. Little treasures of raisins and nuts, accented with lemon, sealed into flaky triangles of delicate pastry.

BANBURY TURNOVERS

12 Turnovers

Pastry

¾ cup shortning
1 teaspoon salt
2¼ cups sifted flour
¼ cup water

Mix flour and salt in a bowl. Cut shortning into flour with knives, fork or pastry blender until the pieces are the size of small peas. Blend ⅓ cup of the mixture with ¼ cup water. Add this to the remaining mixture. Mix and shape into ball.

Filling

½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1 egg
1 cup seedless raisins
¼ cup chopped nuts
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind

Roll pastry ⅛ inch thick; cut 4-inch squares. Combine sugar and flour and stir into slightly beaten egg. Combine with remaining ingredients. Place filling on half of each square; fold pastry to form triangle. Seal edges and flute with fingers or a fork. Cut or prick small steam vents. Bake in hot oven, (425°F.) about 15 minutes.

Fresh Asparagus Soup

1 pound fresh asparagus
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon sugar
2½ cups milk
½ cup cream
2 egg yolks

Cook asparagus until tender in boiling, salted water. Drain, saving water; cut off tips and put aside. Rub rest of stalks through sieve and add enough of the cooking water to make 2 cups of puree. Melt butter, blend in flour, salt, pepper and sugar. Add milk and cream; cook over direct heat until sauce boils and thickens. Pour some of the hot sauce over the beaten egg yolks, pour into the rest of the sauce and cook 2 minutes longer over boiling water. Stir in puree and asparagus tips, and reheat. Serve immediately. Serves 6.

Chowder Combines Macaroni And Tuna

From sunny California comes this recipe for a hearty chowder that is a meal in itself. Macaroni shells and canned tuna are the basic ingredients for this delicious treat that's especially suited for Saturday luncheons or Sunday-night supper. Crusty rolls are a good accompaniment.

California Chowder
(Makes 6-8 Servings)

3 slices bacon, cut in small pieces
2 medium-sized onions, chopped
1 stalk celery
1 bay leaf
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
7 cups chicken stock*
8 ounces shell macaroni (3 cups)
2 7-ounce cans solid-pack tuna, drained
4 cups milk
Dash cayenne

In a heavy soup kettle, cook bacon over medium heat until lightly browned; add onions and cook until tender. Add celery, bay leaf, green pepper and chicken stock; bring to boil and gradually add macaroni so that stock continues to boil. Cook, stirring occasionally, until macaroni is tender. Add tuna which has been broken into pieces with a fork, milk and cayenne; cook over low heat 15-20 minutes to blend flavors. Garnish with chopped parsley, if desired.

*Stock may be made from chicken bouillon cubes dissolved in hot water.

Salad Bowl

Your wooden salad bowl should be lightly sanded inside and seasoned occasionally with spices. A light application of a vegetable oil will help keep it in shape.

Hawaiian Custard

Sweet Cherry Cheese Cake

1 9-inch graham cracker or crumb crust, chilled
1 package lemon pie filling
1 egg, beaten
1⅓ cups water
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ pint cottage cheese
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons strawberry or raspberry flavored gelatin
⅔ cup boiling water
1 cup pitted dark sweet cherries

Combine lemon pie filling with beaten egg, water, sugar and salt. Cook over moderate heat until mixture boils and thickens; stir constantly. Beat cottage cheese until light and fluffy. Stir in lemon mixture; add lemon juice and rind; beat until smooth. Cool. Pour into chilled crust; chill until firm. While cheese filling is setting, dissolve gelatine in boiling water. Stir in cherries. Chill until partially set. Spoon cherry glaze over cheese cake. Chill and set. Serves 6 to 8.

Ice Cream Pie

2 cups vanilla wafer crumbs (about 6 ounces wafers)
¼ cup butter, melted
1½ quarts strawberry ice cream
¼ cup pistachio nuts or almonds, sliced

Roll vanilla wafers into very fine crumbs, using rolling pin. Press crumbs through sieve to make them uniform. Bacon-Cheese Sandwiches Are Tasty And Nutritious

One food that ranks second to none for appetizing goodness is crisp, fragrant bacon. This delicious meat will not only add extra nutritive value to the diet, but will stimulate appetites and provide needed pep and energy. Always buy by brand to assure yourself of finest flavor and quality. When you choose bacon that carries a well known packer's brand name, you can be sure that the bacon will have uniform slices with just the right proportion of fat and lean, and the distinctive, sweet-smoked flavor so prized in fine bacon.

Choose bacon that has been kept under refrigeration at the market, and keep it in the refrigerator at home, too. Buy just enough for about a week, since the fine flavor and aroma are best when the bacon is fresh. Bacon, like other cured pork, should not be frozen.

The quick and easy preparation of bacon is another attribute that makes it ideal for summer. Whether you broil, oven-cook, or pan-fry bacon, it's ready in a matter of minutes for any of its versatile uses. Often bacon slices will not separate easily when cold. This may be remedied by removing the bacon from the refrigerator about five minutes before using. If you like you may lift off the number of slices you need and start cooking them "in a clump" in a cold skillet. The slices will separate easily as the bacon begins to heat. Do not pour off the drippings as the bacon cooks. This melted fat will float the bacon and prevent the slices from burning.

Bacon is delicious alone or in combination with many other foods. Here's a sandwich suggestion that combines crisp bacon with savory, sharp-flavored cheese. You'll find this bacon-cheese sandwich not only delicious, but quick, easy, and the perfect answer for summer luncheons or informal suppers.

Bacon-Cheese Summer Specials

12 slices bacon
6 frankfurt buns, split
1 cup (about) shredded cheese
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion

Place separated slices of bacon and buns, split side up, on broiler rack. Broil 3 inches from heat source. Turn bacon once. Drain on absorbent paper. Remove buns when they are browned. Combine cheese and onion. Place cheese mixture on one side of hot buns and hot bacon on the other side. Serve with sliced tomatoes and lettuce.

O'Brien Potatoes With Bacon

Yield: 4 servings

1 pound bacon
1 onion, finely chopped
¼ cup chopped green pepper
4 potatoes, cooked and cubed
¼ cup chopped piminento
Salt and pepper

Pan-fry bacon according to directions on package. Drain on absorbent paper. Keep hot. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons of the bacon fat. Fry onion and green pepper in the hot fat until tender. Add potatoes, pimiento, salt and pepper, and brown lightly. Serve with the hot bacon.

Soup And Double Decker Sandwich For Dinner

Often on these lazy, warm summer days the family welcomes a simple soup and sandwich supper.

Perhaps Dad will take over the kitchen and make the hearty sandwiches a man likes to make — sandwiches, for instance, like the cheese and corned beef deckers. Together with a good soup, they make a complete meal, delicious and healthful.

Our decker sandwich is different, and designed to please with the good salty flavor of corned beef combined with aged chedder cheese on thinly sliced rye bread. Spreads of mayonnaise and salad-style mustard bring out flavor and keep it from being a "dry" sandwich, and leaf lettuce adds that important crisp, green touch.

Cream soups, delicately flavored, are good accessories to many sandwich meals. Canned cream of mushroom soup was our choice here, but the cheese and corned beef deckers are equally good with cream of asparagus, celery or tomato soup.

Natural cheddar cheese has a magnificant sharp flavor which makes it an excellent sandwich item. With its host of fine food values, cheddar cheese is a nourishing sandwich filling all by itself, or it can be combined with luncheon meats, ham, chicken and seafood.

So this summer put the accent on easy soup and sandwich meals that are versatile for noontime, supper or midnight snack.

Cheese And Corned Beef Decker Sandwiches

Mayonnaise
Leaf lettuce
Sliced corned beef
Prepared salad style mustard
Sharp cheese
Pickle fans
Parsley
Cream of mushroom soup

For each sandwich, spread a slice of bread with mayonnaise, cover with lettuce and corned beef; top with a second slice of bread spread with mustard, then with a slice of cheese. Cover with the third slice of bread spread with mayonnaise, and cut the completed sandwich into thirds. Garnish with pickle fans and parsley and serve with cream of mushroom soup.

Cottage Cheese Tomato Salad

5 or 6 large tomatoes
1 pint cottage cheese
¼ teaspoon (or more) chives, cut fine
Dash cayenne

Wash tomatoes, remove stem and flower scars, and chill. Mix cottage cheese with other ingredients, and chill in covered container until ready to serve. Cut tomatoes in quarters, leaving connected at base, and fill with cottage cheese mixture, heaping up lightly. Serve on crisp lettuce with French dressing. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

Bacon-Cheese Sandwiches Are Tasty And Nutritious

One food that ranks second to none for appetizing goodness is crisp, fragrant bacon. This delicious meat will not only add extra nutritive value to the diet, but will stimulate appetites and provide needed pep and energy. Always buy by brand to assure yourself of finest flavor and quality. When you choose bacon that carries a well known packer's brand name, you can be sure that the bacon will have uniform slices with just the right proportion of fat and lean, and the distinctive, sweet-smoked flavor so prized in fine bacon.

Choose bacon that has been kept under refrigeration at the market, and keep it in the refrigerator at home, too. Buy just enough for about a week, since the fine flavor and aroma are best when the bacon is fresh. Bacon, like other cured pork, should not be frozen.

The quick and easy preparation of bacon is another attribute that makes it ideal for summer. Whether you broil, oven-cook, or pan-fry bacon, it's ready in a matter of minutes for any of its versatile uses. Often bacon slices will not separate easily when cold. This may be remedied by removing the bacon from the refrigerator about five minutes before using. If you like you may lift off the number of slices you need and start cooking them "in a clump" in a cold skillet. The slices will separate easily as the bacon begins to heat. Do not pour off the drippings as the bacon cooks. This melted fat will float the bacon and prevent the slices from burning.

Bacon is delicious alone or in combination with many other foods. Here's a sandwich suggestion that combines crisp bacon with savory, sharp-flavored cheese. You'll find this bacon-cheese sandwich not only delicious, but quick, easy, and the perfect answer for summer luncheons or informal suppers.

Bacon-Cheese Summer Specials

12 slices bacon
6 frankfurt buns, split
1 cup (about) shredded cheese
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion

Place separated slices of bacon and buns, split side up, on broiler rack. Broil 3 inches from heat source. Turn bacon once. Drain on absorbent paper. Remove buns when they are browned. Combine cheese and onion. Place cheese mixture on one side of hot buns and hot bacon on the other side. Serve with sliced tomatoes and lettuce.

O'Brien Potatoes With Bacon

Yield: 4 servings

1 pound bacon
1 onion, finely chopped
¼ cup chopped green pepper
4 potatoes, cooked and cubed
¼ cup chopped piminento
Salt and pepper

Pan-fry bacon according to directions on package. Drain on absorbent paper. Keep hot. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons of the bacon fat. Fry onion and green pepper in the hot fat until tender. Add potatoes, pimiento, salt and pepper, and brown lightly. Serve with the hot bacon.

Soup And Double Decker Sandwich For Dinner

Often on these lazy, warm summer days the family welcomes a simple soup and sandwich supper.

Perhaps Dad will take over the kitchen and make the hearty sandwiches a man likes to make — sandwiches, for instance, like the cheese and corned beef deckers. Together with a good soup, they make a complete meal, delicious and healthful.

Our decker sandwich is different, and designed to please with the good salty flavor of corned beef combined with aged chedder cheese on thinly sliced rye bread. Spreads of mayonnaise and salad-style mustard bring out flavor and keep it from being a "dry" sandwich, and leaf lettuce adds that important crisp, green touch.

Cream soups, delicately flavored, are good accessories to many sandwich meals. Canned cream of mushroom soup was our choice here, but the cheese and corned beef deckers are equally good with cream of asparagus, celery or tomato soup.

Natural cheddar cheese has a magnificant sharp flavor which makes it an excellent sandwich item. With its host of fine food values, cheddar cheese is a nourishing sandwich filling all by itself, or it can be combined with luncheon meats, ham, chicken and seafood.

So this summer put the accent on easy soup and sandwich meals that are versatile for noontime, supper or midnight snack.

Cheese And Corned Beef Decker Sandwiches

Mayonnaise
Leaf lettuce
Sliced corned beef
Prepared salad style mustard
Sharp cheese
Pickle fans
Parsley
Cream of mushroom soup

For each sandwich, spread a slice of bread with mayonnaise, cover with lettuce and corned beef; top with a second slice of bread spread with mustard, then with a slice of cheese. Cover with the third slice of bread spread with mayonnaise, and cut the completed sandwich into thirds. Garnish with pickle fans and parsley and serve with cream of mushroom soup.

Cottage Cheese Tomato Salad

5 or 6 large tomatoes
1 pint cottage cheese
¼ teaspoon (or more) chives, cut fine
Dash cayenne

Wash tomatoes, remove stem and flower scars, and chill. Mix cottage cheese with other ingredients, and chill in covered container until ready to serve. Cut tomatoes in quarters, leaving connected at base, and fill with cottage cheese mixture, heaping up lightly. Serve on crisp lettuce with French dressing. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

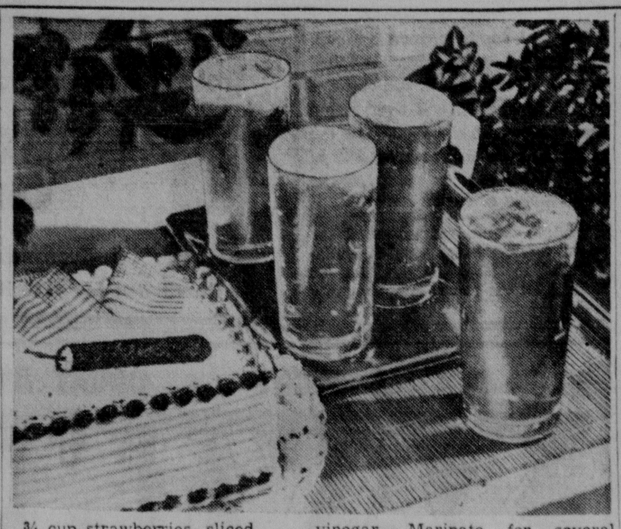
Strawberry Zip For The Holiday

The Fourth of July seems to be the official opening of summer—vacations are under way and everyone has settled down to informal summer living. In the holiday spirit perhaps you have invited a few friends in to spend a social afternoon or evening on the Fourth. For a party touch you might have a layer cake, iced in white with red decorations and tiny flags.

To serve with it tall drinks of thoroughly chilled dry ginger ale are refreshing. Or, you might try a combination of grape juice and ginger ale in equal proportions. Crushed strawberries and ginger ale make a delicious cooler—one-half cup strawberries and two drops vanilla to a tall glass, and fill the glass with ginger ale, stirring gently to mix.

Here is a drink, unusual and excellent to serve guests.



¾ cup strawberries, sliced
1 tablespoon sugar
2 teaspoons vinegar
ginger ale

Combine strawberries, sugar and vinegar. Marinate for several hours. Put through sieve or food mill. Divide among 4 tall glasses. Fill glasses with ice cold pale dry ginger ale. Stir gently to mix.

Gayest Picnic For The Fourth Right In Your Own Backyard

The trend to picnicking is homeward. Those who once took to the road on July fourth now take to the patio, the terrace, the porch, or the back yard. Manufacturers have aided and abetted this trend with handy little portable grills, grates, miniature barbecue outfits for porch or patio, and homeowners have been busy constructing brick oven grills on their property.

One of the principal reasons for the popularity of picnicking at home is the simplicity of it, the elimination of the "pack and carry" problem, and the fact that it is much easier to get a good hot meal on the backyard grill than to tote the makings to the roadside picnic ground.

BANANA MIXED GRILL GOOD PICNIC FARE

Picnicking at home brings more variety to the picnic table. It's just about the same as serving an easy, broiled meal, except that the outdoor version has that intangible spice of good food cooked under a blue sky. Delicious fare for a home fourth of July picnic is a banana mixed grill made with whole bananas, hamburger patties and tomatoes grilled together. Cooked bananas have a delicious, different flavor. If you have not had them, try them for your Fourth of July picnic, and then you'll want to include them with indoor meals as a vegetable. They're something new, something different, and they blend beautifully with all kinds of main dish combinations.

For cooking, it is important to select a less ripe banana that has all-yellow or slightly green-tipped peel. This banana is less sweet and will stay firm during cooking.

Banana Mixed Grill

4 firm bananas*
4 hamburger patties, ½ inch thick
4 tomato halves
Melted butter or margarine
Salt
Parsley
*Use all-yellow or slightly green-tipped bananas

Peel bananas. Place on rack, together with meat and tomato halves. Brush bananas and tomato halves with butter or margarine and sprinkle lightly with salt. Grill about 3 inches from heat 5 to 6 minutes, or until bananas and meat are browned. Turn bananas and meat only. Continue cooking 5 to 6 minutes longer or until meat and tomatoes are browned and bananas are tender . . . easily pierced with a fork. Four servings.

Variation

In place of hamburger, use frankfurters. Since frankfurters take only 2 to 3 minutes to grill, place these on rack when bananas are almost done. Turn them as required.

WIFE PRESERVERS

If a wood surface becomes stained with ink, wipe it up immediately by patting with a damp cloth. Do not rub; keep turning the cloth to a clean area, and repeat until the stain is gone.

Savory Bacon-Cheese Sandwiches

Bacon and cheese, a winning flavor combination any time, will add special zest and added nutrition to summer meals. It is especially good served on toasted buns for a quick, easy to prepare lunch or supper sandwich.

Choose a bacon with delicious, sweet-smoke flavor as the perfect complement to the shredded nippy cheese. A well-known brand name on the label is your guide to quality in both the bacon and the cheese.

These sandwiches are put together in a jiffy. Split frankfurt buns and spread with butter or margarine. Toast quickly in the oven or broiler. At the same time, cook the bacon until crisp and drain on a paper towel. When the buns are toasted, top with shredded cheese and the hot bacon slices. The hot bun and bacon will melt the cheese. If desired, the sandwiches may be slipped under the broiler for a few seconds to completely melt the cheese before serving.

Serve with big slices of fresh tomatoes and lettuce. Fresh fruit, cookies, and a tall, cool beverage round out the meal.

Choose a bacon with delicious, sweet-smoke flavor as the perfect complement to the shredded nippy cheese. A well-known brand name on the label is your guide to quality in both the bacon and the cheese.

These sandwiches are put together in a jiffy. Split frankfurt buns and spread with butter or margarine. Toast quickly in the oven or broiler. At the same time, cook the bacon until crisp and drain on a paper towel. When the buns are toasted, top with shredded cheese and the hot bacon slices. The hot bun and bacon will melt the cheese. If desired, the sandwiches may be slipped under the broiler for a few seconds to completely melt the cheese before serving.

Serve with big slices of fresh tomatoes and lettuce. Fresh fruit, cookies, and a tall, cool beverage round out the meal.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

SEE IT AT A DISTANCE

FORESIGHT of a good player aims so many tricks away that it is almost as if he were using a sort of bridge telescope. At the far end of the succession of running tricks he can sight a situation which promises him the additional one he requires. On rare occasions he can see at a great distance that the construction of a specific final lineup will positively guarantee him success through a pretty end play of some kind, either a throw-in or a squeeze. It may even be a devastating double squeeze that he constructs in his mind from afar off.

	♠ 9 ♥ J 9 8 4 2 ♦ A J 8 5 3 2 ♣ 9
♠ Q J ♥ K Q 10 6 3 ♦ Q 9 4 ♣ A 5 4	N W E S	♠ K 2 ♥ A 7 ♦ K 10 7 ♣ J 10 7 6 3 2
	♠ A 10 8 7 6 5 4 3 ♥ 5 ♦ 6 ♣ K Q 8

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♥	Dbl.	3 ♣
3 ♠	4 ♣	4 ♦	Dbl.
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Dbl.

East might not have rued that final double if he had been up against a run of the mill player. But South was no such thing. He was a declarer trained to alertness and deduction. He noted everything carefully, remembered it accurately, made each available inference, and from the sum total of that specific knowledge figured out exactly what he could later do, and exactly how.

East overtook the heart K to return the 7, which South ruffed. He sent the club K to the A and won the spade J return with the A. Seeking a necessary break, he led the spade 10, on which both the Q and K fell. When East returned the club J to the Q, he counted up and saw that he had available all but one of the tricks he required, on a straight run basis. That constituted one requisite to a successful squeeze pattern.

Next he noted that East's club J lead showed the 10 retained as the only one above his 8. Likewise, the heart K lead from West indicated that worthy had the Q as the only card higher than dummy's J. The remaining vital element of a double squeeze was the diamond A-J in dummy opposite his own 6. So he planned to run spades and leave in dummy the diamond A-J and heart J, opposite his own diamond 6, club 8 and the final spade. As he laid that down, West had to keep the heart Q, so bared his diamond Q, whereupon the heart J was shed from dummy. Now East was stuck. Obliged to keep the club 10 over the 8, he threw a diamond from the K-10. So the diamond 6 to the A felled the last two outstanding diamonds and the J took the final trick.

Cereal And Milk Serving Furnishes Needed Nutrients

"Summer is just as important a time to serve a daily good breakfast as in winter . . . People are often more active in summer than in winter, what with hiking, gardening, swimming, golfing, and the outdoor routine of warm weather."

"This requires three good meals a day with breakfast the thriftiest of the three, it makes good sense to give it the attention it deserves for its economy and nutritive value."

June, which is Dairy Month, reminds us of the nutritional importance of cereal topped with milk. This combination furnishes food values that are needed in the summer months, now and later.

"The cereal serving is a good source of many nutrients. It furnishes approximately 10 per cent of the daily needs of protein, important B vitamins, and essential minerals."

These nutrients are supplied at a small cost, too, for the cereal and milk serving takes only about a nickel from the budget. "Few indeed are the foods which for this small cost can make such a contribution to the satisfaction of daily nutritional requirements."

Apple Pancakes with Hot Butter Syrup. To each cup pancake batter, add ⅓ cup finely chopped, peeled apple and bake on hot griddle. For the syrup add 1 tablespoon butter to 1 cup hot pancake syrup.

George Washington Shredded Wheat. Arrange sweet red cherries on stems around and over round shredded wheat biscuits. When the cherries have been eaten out of hand, the cereal is ready for its own topping of sugar and milk.

William Penn, who planned the street and park systems of Philadelphia in 1682, is supposed to have been the first American city planner.

Board Hears Arguments On Lots Sought For Business Plot

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission heard many pro and con arguments to the proposal to make part of Williams Street and Louisiana Avenue business districts under the city's zoning laws at a hearing in City Hall.

On the amendment to the city zoning ordinance to make Lots 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16, Block 17, Johnson Heights Addition, a business section, considerable discussion arose.

The lots in question are located on the shale bank at the intersection of Louisiana Avenue, Hilltop Drive and Williams Stree..

Gorman Getty, representing Charles Callis, owner of Lots 13, 14, and 15, pointed out a business establishment would improve the looks of the shale bank.

He also pointed out the shale bank makes it too expensive and impractical for a residence. The corner, Getty stated, is located on an important farm to market artery and to pass the amendment would increase the economic value of the adjacent properties.

Others speaking in favor of making it a business plot were R. E. Shrout, 703 Lincoln Street, owner of Lot 15; Boyd Jewell, Fort Hill Avenue, and James McGregor, 517 Louisiana Avenue.

The opposition was from Oscar Gurley, 519 Louisiana Avenue, who said he bought his property with the understanding the section would remain residential.

Earl Manges filed a petition containing the names of 16 property owners, protesting the move and were against any kind of business locating in the section.

Others against were Robert W. Reed, 428 Louisiana Avenue, and Walter Eyler, 608 Montgomery Avenue.

Opposing the amendment to make Williams Street a business district from the city limits to Hill Top Drive were William A. Gunter, and Mrs. Charles A. Barringer, 420 Louisiana Avenue.

Speaking for this move were Fred Smith, 331 Dorn Avenue; McGregor, Jewell, William Reed, 728 Arundel Street.

Jewell claimed the opposition was not from the neighbors, but from businesses in the section being discussed.

Two persons appeared to speak against the third of four proposed amendments — making Maryland Avenue a business district except that part which is now industrial.

They were Mrs. Florence Bucklew, 803 Maryland Avenue, and Mrs. Clarence Winebrenner, 757 Maryland Avenue.

There were no speakers for or against the fourth amendment, that would make the easterly side of Fayette Street a Residential A section between Washington and Greene Streets.

The commission will prepare a report for the Mayor and Council which will take the final action.

Mr. Fixit Wins Robertson Memorial, Five Favorites Score

Gov. McKeldin Presents Watch To G.H. Pearce

Shifting Peace Pays $26.40; Betting Runs $60,718 Ahead Of '52

Governor's Day was favorites' day yesterday at Fairgo as the Cumberland Fair Association's 10-day racing meet reached the halfway mark and five of the public choices, including Flamingo Farms' Mr. Fixit, winner of the Col. William H. Robertson Memorial, scored before 5,000 spectators who wagered $194,423, soaring the mutuel handle for five days up to $926,-152.

Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin and his party of fifteen were guests of the local asociation on the big day and the state's chief executive presented the Col. Robertson Memorial Trophy, a gold wrist watch donated by the widow of the former fair director, to Gordon H. Pearce of Monkton, Md., trainer of Mr. Fixit, victor in the featured fourth event on the program. The governor was introduced by State Senator Robert B. Kimble.

Fairgo Briefs

By C. V. BURNS

TODAY is Pennsylvania Day at Fairgo as the final five days of the 10-day racing meet of the Cumberland Fair Association gets under way at 2 p. m., EDT.

THE FIRST CLAIM of the current meeting was recorded yesterday when W. F. Parks of Baltimore obtained Fancy Dan, owned by Samuel H. Rogers, Washington, D. C. Fancy Dan was fifth in the second race. The claiming price was $1,250.

MIKE SORRENTINO looks like a shoo-in for the jockeys' prize unless some of the other riders catch fire during the next five days.

The New Yorker extended his lead to 40 points yesterday by booting home a pair of winers. He now has eleven firsts to his credit.

Trainers, however, are waging a nip and tuck battle for the gold wrist watch offered for the conditioner with the greatest number of points during the meeting.

The Harvey Jewelry Company of Cumberland started offering prizes to leading riders at Fairgo in 1935. Eddie Smith, of Washington, D. C., was the first winner. Duplicate awards are offered the riders in case the leaders tie.

Harvey's instituted the trainers' award in 1936. Duplicate awards were made until 1949 when the rules were changed. In event of a tie on the final day the leaders toss a coin to determine the winner of the gold wrist watch. Bernard Bond was the first trainer to cop the Harvey award in 1936 with nine winners. Claude M. Feltner tied the record in 1942 and A. L. Leith, Sr., made it a triple tie in 1945. Last year Mrs. Saportas hung up a new record at Fairgo with 11 winners to her credit. Here are the leading trainers at Fairgo 10-day meets:

1935—J. Bowes Bond (7)
1936—Bernard Bond (9)
1937—Raymond B. Archer (4)
1938—James Arthur (4)
1939—Claude M. Feltner (5)
1940—A. S. Bowman (5)
1941—Elmer Heubeck, Jr., (5).
1942—Claude M. Feltner (9)
1943—Claude M. Feltner (8)
1944—A. M. Simpson tied G. Wedell (5)
1945—A. L. Leith, Sr. (9)
1946—Norman Corbin (6)
1947—Karl D. Kolseth tied C. E. Wheeler (6)
1948—Mrs. G. A. Saportas, Jr., tied C. P. Chenoweth (5)
*1949—Mrs. G. A. Saportas, Jr., Everett Brining and Don Chamblin finished in triple tie (5)
1950—Mrs. G. A. Saportas, Jr., tied Robert F. Duffy (4)
1951—Robert F. Duffy (4)
1952—Mrs. G. A. Saportas, Jr., (11)
*Chamblin won the toss for gold watch.
Mrs. Saportas won toss for gold watch.

ELMER HEUBECK, Jr., 1941 winner, is now a successful breeder and trainer in Florida. He is the breeder of Wolf Gal, winner of the 1953 Florida Breeders Stakes for 2-year-olds. A. M. Simpson is now racing in Ohio, the Bond Brothers, Raymond B. Archer and Claude M. Feltner are now leading trainers on major tracks. Kolseth is now a jockeys' agent.

DIDJA KNOW that Albert Adams, of Baltimore, holder of the record for consecutive wins rode at Fairgo in 1930 before he rode nine straight at the Marlboro track?

Adams was runner-up in the jockey race to Joe O'Malley at the five-day session here 23 years ago. O'Malley turned in an 11-6-3 record and Adams had 6-3-2.

It was on Sept. 10, 11, 12, 1930 that Adams set the mark at Marlboro that still stands.

THE OLDEST U. S. A. race classic is the Travers, which was inaugurated at Saratoga, N. Y. in 1864. The winner was Kentucky.

Prior to 1860 horse races in both the U.S.A. and Canada were either for side bets or some trophy.

The oldest classic run on the North American continent is the Queen's Plate, originated at the Woodbine track at Toronto, Ontario, Canada, in 1860. The trophy was donated by the Queen of England.

Theodore Roosevelt was a cowboy in the 1880s and owned ranches in Dakota.

The first "atom smasher" was built by Cambridge university scientists in 1932.

Koslo Whips Reds

CINCINNATI, June 18 (AP) — The New York Giants made it three out of four today over the Cincinnati Redlegs, 6-3, and gave pitcher Dave Koslo his first victory of the season.

The southpaw needed the help of Hoyt Wilhelm in the sixth inning, however, to get over the hump. He had lost six games. It was Wilhelm's 31st appearance this year. He allowed only one hit in the last 3 1-3 innings. It was his third appearance, too, in the series.

Monte Irvin and Daryl Spencer each drove in two runs for New York. Irvin had three safeties and Spencer had a double and a triple.

Fairgo Briefs

By C. V. BURNS

TODAY is Pennsylvania Day at Fairgo as the final five days of the 10-day racing meet of the Cumberland Fair Association gets under way at 2 p. m., EDT.

THE FIRST CLAIM of the current meeting was recorded yesterday when W. F. Parks of Baltimore obtained Fancy Dan, owned by Samuel H. Rogers, Washington, D. C. Fancy Dan was fifth in the second race. The claiming price was $1,250.

MIKE SORRENTINO looks like a shoo-in for the jockeys' prize unless some of the other riders catch fire during the next five days.

The New Yorker extended his lead to 40 points yesterday by booting home a pair of winers. He now has eleven firsts to his credit.

Trainers, however, are waging a nip and tuck battle for the gold wrist watch offered for the conditioner with the greatest number of points during the meeting.

The Harvey Jewelry Company of Cumberland started offering prizes to leading riders at Fairgo in 1935. Eddie Smith, of Washington, D. C., was the first winner. Duplicate awards are offered the riders in case the leaders tie.

Harvey's instituted the trainers' award in 1936. Duplicate awards were made until 1949 when the rules were changed. In event of a tie on the final day the leaders toss a coin to determine the winner of the gold wrist watch. Bernard Bond was the first trainer to cop the Harvey award in 1936 with nine winners. Claude M. Feltner tied the record in 1942 and A. L. Leith, Sr., made it a triple tie in 1945. Last year Mrs. Saportas hung up a new record at Fairgo with 11 winners to her credit. Here are the leading trainers at Fairgo 10-day meets:

1935—J. Bowes Bond (7)
1936—Bernard Bond (9)
1937—Raymond B. Archer (4)
1938—James Arthur (4)
1939—Claude M. Feltner (5)
1940—A. S. Bowman (5)
1941—Elmer Heubeck, Jr., (5).
1942—Claude M. Feltner (9)
1943—Claude M. Feltner (8)
1944—A. M. Simpson tied G. Wedell (5)
1945—A. L. Leith, Sr. (9)
1946—Norman Corbin (6)
1947—Karl D. Kolseth tied C. E. Wheeler (6)
1948—Mrs. G. A. Saportas, Jr., tied C. P. Chenoweth (5)
*1949—Mrs. G. A. Saportas, Jr., Everett Brining and Don Chamblin finished in triple tie (5)
1950—Mrs. G. A. Saportas, Jr., tied Robert F. Duffy (4)
1951—Robert F. Duffy (4)
1952—Mrs. G. A. Saportas, Jr., (11)
*Chamblin won the toss for gold watch.
Mrs. Saportas won toss for gold watch.

ELMER HEUBECK, Jr., 1941 winner, is now a successful breeder and trainer in Florida. He is the breeder of Wolf Gal, winner of the 1953 Florida Breeders Stakes for 2-year-olds. A. M. Simpson is now racing in Ohio, the Bond Brothers, Raymond B. Archer and Claude M. Feltner are now leading trainers on major tracks. Kolseth is now a jockeys' agent.

DIDJA KNOW that Albert Adams, of Baltimore, holder of the record for consecutive wins rode at Fairgo in 1930 before he rode nine straight at the Marlboro track?

Adams was runner-up in the jockey race to Joe O'Malley at the five-day session here 23 years ago. O'Malley turned in an 11-6-3 record and Adams had 6-3-2.

It was on Sept. 10, 11, 12, 1930 that Adams set the mark at Marlboro that still stands.

THE OLDEST U. S. A. race classic is the Travers, which was inaugurated at Saratoga, N. Y. in 1864. The winner was Kentucky.

Prior to 1860 horse races in both the U.S.A. and Canada were either for side bets or some trophy.

The oldest classic run on the North American continent is the Queen's Plate, originated at the Woodbine track at Toronto, Ontario, Canada, in 1860. The trophy was donated by the Queen of England.

Chisox Top Nats, 8-4

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox overcame a two-run deficit with a six-run splurge in the ninth inning to defeat Washington, 8-4, tonight.

Washington had chased Virgil Trucks with a three-run outburst in the eighth to grab a 4-2 lead, but after Sam Mele fanned to start the ninth, shortstop Pete Runnels fumbled Chico Carrasquel's grounder and the rally quickly gathered momentum.

Bosox Hang Up Modern Record

Score 17 In Seventh, Whip Detroit, 23-3

BOSTON, June 18 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox broke the majors' modern record for one-inning scoring by blasting three Detroit relief pitchers for 17 runs in the seventh today while overwhelming the hapless Tigers, 23-3.

The terrific scoring splurge, generated by 14 hits and six bases on balls, wiped out the 15-run mark set by the Brooklyn Dodgers last season and one shy of the all-time record set by the Chicago Cubs 70 years ago.

Gene Stephens set a modern individual record by banging out a double and two singles during his three successful batting tries in that furious frame. Sammy White and T.P Imphlett placed themselves in the record books by reaching base thrice, each on two singles and a base on balls.

St. Louis Cards Wallop Dodgers

ST. LOUIS, June 18 (AP)—A revived Stan Musial and the home run hitting of Solly Hemus, Rip Repulski and Ray Jablonski carried the St. Louis Cardinals to an easy 12-4 victory over Brooklyn's Dodgers today to give the Redbirds a sweep of the three-game series.

The triumph moved St. Louis to within three games of the second place Brooks, who fell three games behind league-leading Milwaukee, idled by rain.

Stan the Man, deep in a batting slump, drove in four Cardinal runs, three of them on a bases-loaded double in the second inning off losing pitcher Carl Erskine. Musial also doubled in the first inning, giving him a total of four two-base hits and five RBI's in two days against the Brooks.

Swim Girl, under alert handling to take the lead at once, responded to intermittent handling down the backstretch to retain the advantage and was fully extended through the stretch. Cross O Lite, followed in closest pursuit of the winner from the outset but could not overtake that one. Hearth Mouse, out of it the opening furlong, closed in a belated rush. Unabridged, raced evenly. Flaming Sash was not a factor.

Mr. Fixit, well placed from the start, took command when asked and won as his rider pleased. Miss Pidgeon, came around horses in the stretch turn, was on the outside for the drive and held Hallzan safe for place money at the wire. Hallzan, reaching a contending position while saving some ground, faltered the last strides. Margaret E., gave way after alert beginning. Elk Water was outrun, as was Battle Royal.

Shifting Peace, moved up readily on the outside, took command under urging and was going away at the end. Pictura, forged between horses entering the stretch turn, was on the outside for the stretch run and while disposing of Little Bones, held Busy Boy safe at the wire. Busy Boy, in tight quarters going into the first turn, rallied well when clear to close strongly but could not overtake the leaders. Little Bones set a fast early pace, then had little left when called on. Just Albert stopped.

Cross Bun, was sent to a clear lead into the first turn, responded readily to increased punishment in the stretch and was best while fully extended. Bellfounder, improved position steadily down the backstretch, came out some for the drive and held Blue Whiz Kid safe the last strides. The latter, reached a runner up position nearing the final bend, had little left when called on. Turnesa, closed evenly but was not a strong factor. Seton Hall gave way steadily after a good beginning.

Friendly Frank, in closest pursuit of Friends Advice for a quarter of a mile, came out to dispose of that one, then widened the advantage without pressure. Rising Temper, never far out of it early, reached a runner up position in the early stretch and held on gamely. Peaceful Scot, passed some tired horses in the late stages. Wild Tip, raced evenly. Friends Advice tired early. Listen To Me was outrun, as was Highland Dream. Peter Jo, fractious as usual going to the post, was outrun also.

Busy Vera, under steadying restraint while racing evenly for a half mile, went up on the outside down the backstretch the final time, took command under energetic handling and finished strongly. Count Howard, out of it early, found an opening between horses leaving the mile grounds and showed the best late effort to be gaining on the winner at the end. Disputanta, set a fast early pace and saved ground throughout. Pennask, turned in a good effort but was no match for the leaders. Just Great tired.

Olson Is Favored To Defeat Young

Middleweight Title Bout Is Set Tonight

NEW YORK, June 18 (AP)—Carl (Bobo) Olson, a punishing boxer-puncher from Hawaii, remained a 3 to 1 favorite today over Paddy Young, New York slugger, for tomorrow's 15-round American middleweight title bout at Madison Square Garden.

Britain's Randy Turpin, claimant to the world title, has agreed to meet the winner, probably Aug. 27 in New York, for the undisputed championship of the 160-pound class.

The bout, scheduled for 9 p. m. (EST) will be carried on network radio (ABC) and Television (NBC).

In addition to the $50,000 special TV fee, the International Boxing Club expects a crowd of 9,000 to pay some $35,000 at the gate. Each fighter gets 30 per cent of "everything," including TV, or approximately $21,000.

The Young camp, and some neutral observers, scoff at the lopsided odds. They point to Paddy's five rugged battles with Ernie Durando as proof he can't be hurt by Olson.

Olson, Honolulu-born but now living in San Francisco, simply predicts a decision win—also on body punching.

Dutch Dorman Quits As Hagerstown Pilot

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 18 (AP)—The resignation of Fred (Dutch) Dorman, manager of the Hagerstown Braves of the Class B Piedmont League, was announced today.

No reason was given for the action either by Owner Eugene J. C. Raney of the Braves or by Dorman himself, a veteran pilot who guided the Braves to Interstate League pennants in 1951 and 1o52.

The Braves are in second place in the Piedmont Circuit, which Hagerstown joined after the Interstate League dissolved.

Raney, who made the announcement here today, said it was entirely voluntary. He said Dorman's resignation is effective Monday, June 22, and that he (Raney) is negotiating for a new manager.

Dorman said he planned to get in touch with the Milwaukee Braves of the National League to see if there is an opening as a scout or with the Braves farm system. Beyond that he would not comment.

Raney also is contacting Milwaukee in his search for a new mentor.

Farrady Post Tops Grantsville, 10-2

FROSTBURG, June 18—Farrady Post's junior American Legion tossers donned their batting togs today and defeated the Grantsville Post nine in an exhibition game at Grantsville by the score of 10-2.

Frostburg racked up 14 hits, including four singles by Earl Clark, a triple and double by Barney Spearman and two-base blows by Rickey Harris and Dick Robeson.

Blank and Clark limited the home team to four hits, three of which were doubles by Sheehe, Georg and Morgan. The score:

FROSTBURG	104	410	0—10	14	1
GRANTSVILLE	100	100	0— 2	4	2

Blank, Clark (6) and Wilson. Morgan, Georg (4), Camp (6) and Sweitzer.

Scarbath Signs With Redskins

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Jack Scarbath, University of Maryland's All-America quarterback last year, quit stalling today and signed to play with the Washington Redskins.

The 22-year-old Baltimorean had put off the Redskins since January when he was their first choice in the National Football League. He investigated the possibility of playing in the Canadian League, which has lured many college stars with big pay.

It wasn't disclosed how much Washington will pay Scarbath.

Score 17 In Seventh, Whip Detroit, 23-3

BOSTON, June 18 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox broke the majors' modern record for one-inning scoring by blasting three Detroit relief pitchers for 17 runs in the seventh today while overwhelming the hapless Tigers, 23-3.

The terrific scoring splurge, generated by 14 hits and six bases on balls, wiped out the 15-run mark set by the Brooklyn Dodgers last season and one shy of the all-time record set by the Chicago Cubs 70 years ago.

Gene Stephens set a modern individual record by banging out a double and two singles during his three successful batting tries in that furious frame. Sammy White amd T.P Imphlett placed themselves in the record books by reaching base thrice, each on two singles and a base on balls.

St. Louis Cards Wallop Dodgers

ST. LOUIS, June 18 (AP)—A revived Stan Musial and the home run hitting of Solly Hemus, Rip Repulski and Ray Jablonski carried the St. Louis Cardinals to an easy 12-4 victory over Brooklyn's Dodgers today to give the Redbirds a sweep of the three-game series.

The triumph moved St. Louis to within three games of the second place Brooks, who fell three games behind league-leading Milwaukee, idled by rain.

Stan the Man, deep in a batting slump, drove in four Cardinal runs, three of them on a bases-loaded double in the second inning off losing pitcher Carl Erskine. Musial also doubled in the first inning, giving him a total of four two-base hits and five RBI's in two days against the Brooks.

The latter, reached a runner up position nearing the final bend, had little left when called on. Turnesa, closed evenly but was not a strong factor. Olson Is Favored To Defeat Young

Middleweight Title Bout Is Set Tonight

NEW YORK, June 18 (AP)—Carl (Bobo) Olson, a punishing boxer-puncher from Hawaii, remained a 3 to 1 favorite today over Paddy Young, New York slugger, for tomorrow's 15-round American middleweight title bout at Madison Square Garden.

Britain's Randy Turpin, claimant to the world title, has agreed to meet the winner, probably Aug. 27 in New York, for the undisputed championship of the 160-pound class.

The bout, scheduled for 9 p. m. (EST) will be carried on network radio (ABC) and Television (NBC).

In addition to the $50,000 special TV fee, the International Boxing Club expects a crowd of 9,000 to pay some $35,000 at the gate. Each fighter gets 30 per cent of "everything," including TV, or approximately $21,000.

The Young camp, and some neutral observers, scoff at the lopsided odds. They point to Paddy's five rugged battles with Ernie Durando as proof he can't be hurt by Olson.

Olson, Honolulu-born but now living in San Francisco, simply predicts a decision win—also on body punching.

Dutch Dorman Quits As Hagerstown Pilot

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 18 (AP) — The resignation of Fred (Dutch) Dorman, manager of the Hagerstown Braves of the Class B Piedmont League, was announced today.

No reason was given for the action either by Owner Eugene J. C. Raney of the Braves or by Dorman himself, a veteran pilot who guided the Braves to Interstate League pennants in 1951 and 1o52.

The Braves are in second place in the Piedmont Circuit, which Hagerstown joined after the Interstate League dissolved.

Raney, who made the announcement here today, said it was entirely voluntary. He said Dorman's resignation is effective Monday, June 22, and that he (Raney) is negotiating for a new manager.

Dorman said he planned to get in touch with the Milwaukee Braves of the National League to see if there is an opening as a scout or with the Braves farm system. Beyond that he would not comment.

Raney also is contacting Milwaukee in his search for a new mentor.

Farrady Post Tops Grantsville, 10-2

FROSTBURG, June 18—Farrady Post's junior American Legion tossers donned their batting togs today and defeated the Grantsville Post nine in an exhibition game at Grantsville by the score of 10-2.

Frostburg racked up 14 hits, including four singles by Earl Clark, a triple and double by Barney Spearman and two-base blows by Rickey Harris and Dick Robeson.

Blank and Clark limited the home team to four hits, three of which were doubles by Sheehe, Georg and Morgan. The score:

FROSTBURG	104	410	0	—10	14	1
GRANTSVILLE	100	100	0	— 2	4	2

Blank, Clark (6) and Wilson. Morgan, Georg (4), Camp (6) and Sweitzer.

Scarbath Signs With Redskins

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP) — Jack Scarbath, University of Maryland's All-America quarterback last year, quit stalling today and signed to play with the Washington Redskins.

The 22-year-old Baltimorean had put off the Redskins since January when he was their first choice in the National Football League. He investigated the possibility of playing in the Canadian League, which has lured many college stars with big pay.

It wasn't disclosed how much Washington will pay Scarbath.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

GWEN O'CONNOR is shown in Los Angeles court where, in winning a divorce from Donald O'Connor, she said he wouldn't speak to her for days when she objected to his failure to come home for dinner. He got a costly car and Irish wolf hound and she got Donna, 6. (International)

HOLLYWOOD, June 18 (INS)—June Allyson, who was away from MGM about 20 minutes, moves back to her old studio for "Executive Suite," the business story that is Dore Schary's pride and joy.

My young friend June (in private life Mrs. Dick Powell) wouldn't be human if she weren't excited about coming back to this studio where she reigned as one of the royal family for ten long years.

"But," June adds, "If I hadn't liked the script I wouldn't have accepted it."

June has William Holden, Walter Pidgeon, and a score of other leading men, with John Houseman as producer. She tells me she has never been happier than she is in "The Glenn Miller Story" with Jimmy Stewart at Universal-International.

Maggie didn't show up when she was asked to report, giving the reason that 'Khyber Rifles" is a man's picture.

Although she's under contract to 20th she has not yet made a picture for them. She was in the much-discussed "Moon Is Blue" and I must say she's very good. She's so effervescent, so young, and really a good actres.

Well, Cara is very pretty and if she can just settle down with John, Jr., she may go far on the screen.

Keenan Wynn was added today to the cast of this MGM movie about a boy who takes up fighting to pay his way through divinity school.

Both Duke Wayne and his director, John Farrow, write from Carmango, Mexico, with enthusiasm about Warners' all-media camera.

Says Duke, "I feel that three-D is sort of like a stepbrother—it's something like my acting — no one seems to like it but the public. Look at the grosses on 'House of Wax.' "

John Farrow joins his father on location, and the two oldest Wayne boys, Michael and Robert, are already there to spend time with their father.

Duke adds, "Can't say I wish you were here — it's 105 in the shade!"

There will be no night-clubbing for Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall when the Bogarts arrive in New York from Europe next week.

That's because Bogey has been notified to start growing a beard immediately in preparation for his role in "Caine Mutiny," which starts July 30.

Bogey is afraid he'll look like a bum in New York and that he'll get a good roasting from the press. When has Bogey ever cared what anybody said before?

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The 10-year-old daughter of the Fred Astaires, Ava, is visiting her Aunt Adele in Virginia. Adele, who was Fred's dancing partner for so long, is now Mrs. Kingman Douglass. Fred and Phyllis celebrate their 20th wedding anniversary July 12.

Marie Wilson's figure will be added to Madame Tussaud's wax works in London and I do mean figure. She'll wear a bathing suit!

In to hear Joe E. Lewis at the Mocambo were John Considine and Jane Wurster. Not too many tables away sat Jane's former boy friend, Hyatt Dehn, with Eva Gabor. Joe E., was never funnier, ad libbing a mile a minute.

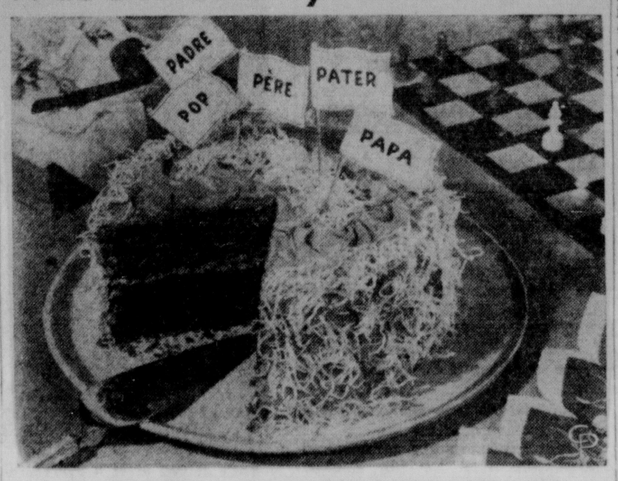
Father's Day Observance Was Started By Mother!



Dear old Dad's eyes are sure to pop if you give him a cake like this two-story chocolate job encrusted with cocoanut.

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Written For Central Press

Now that mother has been duly enshrined and honored, let's get around to Dad. The 21st of June is noteworthy for two reasons: the start of summer and Father's Day.

What's his name — Pater, Pere, Papa or plain Pop? Take your pick, but be sure you salute him on his day in flag-waving style. He deserves it!

Strangely, it was a mother who instituted the first Father's Day. She is Mrs. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane, Wash., a writer of Indian stories.

Struck with the need for a day to honor father, and inspired by the love and sacrifices of her own dad, William Smart, a Civil war veteran who raised his motherless brood of six, Mrs. Dodd proposed the idea 43 years ago.

Her dream was realized when her cause was publicized locally, and finally won the interest of the Spokane Ministers Alliance. Soon afterward, the Young Men's Christian Association of Spokane actively suported the movement, and Spokane, in 1910, was the first city to set aside a day for honor to father.

In the years following, Mrs. Dodd, the "mother of Father's Day," received great appreciation for her efforts from sources reaching far into the heights of literary, social, political and religious circles. Today, Father's Day is world-wide, in the same tradition in which we honor Mother.

It is interesting to note that Father actually has a shrine dedicated to him. It is the National Shrine of St. Joseph in Stirling, N. J., founded in 1933 by the late Father Judge and named St. Joseph's Guild in honor of the foster-father of Christ. Every year on Father's Day, fitting ceremonies are held there, attended by thousands of worshippers from neighboring states.

In other lands, Father doesn't fare as well as he does in America. For instance, on Padang island, Sumatra, the children take their mother's name. All property is held by the mother and inherited by daughters. Father, or sons, have no political, social, property or civil rights. Father's Day dosen't mean a thing on Padang island!

The Pani Kotches males of Bengal are even worse off. In that distant land, if father gets into debt, his wife has the right to sell him into slavery to pay off the bills!

On Pelew island, the eldest women of the tribe are the supreme bosses, and make all decisions. A Pelew woman has the right to kill any man who disobeys her wishes. Better not tell your mother-in-law about this!

Here is an even more ridiculous fact: In the African Sudan, after having five or more children, the wife may return to her parents, leaving the offspring to the father, who must care and provide for them.

However, in Ecuador, Dad is really king. When his wife is expectant, she is temporarily banished from the family home, while the father-to-be is coddled, honored and feasted until he recovers from the shock!

Miss Nelson, Lt. Campbell Wed Sunday

PIEDMONT—First Presbyterian Church was the scene of the wedding Sunday afternoon of Miss Joyce Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nelson, 31 East Hampshire Street, and Lt. William H. Campbell, USAF, son of Rev and Mrs. Robert M. Campbell, III East Hampshire Street.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and the double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Campbell, pastor of the church and father of the bridegroom.

Mrs. J. E. Prettyman, Keyser, organist, played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Paul D. McCoy, Piedmont who sang.

Mrs. Robert Schimmel was matron of honor for her sister and Miss Sallie Kimble, Washington, was maid of honor. Robert Campbell, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Robert Bess Jr. and Charles Biggs.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white organza, fashioned with strapless bodice, bouffant skirt and embroidered jacket with three-quarter-length, tight-fitting sleeves. Her veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible with orchid marker.

A reception was held after the ceremony in the social room of the church. The wedding cake was four-tiered, topped with white roses.

The bride is a graduate of Piedmont High School and of Potomac State College, Keyser, where she was a member of Sigma Phi Omega honor society, Kappa Delta Psi social sorority and was Miss Catamount of 1951. Before her marriage she was employed by North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Washintgon. Lt. Campbell is a graduate of Fort Hill High School, Cumberland, and attended Potomac State College in Keyser and West Virginia University. He enlisted as an aviation cadet in April 1952, and was commissioned a second lieutenant May 1. He was graduated from jet pilot school June 1.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

GWEN O'CONNOR is shown in Los Angeles court where, in winning a divorce from Donald O'Connor, she said he wouldn't speak to her for days when she objected to his failure to come home for dinner. He got a costly car and Irish wolf hound and she got Donna, 6. (International)

HOLLYWOOD, June 18 (INS)—June Allyson, who was away from MGM about 20 minutes, moves back to her old studio for "Executive Suite," the business story that is Dore Schary's pride and joy.

My young friend June (in private life Mrs. Dick Powell) wouldn't be human if she weren't excited about coming back to this studio where she reigned as one of the royal family for ten long years.

"But," June adds, "If I hadn't liked the script I wouldn't have accepted it."

June has William Holden, Walter Pidgeon, and a score of other leading men, with John Houseman as producer. She tells me she has never been happier than she is in "The Glenn Miller Story" with Jimmy Stewart at Universal-International.

There's no denying Maggie McNamara is as cute as a button, but I wonder if she isn't getting off on the wrong foot by refusing to test for the Tyrone Power picture, "King of the Khyber Rifles."

Maggie didn't show up when she was asked to report, giving the reason that 'Khyber Rifles" is a man's picture.

Although she's under contract to 20th she has not yet made a picture for them. She was in the much-discussed "Moon Is Blue" and I must say she's very good. She's so effervescent, so young, and really a good actres.

Red-haired Cara Williams Barrymore's penchant for getting in the headlines quarreling with her bridegroom, John Barrymore, Jr., isn't keeping Charles Schnee from giving her the top girl's role with Dewey Martin in "Tennessee Champ."

Well, Cara is very pretty and if she can just settle down with John, Jr., she may go far on the screen.

Keenan Wynn was added today to the cast of this MGM movie about a boy who takes up fighting to pay his way through divinity school.

Both Duke Wayne and his director, John Farrow, write from Carmango, Mexico, with enthusiasm about Warners' all-media camera.

Says Duke, "I feel that three-D is sort of like a stepbrother—it's something like my acting — no one seems to like it but the public. Look at the grosses on 'House of Wax.' "

John Farrow joins his father on location, and the two oldest Wayne boys, Michael and Robert, are already there to spend time with their father.

Duke adds, "Can't say I wish you were here — it's 105 in the shade!"

There will be no night-clubbing for Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall when the Bogarts arrive in New York from Europe next week.

That's because Bogey has been notified to start growing a beard immediately in preparation for his role in "Caine Mutiny," which starts July 30.

Bogey is afraid he'll look like a bum in New York and that he'll get a good roasting from the press. When has Bogey ever cared what anybody said before?

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Ford's Fiftieth

The Ford Motor Company's 50th anniversary program, a two-hour, half a million dollar jamboree on two networks, was a perfectly glorious roll in the hay of our recent past. Leland Hayward, making his debut as a television producer, was taking no chances.

John Crosby

He looted our heritage, especially our stage heritage, taking only the very best and most durable materials. The two plays he selected excerpts from—"Life with Father" and "Our Town" — are possibly not the best plays ever written, but they are conceivably the most American and the most beloved of our time.

Loveableness, in fact, seems to have been the keynote in all Mr. Hayward's selections both as to performers and what they performed. Some idea of the soundness of Mr. Hayward's taste can be gathered not so much by what he put into his show as by what he very carefully left out of it. He didn't, for example, include people like Bob Hope or Jackie Gleason who would have loused up the place with jokes. Both entertainers are bigger than, say, Wally Cox or Kukla, Fran and Ollie, and both would have been just exactly wrong — as Cox and Kuke were exactly right.

Even righter were the two stars who carried the heaviest burdens in the show — Ethel Merman and Mary Martin — both of whom have a special luminosity which cannot be matched by any Hollywood name. When either Miss Martin or Miss Merman sings a song—and they sang about 35 of them in the course of the evening — it sticks to your ribs for a long time afterwards. There is no more effective way to evoke memories of the past than by the popular songs of the period. It's an old trick and one that Frederick Lewis Allen, co-author of the script, frequently uses in his books. Never has he had such effective assistance as that given him by Merman and Martin in a medley of over 30 of America's best loved songs, a triumph of showmanship on the part of both girls.

Next to songs, I suppose, the most evocative remnants of the past are our clothes. The Ford show went into this rather extensively in two numbers — one a review of the changes in bathing suits in a song and dance number, another 'a hilariously witty solo job in which Miss Martin showed how the female of the species can change the contour of her body, her face and her hair almost at will. The last, I thought, was easily the best number in the show.

Mr. Cox's special contribution was as a sort of average Milquetoast American who through the years succumbs to every craze that comes along. First we find him building up his muscles, then trying to soothe his nerves, then learning the ukelele, finally learning how to dance in six easy lessons. In all cases he was not only funny but rather touching.

As promised, there was no advertising at all. There was, it's true, a bit of talk about the Model T and even a song about it, but then the Model T is as important a part of our social history as anything else. Mr. Hayward passed rather lightly over the seamier aspects of our lives — our wars, our depressions, our bloody strikes — but I feel he was justified in this because this was a happy show and, when you come right down to it, the record of the last 50 years has been in the main a happy record.

At the very end, to give a little depth to the show, the two narrators, Edward R. Murrow and Oscar Hammerstein, talked about the future. They had some mighty fine lines, too. "The people who invented war had better invent peace" — a reference to the atom bomb. "As nations go we have lived a life and not an apology." Or, from Mr. Murrow, "We're an impatient people who demand quick and easy solutions and we find ourselves in a situation which has no quick or easy solutions." I'm glad, too, that he took the time to take a slap at all the Washington witch-hunters "who confuse dissent with disloyalty."

Without once appearing to wave the flag, Mr. Hayward waved it very hard indeed. After it was all over, you couldn't resist the impression that America was a slightly wacky but an awfully nice place to have spent the last 50 years in and won't be such a bad place to spend the next 50 years in either.

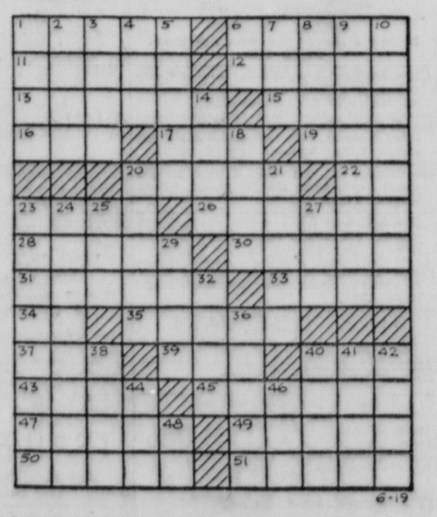
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

V A M V H M J C M V W F L A H M V C N A,
H T J W A H S T B M C Y T C Z I C J H T J
V F N B A W X, T A A J A M V T C X H S M V A S
I C — V H S L F A.

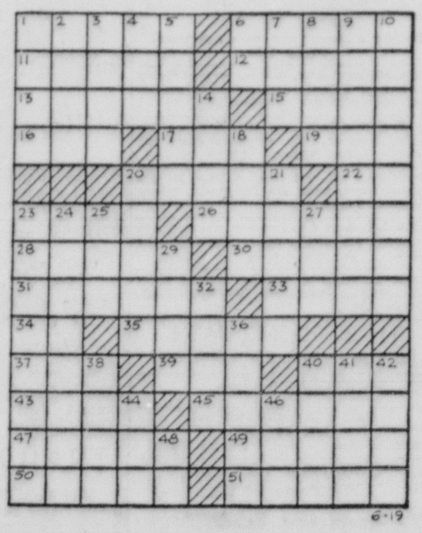
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

V A M V H M J C M V W F L A H M V C N A, H T J W A H S T B M C Y T C Z I C J H T J V F N B A W X, T A A J A M V T C X H S M V A S I C — V H S L F A.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: HE WAS THE MOST UNPOPULAR OF THE STATESMEN OF HIS TIME—MACAULAY.

Pearl R. Keith, Ellerslie, Maryland, Complainant, vs. George Lloyd Keith, Respondent. No. 23233 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the Complainant from the Respondent A VINCULO MATRIMONII.

The Bill states that the parties were married in Somerset, Pennsylvania, on October 21, 1925; that they lived together until December, 1928, on which date the Respondent abandoned and deserted the Complainant; that said abandonment has continued uninterruptedly down to the present time, is deliberate and final, and beyond hope of reconciliation.

That two children, Geraldine Frances Keith, now intermarried with Roy C. Mason, and Kenneth Lindberg Keith, both of whom are now adults, were born to the parties of this marriage, that Complainant has been a resident of Allegany County for more than one year prior to the filing of this suit, and that Respondent was last known to have been in the state of Iowa, although his present whereabouts are unknown.

It is thereupon, this 28th day of May, 1953, ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, that the Complainant causes this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once a week for four weeks before the 29th day of June, 1953, giving notice to the said George Lloyd Keith, absent Respondent, of the object and substance of this Bill and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 16th day of July, 1953, and show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Sports Grill

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, June 18 — (INS) — "There's a kid," said Frankie Frisch, "who can't miss making the Hall of Fame some day if nothing happens to him."

The old Fordham Flash, himself a distinguished member of Baseball's Hall of Fame, was referring to Ed Mathews, 21-year-old third baseman of the Braves.

"The kid has tremendous power," Frisch continued, "and he may be rewriting the record books on home runs one of these days."

Did Frankie mean Mathews might beat Babe Ruth's record of 60 homers in 1927?

"No, that one has stood up a long time with fellows like Jimmy Foxx, Hank Greenberg, Hack Wilson, Mel Ott and Johnny Mize shooting at it.

"But I think this kid Mathews will give it a real challenge one of these days. If he keeps his health he should hit at least 40 homers a year and since he's big and strong he ought to last at least a dozen more years in the majors.

"If he does that he'll set a new National League record for life-time homers. Let's take a look at the little red book.

"Here's Mel Ott's life-time NL record—511 homers. Last year Mathews started with 25 homers. But he's a cinch to make at least 40 and maybe even 50 this year. Give him a dozen years in the majors and he'll sure beat Ott's mark.

"The book shows Ruth hit 30 or more homers for 13 years and Foxx did it for 12 years. Ott did it for eight years which is the NL record.

"Now there's one the kid might make. He has a great chance to lead both leagues in homers this year and if he dosen't make at least 30 homers every year from now on I'll eat my straw hat, with or without mustard.

"The book shows Ruth hit 40 or more homers for 11 years. Mize and Kiner did it in the National League for three years. Now Mathews might miss Ruth's figures but he looks like a cinch to set a new NL record on this one.

"And it says here Ruth hit 50 or more homers four seasons and Kiner did it twice. And I wouldn't be surprised if Mathews didn't equal or break Ruth's record here, always, provided of course, that Mathews doesn't have hard luck from accidents or illness."

Frisch looked through the records again and said: "Here's another one he might make—most times leading a league in homers.

"He may not make Ruth's mark of 12 times. That one would be tougher to break than Ruth's 60 for one season. But he might equal or bust the NL record which shows Clif Cravath and Ott leading the league six years."

Frankie concluded: "Make no mistake about it. This kid Mathews is going to be a great ball player. I'd say he's a real ball player right now. His fielding has greatly improved and he's learning all the time."

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — The people of the Free State of Maryland, like the people in many another state, are coming to realize that too many matters of local government are not being handled on the local level.

There is a movement afoot, with the full support of Republican Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, to give the people of Maryland's towns and counties more say in their own affairs. Too much authority is exercised by the state lawmakers "in smoke filled star chamber sessions" in the state capital, say the advocates of "home rule."

During a recent session of the Maryland General Assembly, for example, the state's lawmakers took time to decide:

1. The bounty on certain types of owls should be abolished in one of the 23 counties.

2. The hours of opening for the court house in another county should be changed.

3. The salary of the deputy county clerk in still another county should be raised.

A TYPEWRITTEN REPORT, containing a single-spaced, single-paragraphed summary of each of the strictly local bills introduced at this year's session of the General Assembly was 78 feet long! There were almost 1,500 measures introduced of a strictly local nature, of the type listed above.

Advocates of more "home rule" for towns and counties of the state explain that often matters of the greatest import to one particular community are passed by local representatives at this state capital without the advance knowledge of the folk back home. Some times it is not until months after the General Assembly has adjourned that a town learns a particular state law affecting it has been passed.

COPIES of introduced bills often prove "scarce" at the time the state's lawmakers are getting ready to pass a new law. The details become known after action has been taken and it often is too late for local delegations to drive to the state capital to protest.

The Maryland Municipal League, an association of community leaders throughout Maryland, has been campaigning strongly for "home rule" for state towns and cities. Similar groups, conscious that just such conditions exist in many other states of the Union, are moving to have similar action taken in these other states.

This movement is gathering increasing support from the state lawmakers themselves. Progressive minded legislators have voiced the thought that their job of considering measures of state-wide import would be eased greatly if the counties, cities and towns could have this so-called "home rule."

There is still another subject requiring co-ordinating on the local, state and federal level. There is a movement afoot in Maryland to sort out the various means of taxation to prevent a city, a county and the state from imposing the same type of tax on the people of one area.

Market Follows Uncertain Course, Then Closes High

NEW YORK, JKUNE 18— (AP)—The stock market followed in uncertain course most of today and then closed a bit higher.

Advances outnumbered declines, but stock averages showed little change.

There were some gains of more than a point, and a few issues lost as much on special developments. Groups showing mild strength included rails, motors, oils, televisions, coppers and aircrafts, utilities were mostly lower as were electrical equipments, airlines and motion pictures.

Volume came to 1,010,000 shares. Yesterday's trading in a rallying market added up to 1,150,000 shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed unchanged at $105.70. The industrial index was down 10 cents at $136.80, The rail average ahead 20 cents at $85, and the utility average down 10 cents at $50.90.

Stocks advancing numbered 422 and those declining 362. Issues traded totaled 1,049 against 1,053 Wednesday. Four stocks made new highs for the year and 80 dropped to new lows.

Stocks showing advances of around a point included Atlantic Coast Line, Industrial Rayon, Kelsey-Hayes Wheel, Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal, Johns-Manville and Wenith. Smaller gains were made by U. S. Steel, General Motors, United Aircraft, Radio Corp., American Smeltin, Allied Chemical, International Paper, Chesapeake & Ohio, Standard Oil (New Jersey) and MissouripKansas-Texas preferred.

Stocks declining included Montgomery Ward, Allied Stores, Philco, American Telephone, Pacific Gas & Electric, Homestake, Air Reduction, General Electric, Southern Railway, Eastern Air Lines and Paramount.

American Gas & Electric headed the most active list, down 1 at 27½ on 58,700 shares following termination of an underwriting agreement. Second on the list was Decca Records, off ¼ at 9 on 32,100 shares.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the Complainant from the Respondent A VINCULO MATRIMONII.

The Bill states that the parties were married in Somerset, Pennsylvania, on October 21, 1925; that they lived together until December, 1928, on which date the Respondent abandoned and deserted the Complainant; that said abandonment has continued uninterruptedly down to the present time, is deliberate and final, and beyond hope of reconciliation.

That two children, Geraldine Frances Keith, now intermarried with Roy C. Mason, and Kenneth Lindberg Keith, both of whom are now adults, were born to the parties of this marriage, that Complainant has been a resident of Allegany County for more than one year prior to the filing of this suit, and that Respondent was last known to have been in the State of Iowa, although his present whereabouts are unknown.

It is thereupon, this 28th day of May, 1953, ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, that the Complainant causes this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once a week for four weeks before the 29th day of June, 1953, giving notice to the said George Lloyd Keith, absent Respondent, of the object and substance of this Bill and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 16th day of July, 1953, and show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not be passed as prayed.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, June 18 — (INS) — "There's a kid," said Frankie Frisch, "who can't miss making the Hall of Fame some day if nothing happens to him."

The old Fordham Flash, himself a distinguished member of Baseball's Hall of Fame, was referring to Ed Mathews, 21-year-old third baseman of the Braves.

"The kid has tremendous power," Frisch continued, "and he may be rewriting the record books on home runs one of these days."

Did Frankie mean Mathews might beat Babe Ruth's record of 60 homers in 1927?

"No, that one has stood up a long time with fellows like Jimmy Foxx, Hank Greenberg, Hack Wilson, Mel Ott and Johnny Mize shooting at it.

"But I think this kid Mathews will give it a real challenge one of these days. If he keeps his health he should hit at least 40 homers a year and since he's big and strong he ought to last at least a dozen more years in the majors.

"If he does that he'll set a new National League record for life-time homers. Let's take a look at the little red book.

"Here's Mel Ott's life-time NL record—511 homers. Last year Mathews started with 25 homers. But he's a cinch to make at least 40 and maybe even 50 this year. Give him a dozen years in the majors and he'll sure beat Ott's mark.

"The book shows Ruth hit 30 or more homers for 13 years and Foxx did it for 12 years. Ott did it for eight years which is the NL record.

"Now there's one the kid might make. He has a great chance to lead both leagues in homers this year and if he dosen't make at least 30 homers every year from now on I'll eat my straw hat, with or without mustard.

"The book shows Ruth hit 40 or more homers for 11 years. Mize and Kiner did it in the National League for three years. Now Mathews might miss Ruth's figures but he looks like a cinch to set a new NL record on this one.

"And it says here Ruth hit 50 or more homers four seasons and Kiner did it twice. And I wouldn't be surprised if Mathews didn't equal or break Ruth's record here, always, provided of course, that Mathews doesn't have hard luck from accidents or illness."

Frisch looked through the records again and said: "Here's another one he might make—most times leading a league in homers.

"He may not make Ruth's mark of 12 times. That one would be tougher to break than Ruth's 60 for one season. But he might equal or bust the NL record which shows Clif Cravath and Ott leading the league six years."

Frankie concluded: "Make no mistake about it. This kid Mathews is going to be a great ball player. I'd say he's a real ball player right now. His fielding has greatly improved and he's learning all the time."

Maryland Assembly Passes 78 Feet of 'Local Level' Bills

List of local bills is 78 feet long!

By A. VERNON DAVIS
Central Press Correspondent

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — The people of the Free State of Maryland, like the people in many another state, are coming to realize that too many matters of local government are not being handled on the local level.

There is a movement afoot, with the full support of Republican Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, to give the people of Maryland's towns and counties more say in their own affairs. Too much authority is exercised by the state lawmakers "in smoke filled star chamber sessions" in the state capital, say the advocates of "home rule."

During a recent session of the Maryland General Assembly, for example, the state's lawmakers took time to decide:

1. The bounty on certain types of owls should be abolished in one of the 23 counties.

2. The hours of opening for the court house in another county should be changed.

3. The salary of the deputy county clerk in still another county should be raised.

A TYPEWRITTEN REPORT, containing a single-spaced, single-paragraphed summary of each of the strictly local bills introduced at this year's session of the General Assembly was 78 feet long! There were almost 1,500 measures introduced of a strictly local nature, of the type listed above.

Advocates of more "home rule" for towns and counties of the state explain that often matters of the greatest import to one particular community are passed by local representatives at this state capital without the advance knowledge of the folk back home. Some times it is not until months after the General Assembly has adjourned that a town learns a particular state law affecting it has been passed.

COPIES of introduced bills often prove "scarce" at the time the state's lawmakers are getting ready to pass a new law. The details become known after action has been taken and it often is too late for local delegations to drive to the state capital to protest.

The Maryland Municipal League, an association of community leaders throughout Maryland, has been campaigning strongly for "home rule" for state towns and cities. Similar groups, conscious that just such conditions exist in many other states of the Union, are moving to have similar action taken in these other states.

This movement is gathering increasing support from the state lawmakers themselves. Progressive minded legislators have voiced the thought that their job of considering measures of state-wide import would be eased greatly if the counties, cities and towns could have this so-called "home rule."

There is still another subject requiring co-ordinating on the local, state and federal level. There is a movement afoot in Maryland to sort out the various means of taxation to prevent a city, a county and the state from imposing the same type of tax on the people of one area.

The auburn-haired, green-eyed beauty will represent Western Maryland in the Miss Maryland contest here this summer. Physician, Wife Injured As Car Strikes Bridge

Washington Couple In Local Hospital

A Washington physician and his wife were admitted to Memorial Hospital after their automobile went out of control and struck Town Creek Bridge on U. S. 40 east of Flintstone yesterday morning.

Dr. Claude F. Young, 65, and Mrs. Bess M. Young, 60, both of 2400 16th Street, N.W., Washington, were in "fair" condition last night at the hospital.

Formerly operator of a clinic at Fort Scott, Kansas, Dr. Young retired from active practice a year ago. He is national secretary-general of the Scottish Rite Shrine.

Dr. Young had a fracture of the right ankle and a deep scalp laceration, and Mrs. Young had a fractured right ankle and possible fractures of the hip and ribs.

State Police Trooper First Class Donald R. Wade said Dr. Young was driving west on U. S. 40 at about 9:15 a.m. when his Cadillac failed to negotiate a curve at the foot of Polish Mountain, two miles east of Flintstone.

The car smashed against the concrete bridge and was badly damaged. Dr. and Mrs. Young were traveling alone when the accident happened.

In another accident yesterday morning, six persons were slightly injured when two cars collided on Cooper Mountain 15 miles east of Romney, W. Va., on U. S. 50.

West Virginia State Police at Romney said all were treated at Winchester (Va.) Memorial Hospital and were released. All were residents of the Washington-Baltimore area.

Misunderstanding Cleared In Case Involving Tractor

Authorities yesterday cleared up a misunderstanding in the case involving the alleged theft of a tractor from Sheriff Edward R. Muir who was legally in possession of the property under an attachment.

Gerald E. Atkinson, RFD 3, Christie Road, Wednesday posted $1,000 bond for his appearance at next term of Circuit Court after he waived a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrate Court on a charge of larceny involving a tractor.

It was first reported that Atkinson broke a padlock of a building housing the tractor which was then in the possession of Sheriff Muir. County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya and Sheriff Muir yesterday said the padlock was broken from a chain around the tractor which was located in a lot. No building was involved.

Sheriff Muir last month filed a suit against Herbert M. Wilson, North Mechanic Street auto dealer whom he charges allegedly accepted the tractor in part payment for an auto purchased from him.

Maryland Bar Association To Announce Essay Winner

Winner of the state-wide Maryland Bar Association essay contest concerning a constitutional subject will be announced at the annual meeting of the bar in Atlantic City on Saturday by William C. Walsh of Cumberland.

Walsh, chairman of the association's American Citizenship Committee, will leave today to attend the convention and on Saturday morning also will present a report on his committee's activities.

The essay contest, with the winner receiving a prize of $500 cash, was held in the counties and in Baltimore City this past year with local winners being named in each instance. Locally, first place was won by Barbara Loraditch who graduated from St. Patrick's School two weeks ago.

Essays submitted by each of the local winners in the state were then submitted to the state-wide judges for selection of a state winner. After Walsh announces the winner on Saturday and presents the prize, the author will read his essay.

State-wide judges were Simon E. Sobeloff, chief judge of the Court of Appeals, chairman; W. Conwell Smith, chief judge of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City; Dean Roger Howell, head of the University of Maryland School of Law; Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of education, and Edward S. Burke, retiring president of the state bar association.

A number of Allegany County attorneys already have left for the convention which opened yesterday at the Hotel Traymore in Atlantic City.

Oldtown Soldier Loses Both Legs

Serious battle wounds received by Sgt. Paul V. Carder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Carder of Oldtown, have resulted in the amputation of both of his legs below the knees.

A Defense Department telegram notifying his mother of his wounds was received yesterday in Oldtown.

The telegram said that Sgt. Carder was seriously wounded in action in Korea June 12. It added that he sustained multiple wounds on the lower parts of both legs which resulted in amputation. His wounds were attributed to grenade fire.

A 26-year old veteran of World War II, Sgt. Carder had served all but seven months of a three-year post-war enlistment. He had been in Korea for some time. Other relatives besides his parents are six sisters and four brothers.

Gets One-Year Term

A local mother was sentenced to one year in the Maryland Women's Reformatory yesterday in Allegany County Juvenile Court on a charge of neglecting her child.

Equity Suits Filed

Two equity suits were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Vivian B. Short vs. Raymond S. Short and Roselan J. Hochard vs. George A. Hochard.

Mayor, Council Pay Boost Here Termed Legal

BALTIMORE, June 17 (AP) — Pay raises for Cumberland's mayor and city council are legal, says the Maryland attorney general, even though Gov. McKeldin signed the bill providing them after the traditional June 1 deadline.

Explaining his ruling announced last week, Attorney General Edward D. E. Rollins said neither the constitution nor state law fixes a time limit for presentation of bills to the governor after the Legislature approves them.

Actually, McKeldin had signed earlier what was believed to be a correct version of the bill. Later it was discovered to be one containing House amendments instead of one adopted after a conference compromise by committees of the House and Senate.

Excerpts from Rollins' ruling, made public today, included the opinion that the version presented first to McKeldin was "a complete nullity" because it had not been passed by both houses.

"We are satisfied that if appropriate steps are taken by the proper officials to present the correct version to you, and you promptly sign it, said the ruling, "then it will become a valid subsisting law."

Judge Affirms $1,700 Verdict

A court order affirming a $1,700 jury verdict in a recent State Roads Commission condemnation case and directing that a judgement for that amount be entered has been signed in Allegany County Circuit Court by Associate Judge George Henderson.

The $1,700 award went to Arthur G. Clise and Cecelia M. Clise for some of their land which the State Roads Commission needs in the improvement of State Route 55 between Vale Summit and Miller.

A jury verdict was returned in the case May 28 and the following day attorneys for the State Roads Commission filed a motion for a new trial.

Mrs. Kalbaugh's Six Suits Next In Crash Cases

Widowed Mother Asks For $154,500

Next suits scheduled for trial Tuesday in Allegany County Circuit Court as a result of the tragic McMullen Highway accident of last August 31 which killed five young men are six actions in which Mrs. Genevieve Yvonne Kalbaugh, widowed mother of three small children seeks a total of $154,500.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris will preside at the jury trial.

Mrs. Kalbaugh's husband, Charles Lee Kalbaugh, 28-year-old Westernport man, was one of the five victims of the crash.

In three of the suits Mrs. Kalbaugh seeks $50,000 each from James Moran, administrator of the estate of Richard Moran; Elizabeth A. Gilmore, administratrix of the estate of Timothy M. Gilmore, and Lewis Howard Allwine and Lewis Thomas Allwine, both of Highland Park, N. J., for use of herself and children.

Kalbaugh was a passenger in Richard Moran's car which was being driven by Timothy Gilmore when the crash occurred. Both Moran and Gilmore were killed in the smashup. The Moran car struck another automobile belonging to Lewis Thomas Allwine which had been stopped along the north side of the highway facing toward Cumberland near Pinto and driven by Lewis Howard Allwine, his son.

Mrs. Kalbaugh, as administratrix of her husband's estate, also asks for $1,500 each from the same defendants for her husband's funeral expenses.

Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., and Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., are attorneys for Mrs. Kalbaugh. Defense attorneys are William C. Walsh, William A. Gunter, Louis A. Fatkin, W. Earle Cobey and C. William Gilchrist.

In the first trial growing out of this crash, Mrs. Joretta Proudfoot Allwine, Rowlesburg, W. Va., who was sitting in the Allwine car when the crash occurred, won an $11,000 jury verdict against both the Gilmore and Moran estates. She was badly cut about the face in the accident.

Appeals Court Gets Local Case

Attorneys for Mrs. Mollie Williams, 76-year old Gilmore woman who lost her $30,000 damage suit against McCrory's Stores Corporation, yesterday filed an order in Allegany County Circuit Court for an appeal to the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Mrs. Williams was seriously injured May 12, 1952, when she fell off a lunch counter stool at the McCrory store on Baltimore Street.

At the jury trial May 11, Associate Judge George Henderson granted a motion for a directed verdict for the defendant after all of the evidence was heard. Two days later, Attorneys Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, representing Mrs. Williams, moved for a new trial. This week Judge Henderson refused the motion and entered a judgment for the defendants. The store was represented by Attorneys W. Earle Cobey and C. William Gilchrist.

Bookmaking Trial Scheduled July 10 In Hagerstown

The bookmaking trial of Edward Capel, Leonard Little and Thomas Neff, this city, has now been docketed for Friday, July 10, in Washington County Circuit Court at Hagerstown, according to J. Guy Weagley, clerk of court there.

Capel, Little and Neff were indicted by an Allegany County Circuit Court grand jury last October on two charges of bookmaking at the Queen City Billiards, 19 North Liberty Street. The cases were removed to Washington County and were entered on the docket there last November 4. They have been continued several times since then.

Allegany County State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher and Washington County States's Attorney John S. Hollyday will prosecute the case. The defense attorneys are Harold E. Naughton, this city, and C. F. Wagaman of Hagerstown.

29th Vets May Protest Moving Of Smith Statue

Will Convene This Week In Baltimore

BALTIMORE, June 18 (AP)—Twenty Ninth Division veterans open their annual state convention here next Saturday and have tabbed for consideration a resolution opposing transfer of the General Sam Smith statue from its site at Charles and 29th Streets.

It has been suggested that the statue of the hero of the 1814 defense of Baltimore be moved to the park site which bears his name at Pratt and Light Streets.

The move is proposed as a remedy for traffic problems on Charles Street.

The resolution argues that the park site did not exist during Gen. Smith's lifetime, but that he daily passed the site of the present location of his statue.

The convention will be called into session Saturday afternoon by State Commander Benjamin F. Cassell. Lt. Col. G. Walter Brooks of Baltimore, national commander of the association, will preside at a session of the national executive committee.

New state officers will be elected Sunday.

Plans Outlined For Sport Car Races July 19

Event To Be Held At Local Airport

Preliminary plans for the sports car races to be held at the Cumberland Airport, Sunday, July 19, have been completed between officials of the Sports Car Club of America, Pittsburgh, and representatives of the Cumberland Lions Club.

A tentative program for July 19 was outlined. This includes several 10-mile events, a 20-mile, 50-mile and the feature race of 100 miles. Included in these races will be one for novices and one for ladies. All these contests are to be driven over a closed course approximately two miles long. Only the hard surface airport runways and taxi strip will be used for the track. This will enable spectators to see the entire field of contesting cars at all times. In addition, a communication and public address system manned by experienced racing officials and commentators, will keep spectators informed on all aspects of the races, and judges decisions.

Workers Clear Tracks After Train Derails

Crewmen Unhurt, 20 Cattle Killed

Both eastbound and westbound tracks were reported cleared last night just west of Martinsburg where 20 cars of a fast eastbound B&O freight were derailed early yesterday morning.

Cumberland Division officials here said the 20 cars left the track at 12:32 a. m. yesterday at the control tower in the West Cumbo yards scattering merchandise, dead cattle and hogs over the area.

Officials added that none of the train crew were injured, but 20 of 21 Hereford beef cattle in one car were killed instantly.

The 101 hogs in another car were not killed but were scattered over the countryside in panic. Officials last night said most of the animals were recovered, however.

Although cause of the wreck was not known late last night, railroad officials said the 39th to the 61st cars in the 103-car train were derailed, blocking two eastbound and one westbound tracks on the B&O main line.

Officials reported that the tracks were cleared late last night but workers were still on the job clearing wreckage. Until the tracks were cleared, traffic was rerouted over a bypass track in the West Cumbo yards.

Three passenger trains, one westbound and two eastbound, were delayed for a time, but traffic soon was sent on its way over the bypass.

On the scene all day yesterday were about 200 workers and two cranes, one from Cumberland and the other from Brunswick.

Eight of the freight cars were demolished, according to rail officials, while all of the others derailed were damaged.

Five of the cars contained metal stripping for airfields, two were empty tank cars, two filled with autos and three with oranges.

In the other cars were butchered beef, powdered milk, furniture, lumber, machinery, glass plate, merchandise, hogs and cattle.

Engineer on the freight train, Train No. 6, a fast freight bound for Philadelphia and New York, was Harry L. Larrick, 448 Pennsylvania Avenue, this city, and conductor was Steven A. Ramsburg, 518 Dryer Avenue.

Yesterday's wreck was the second bad B&O wreck in less than a month. Several weeks ago about 29 loaded cars derailed and wrecked near Hancock on the Cumberland Division.

Physician, Wife Injured As Car Strikes Bridge

Washington Couple In Local Hospital

A Washington physician and his wife were admitted to Memorial Hospital after their automobile went out of control and struck Town Creek Bridge on U. S. 40 east of Flintstone yesterday morning.

Dr. Claude F. Young, 65, and Mrs. Bess M. Young, 60, both of 2400 16th Street, N.W., Washington, were in "fair" condition last night at the hospital.

Formerly operator of a clinic at Fort Scott, Kansas, Dr. Young retired from active practice a year ago. He is national secretary-general of the Scottish Rite Shrine.

Dr. Young had a fracture of the right ankle and a deep scalp laceration, and Mrs. Young had a fractured right ankle and possible fractures of the hip and ribs.

The car smashed against the concrete bridge and was badly damaged. Dr. and Mrs. Young were traveling alone when the accident happened.

Misunderstanding Cleared In Case Involving Tractor

Authorities yesterday cleared up a misunderstanding in the case involving the alleged theft of a tractor from Sheriff Edward R. Muir who was legally in possession of the property under an attachment.

Gerald E. Atkinson, RFD 3, Christie Road, Wednesday posted $1,000 bond for his appearance at next term of Circuit Court after he waived a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrate Court on a charge of larceny involving a tractor.

It was first reported that Atkinson broke a padlock of a building housing the tractor which was then in the possession of Sheriff Muir. County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya and Sheriff Muir yesterday said the padlock was broken from a chain around the tractor which was located in a lot. No building was involved.

Sheriff Muir last month filed a suit against Herbert M. Wilson, North Mechanic Street auto dealer whom he charges allegedly accepted the tractor in part payment for an auto purchased from him.

Mayor, Council Pay Boost Here Termed Legal

BALTIMORE, June 17 (AP) — Pay raises for Cumberland's mayor and city council are legal, says the Maryland attorney general, even though Gov. McKeldin signed the bill providing them after the traditional June 1 deadline.

Explaining his ruling announced last week, Attorney General Edward D. E. Rollins said neither the constitution nor state law fixes a time limit for presentation of bills to the governor after the Legislature approves them.

Actually, McKeldin had signed earlier what was believed to be a correct version of the bill. Later it was discovered to be one containing House amendments instead of one adopted after a conference compromise by committees of the House and Senate.

Excerpts from Rollins' ruling, made public today, included the opinion that the version presented first to McKeldin was "a complete nullity" because it had not been passed by both houses.

"We are satisfied that if appropriate steps are taken by the proper officials to present the correct version to you, and you promptly sign it, said the ruling, "then it will become a valid subsisting law."

Mrs. Kalbaugh's Six Suits Next In Crash Cases

Widowed Mother Asks For $154,500

Next suits scheduled for trial Tuesday in Allegany County Circuit Court as a result of the tragic McMullen Highway accident of last August 31 which killed five young men are six actions in which Mrs. Genevieve Yvonne Kalbaugh, widowed mother of three small children seeks a total of $154,500.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris will preside at the jury trial.

Mrs. Kalbaugh's husband, Charles Lee Kalbaugh, 28-year-old Westernport man, was one of the five victims of the crash.

In three of the suits Mrs. Kalbaugh seeks $50,000 each from James Moran, administrator of the estate of Richard Moran; Elizabeth A. Gilmore, administratrix of the estate of Timothy M. Gilmore, and Lewis Howard Allwine and Lewis Thomas Allwine, both of Highland Park, N. J., for use of herself and children.

Kalbaugh was a passenger in Richard Moran's car which was being driven by Timothy Gilmore when the crash occurred. Both Moran and Gilmore were killed in the smashup. The Moran car struck another automobile belonging to Lewis Thomas Allwine which had been stopped along the north side of the highway facing toward Cumberland near Pinto and driven by Lewis Howard Allwine, his son.

Mrs. Kalbaugh, as administratrix of her husband's estate, also asks for $1,500 each from the same defendants for her husband's funeral expenses.

Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., and Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., are attorneys for Mrs. Kalbaugh. Defense attorneys are William C. Walsh, William A. Gunter, Louis A. Fatkin, W. Earle Cobey and C. William Gilchrist.

In the first trial growing out of this crash, Mrs. Joretta Proudfoot Allwine, Rowlesburg, W. Va., who was sitting in the Allwine car when the crash occurred, won an $11,000 jury verdict against both the Gilmore and Moran estates. She was badly cut about the face in the accident.

Attorneys for Mrs. Mollie Williams, 76-year old Gilmore woman who lost her $30,000 damage suit against McCrory's Stores Corporation, yesterday filed an order in Allegany County Circuit Court for an appeal to the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Mrs. Williams was seriously injured May 12, 1952, when she fell off a lunch counter stool at the McCrory store on Baltimore Street.

At the jury trial May 11, Associate Judge George Henderson granted a motion for a directed verdict for the defendant after all of the evidence was heard. Two days later, Attorneys Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, representing Mrs. Williams, moved for a new trial. This week Judge Henderson refused the motion and entered a judgment for the defendants. The store was represented by Attorneys W. Earle Cobey and C. William Gilchrist.

29th Vets May Protest Moving Of Smith Statue

Will Convene This Week In Baltimore

BALTIMORE, June 18 (AP)—Twenty Ninth Division veterans open their annual state convention here next Saturday and have tabbed for consideration a resolution opposing transfer of the General Sam Smith statue from its site at Charles and 29th Streets.

It has been suggested that the statue of the hero of the 1814 defense of Baltimore be moved to the park site which bears his name at Pratt and Light Streets.

The move is proposed as a remedy for traffic problems on Charles Street.

The resolution argues that the park site did not exist during Gen. Smith's lifetime, but that he daily passed the site of the present location of his statue.

The convention will be called into session Saturday afternoon by State Commander Benjamin F. Cassell. Lt. Col. G. Walter Brooks of Baltimore, national commander of the association, will preside at a session of the national executive committee.

New state officers will be elected Sunday.
